Washington, D. C., June 7.—(AP)—Three outstanding industrialists—Walter C. Teagle of Standard Oil, Alfred P. Sloan of General Motors, and Gerard Swope of General Electric—tonight were reported ready to accept appointment by Hugh S. Johnson to aid in the administration of the industrial act.

Announcement of their selection as part of a five man board which will represent industry in considering trade agreements under the legislation was said to await only enactment of the bill by congress.

This is expected to come before the end of the week, with President Roosevelt affixing his signature and appointing Mr. Johnson as administrator.

Picks Labor Representatives.

As representatives of labor, Johnson has chosen Donald R. Richberg, a co-drafter of the bill and counsel for the Association of Railway executives, and Leo Wolman, a labor expert and professor at Columbia university.

Mr. Johnson was described as intending to set up a board of ten men drawn equally from industry and labor. From the standpoint of the groups they represent, they will be charged with aiding the administrator in the "fair and impartial" handling of the legislation which he promised last week in addressing the National Association of Manufacturers.

The legislation provides specifically that services may be accepted without compensation and creation of the advisory board would follow along the lines of the "dollar a year" men whom President Wilson called to his aid during the world war.

SENATORS FIGHT BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—Night sessions were threatened today by administration leaders as strong senate opposition developed against the industrial control-public works bill. The measure has been passed by the house.

The bill, with its provisions for government control of industry, a 3 billion 300 million dollar public works program, and a 220 million dollar schedule of new taxes, had barely started on its way, however, when it was brought up short by a combination of senate radicals and conservatives.

Reed, Borah, Huey Long.

Senator Huey Long, Louisiana radical; Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho], Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.], and Senator David A. Reed, regular Republican, of Pennsylvania, joined to oppose the bill's advancement.

That alignment caused Senator Reed, when Senator Long remarked that he and the "senator from Pennsylvania do not often see alike," to retort:

"Yes, I've been wondering how I was wrong."

Radicals and conservatives were opposed to the bill's proposal to abate the anti-trust laws wherever and whenever they conflict with the trade and industrial combinations contemplated by the industrial control plan.

Senator Borah was spokesman for the group opposed to setting aside the anti-trust laws for not more than two years, saying once relaxed they never again could be successfully imposed. Small, independent business would be crushed by great "combines," he said, through the drawing up of the trade codes.

Sees Threat of Prison.

"After these combines have made their codes," he said, "if some American citizen desires to start his own business, the combines may not only dominate him with their economic power, but send him to the penitentiary for seeking to pursue his legitimate business in the United States. The elder Rockefeller did not need the help of any criminal law when he was building up his wealth. But the bill would give to the combines not only the power to write their code, but power to indict and prosecute the man who violated the code."

Senator Robert Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], one of the bill's authors, argued: "The small industries under the present law cannot meet for coöperative purposes to agree on wages, hours of labor and other practices. The result is the creation of the large enterprises of which the senator complains."

"But," Senator Borah replied,

Electric and Gas Rates Will Be Cut

COMPANIES ACT AFTER HORNER MEETS SIMPSON

Conference to Set Prices Later.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—The Chicago utility companies are ready to make a voluntary reduction in rates to gas and electric consumers. This was learned tonight following a conference between Gov. Horner and James Simpson, head of the companies.

To make possible a reduction in rates to consumers the companies say they are prepared to reduce the dividends to stockholders. If the plan is accepted it will be the second reduction in dividends made since the retirement of the Insull management a year ago.

Three Companies Involved.

Mr. Simpson is chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company, the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The former companies serve the city of Chicago proper while the Public Service company furnishes gas and electrical energy in the metropolitan district surrounding Chicago. Each of the companies is prepared to adjust its present charges to customers.

Mr. Simpson conferred with the governor today for an hour and a half. He arrived here by plane accompanied by George A. Ranney, vice chairman and chief finance officer of the utility companies. Mr. Ranney and Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the commerce commission, participated in the conference.

Mr. Simpson told Gov. Horner that his companies were opposed to several of the features of the Sinnett-Lindheimer utility control bill which the administration is aggressively sponsoring in the house.

Oppose Added Control.

In Mr. Simpson's view, the particularly objectionable features of the bill are those granting sumptuary powers to the commission over utility rates and operations.

Mr. Simpson told the governor that the companies are willing to sit down with the commission and discuss an adjustment of rates.

Following the conference Mr. Simpson departed immediately by plane for Chicago. He declined to comment on the meeting. He referred all inquiries to Gov. Horner.

"Mr. Simpson requested the interview and he and Mr. Ranney, like any other citizen and taxpayer, were entitled to a hearing," Gov. Horner said at the conclusion of the meeting.

"Mr. Simpson assured me," the governor said, "of his willingness to sit down with the commission and discuss an adjustment of rates.

Time for Voluntary Reduction.

"I told him I was glad to hear it and that there is still time for a voluntary reduction. Also I reminded him that my desire for a reduction was well known and that there has been plenty of opportunity for such voluntary reductions by the utilities during the five months I have been in office.

"The financial positions of the Chicago companies were discussed in general terms by Mr. Simpson and Mr. Ranney. They pointed out that there had been a considerable reduction in business and that the federal government has imposed a tax on manufacturers which added to the expense of the utilities. I told them that the commission should properly take that into consideration in figuring the cost of production."

The governor said he told Mr. Simpson that he would use all his power to put through his legislative program on utilities regulation.

"We did not discuss the Sinnett bill in detail," he added. "Mr. Simpson said he had no information as to the identity of the lobby which is opposing the bill."

Nettled by Delay.

The governor expressed dissatisfaction at the delay encountered by the bill in the house committee. If there is further delay the house should take the bill away from the committee, he said.

It was reported about the statehouse today that considerable coolness to the bill has developed among Democratic leaders in the legislature.

The reduction in rates by the three companies will necessitate a reduction of about 25 per cent in dividends, it is understood.

SKETCHES OF THE NEWS

MILE A MINUTE TRAIN HITS BOY, 3, BUT HE'S UNHURT

Arthur King, 3 years old, wandered away from his home at 4021 Lake Park avenue last evening and climbed the Illinois Central electric suburban railroad abutment. He trudged down the sandy path followed by a stray puppy he had made friends with. At 43d street, after peering up the tracks through his thick lensed spectacles, Arthur turned to cross the steel rails.

Half a dozen men and women standing on the 43d street station platform cried out in horror. Bearing down on the boy was a north bound passenger train speeding at 60 miles an hour. Before they could call a warning the boy was struck a glancing blow and sent spinning. The train stopped with a screech of brakes several hundred yards down the track.

The train crew took the child to the Illinois Central hospital, where physicians found that beyond a small bruise on his head and a few scratches on his cheeks from his broken glasses he was unhurt. He was kept at the hospital to recover from shock.

Machado Will Quit; Tells Plan to Pacify Cuba

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, June 7.—President Gerardo Machado announced tonight that he will act immediately to get the Cuban constitution overhauled. He said he would resign as president soon after this overhauling had restored the vice presidency.

Under this program Machado's resignation would probably take place by April, 1934. The vice president, who would be elected by congress according to the proposed constitutional revision, would succeed Machado and remain in office until May 20, 1935, when his successor, to be elected in general elections in November, 1934, would take office.

This method of replacing Machado is credited to Sumner Welles, United States ambassador, who is understood to have worked it out with the president as a means of bringing order out of the chaotic Cuban political situation.

May Choose Cespedes.

Reliable information indicates that Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, former secretary of state and ambassador to the United States, will be chosen by congress as vice president.

"I have often stated that I favor constitutional reform to satisfy public opinion which is clearly manifested," the president told press representatives in making his announcement tonight. "Among the reforms I recommend as most important is the restoration of the vice presidency. Accordingly, constitutional revision will be undertaken immediately to reëstablish this office.

"Its occupant furthermore will fill my office until the end of my own term [May 20, 1935] and should not aspire to any office in the 1934 general elections."

Asks Help of U. S. Professor.

Machado announced that he has asked Dr. Howard Lee McBain, dean of political science at Columbia university, to aid the electoral tribunal in making amendments to the existing electoral code in preparation for the election of a constituent assembly. Existing political parties will be reorganized and guarantees will be offered to groups of voters who are not members of existing parties to form their own new parties, he said.

Oppositionists were inclined to look askance tonight at Machado's pronouncement. The Union Nacionalista issued a statement demanding that congress permit the thousands of exiled Cubans to return to take part in the reforms.

BIG 'SHEEP MAN OF WEST' SHEARS A CATTLE RAISER

Andrew L. Vig, of Opal, S. D., sold a carload of cattle at the stockyards yesterday. Then he started down town and on an elevated train met a stranger who said he was Louis Piper of Glacier Park, Mont.

Mr. Piper said he had bought some pure bred sheep and was going to take them back with him. He was on his way, he continued, to a laboratory in the Pure Oil building to get a report on tests to show the sheep were free from disease.

Downtown Mr. Vig waited while Mr. Piper went into the building and a little later the man from Montana returned and said he had to have $40 to pay for the tests. Mr. Vig let him have the money and hasn't seen him since.

Last night at the detective bureau Mr. Vig looked at con men's photographs and announced that one De-Witt Basker was the pseudo sheep man from Montana.

BRIDE HELPS RAISE FEE TO BUY LICENSE

Tacoma, Wash., June 7.—(AP)—A bashful couple appeared before Arnold C. Schrup, county official, for a marriage license.

"How much did you say?" the bridegroom asked.

"It will cost you just $4.50."

Waiter Upsets Kettle and Scalds Col. Roosevelt

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TEHERAN, Persia, June 7.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, former governor general of the Philippines, suffered a painful accident Sunday when a waiter, T. Birjand, upset a kettle of boiling water over his legs. He now is virtually recovered after staying two days in the American hospital at Meshed. The colonel is on an unofficial visit in Persia as the guest of the United States minister, Charles Hart.

Bare Wire Touches Faucet; Girl, 3, Is Electrocuted

Ethel Vondracek, 3 years old, 2216 South Troy street, was killed in her home last night when she touched a faucet which was in contact with an exposed electric wire. Her father, Charles, was shocked, but not injured, when he touched the faucet in going to the aid of the child.

Mattern Down in Siberia; Aid Sent by Russia

BULLETIN.

The accident occurred at Croydon airport just after they started to rise from the field at 5:50 a. m. (11:50 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time Wednesday).

Neither of the noted flyers was injured. The plane traveled about 100 yards and toppled over.

MOSCOW, June 8 [Thursday].—(AP)—Jimmie Mattern, American around the world flyer, was forced down yesterday at Prokotevsk, Siberia, about 168 miles southeast of Novo-Sibirsk. Officials here were advised that the landing was made because of a motor breakdown. During the landing the tail of the plane was broken, and local mechanics were assisting in making repairs.

Mattern, who is attempting to break the around the world speed record of 8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes set by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in 1931, took off from Omsk, Siberia, at 1:10 a. m. yesterday Moscow time [5:10 p. m., Tuesday, Chicago daylight saving time] on a projected 1,700 mile flight to Chita.

Sighted at Novo-Sibirsk.

Three hours later he passed over Novo-Sibirsk, 400 miles to the east, and then dropped out of sight until located at Prokotevsk. He had been overdue at Chita many hours and the soviet authorities had begun a search for him.

(Maps show the Prokotevsk is southeast of Novo-Sibirsk and off the course of Mattern's scheduled route to Krasnoyarsk, Irkutsk, and Chita.)

The exact time for his landing at Prokotevsk was not given in the first brief advices reaching Moscow. An airplane, carrying an expert mechanic, was dispatched by soviet officials from Novo-Sibirsk to assist the Texas aviator.

Prokotevsk is a small coal mining center. If it has any landing facilities at all they are of an emergency variety, because the town is not a station on the regular air line.

Falls Behind Post-Gatty.

When he passed Novo-Sibirsk Mattern was just one hour and 43 minutes behind the pace set by Post and Gatty when they hung up their world circling record.

Just before Mattern passed over Novo-Sibirsk he was 11 hours and 14 minutes behind the Post-Gatty timetable. The strange result of cutting the Post-Gatty lead by merely flying over the city arises from the fact that Post and Gatty stopped at Novo-Sibirsk and stayed there 9 hours and 30 minutes. Mattern kept right on going.

By his landing at Prokotevsk, however, the Texan again has fallen far behind Post and Gatty.

Trouble with Fuel Feed.

New York, June 7.—(AP)—Jack Clark, representative of Jimmie Mattern here, expressed the opinion that trouble with his gasoline feed system had forced the flyer down in Siberia. Clark heard the news of the mishap tonight with dismay.

"Jimmie was having trouble with his gasoline pump when he left Omsk," Clark said. "The motor failed and he had to pump fuel from his rear tank by hand. My guess would be that that was what forced him down, but of course it could have been almost anything."

ALL TIME JUNE RECORD IS SET BY TORRID WAVE

Within 3° of City's Hottest Day.

Yesterday was the hottest June day Chicago has known in the sixty-three years that weather bureau records have been kept.

At 4:30 and at 5 p. m. the mercury in the official thermometer stood at an even 100 degrees.

Today, according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel, will be extremely warm, but by evening showers are expected to bring a reaction to milder temperatures. Moderate thermometer readings, with a breeze from the lake, are anticipated tomorrow.

"It should become increasingly cloudy during the day," the forecaster said. "This may act to hold down the temperature. If the sun shines much, however, we may reach 95. It is difficult to tell just when the rains will get here. The heat wave has been sluggish in its movements and conditions were almost the same in this section yesterday and on Tuesday. I can hardly see how the rains can hold off longer than the evening, however."

Previous June Record 99 Degrees.

No other June 7 on the records has had a reading higher than 92. That mark was reached in 1914. The previous June record was set on the 30th in 1913, when 99 was recorded. Thus the 100 of yesterday sets three records—for the date, for the month and for all months before July. The all time high for the city, incidentally, was 103, on July 21, 1901.

Only fourteen times in sixty-three years has 100 degrees been reached here. The last time was in July, 1930. Before that there had been no reading so high since 1918.

Mercury Climbs Steadily.

The progress of the mercury toward the century mark was made in a steady, inexorable climb. Lake winds which had saved the city from similar heat on Tuesday died away that afternoon.

At midnight it was 79 degrees, and the lowest for yesterday was 78 at 6 and 7 a. m. The succeeding hours witnessed a steady rise. It was 80, then 83, then 86, then 88 and by noon 90. At 1 p. m. 92 was reached. After that it really began to get hot. At 2 o'clock it was 95 and at 3 the reading was 97. Next at 4 p. m. the official mark was 99.4. The finish, at 100, was accomplished a half-hour later and that mark endured for nearly an hour.

Drop in Evening.

The retreat to lower readings was gradual and the last official reading, at 10 p. m., showed 89. At the airport the official reading was 75 at 3 o'clock this morning. Unofficial readings in the loop were 85.

In the early part of the day yesterday the discomfort from the heat was aggravated by a relative humidity of about 55 per cent. This later changed and in the afternoon the relative humidity was low. Mr. Donnel explained that it would have been impossible for 100 to be reached with a high humidity. It is difficult, he said, for the sun to heat moist air.

The entire central part of the United States was caught in the heat wave, and although the plains to the west have been cooled somewhat by clouded skies, there was no rain within several hundred miles of Chicago.

Great suffering from the torrid conditions was reported.

Heat Contributes to 9 Deaths.

Nine deaths in Chicago were attributed in part to the heat. Most of the victims died of heart disease after becoming overheated. They were Mrs. Victoria Ponnha, 60 years old, 1253 Holt street; Peter Siezka, 43 years old, 2329 North Spaulding avenue; Harry Davis, colored, 44 years old, 5019 East 34th place; Jacob Oaks, 72 years old, 1631 North Halsted street; Robert Duff, 73 years old, 3557 West Cermak road; Mrs. Jennie Morris, 55 years old, 140 Swan street; Brady Martensen, 45 years old, 7647 West 62d place, Argo; Mrs. Frances Henninger, 45 years old, 2030 Pensacola avenue; and William Burns, 60 years old, 2048 Mohawk street.

Heat Afflicts Five at Fair.

At A Century of Progress Exposition five persons were treated for heat prostration. The most serious case was that of Anthony Bern, 7310 Clarence avenue, a bass horn player in the Commonwealth Edison band. He collapsed while playing on Northerly Island.

The city's twenty-odd miles of lake front were crowded during the day and the evening by sweltering Chicagoans.

Attention was called to the fact that many families in the poorer sections of the city are suffering for want of ice. To meet this need THE TRIBUNE will begin today to accept donations to its free ice fund. So piteous were the appeals for ice yesterday that the United Charities, administrator of the fund, was authorized to begin deliveries at once to homes where food for small children and infants must be kept wholesome. Contributions should be addressed to Free Ice Fund, care THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Order Curb on Sprinkling.

The heat wave furnished city officials with a new set of problems. One of the most serious was the water supply. Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt recommended, and Police Commissioner Allman ordered, that all policemen should enforce strictly the regulations concerning sprinkling of lawns. The demand for city water was greater by 75,000,000 gallons on Tuesday than on a normal day, and it appeared that a still greater drain was in progress yesterday.

Sprinkling is permitted by law only between 5 and 7 a. m., 2 and 4 p. m., and 8:30 and 10:30 p. m. This leaves the supply for domestic purposes untouched at the hours of greatest demand, the morning and evening bath times.

Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan instructed teachers to lecture their pupils on the necessity of conserving water and to emphasize to them the danger of opening fire plugs.

Downstate conditions were about the same as here. At Carbondale 99 was registered, at Quincy, 96.5, and at Charleston, 97. From Springfield came reports that the hot and dry weather of the last few days had enabled farmers to plant 80 to 90 per cent of a normal corn acreage in Illinois.

FLOCK TO BEACHES

Thousands sought relief from the heat yesterday at every available beach on the city's water front. Only the beaches in Lincoln park have been opened officially, but all were crowded in the afternoon. Still larger numbers were on the beaches by evening. It was estimated that 100,000 persons went to the beaches south of the loop and that another 100,000 visited the beaches of the Lincoln park system.

Many who went to the lake intending to spend most of their time in the water were disappointed to find the water temperature too chilly for comfortable swimming. Tests made at north side beaches disclosed the temperature to be 62 degrees. Consequently most bathers contented themselves with blistering their backs by lying in the sun or playing beach ball, jump the rope, or other games in the sand.

30,000 Try Out New Beach.

By noon more than 30,000 were trying out the new Wilson-Montrose beach. Other Lincoln park beaches, Oak street, Diversey, and Belmont harbor were comfortably filled. J. Frank Lyman, secretary of the Lincoln park board, said that a full force of life guards, checkers, and bathhouse attendants was on duty all day.

The bathing facilities in the Lincoln park system were opened eleven days ahead of schedule due to the premature heat wave.

Although the south park beaches will not be open officially until June 24, and people were warned that they entered the water at their own peril, the sands were covered with bathers. Some of them splashed in the shallow water near the shore at Jackson park.

The city beaches, not yet officially open, accommodated thousands. About 35,000 persons visited the Rainbow and Rocky Ledge beach between 75th and 79th streets, and about 5,000 went to Rogers Park beach at Touhy avenue.

AMERICAN ENVOY TO BRITAIN, ILL; ORDERED TO BED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 7.—The health of Robert Worth Bingham, American ambassador to London, is giving concern to his friends. He was ordered to bed today by physicians.

The ambassador has been seen only once in public since his arrival and has taken part in no social functions. His lone public appearance was at the Pilgrims' banquet, which is always an American ambassador's introduction to England.

Mr. Bingham was to have been the guest of the English Speaking union at dinner tomorrow night. It was announced today that the dinner has been canceled. The ambassador has canceled all other engagements except those absolutely necessary in connection with the world economic conference.

Zeppelin Gets Air Mail to Buenos Aires in Three Days

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 7.—Air mail from Berlin aboard the Graf Zeppelin arrived today in the record time of three days and nine hours.

WINDSTORMS KILL 5; STRIKE IN THREE STATES

New York, Nebraska and Minnesota Hit.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 7.—[Special.]—Five persons were killed this afternoon in a violent wind and electrical storm that swept over western New York and nearby sections of Ontario.

Thirty others were injured, nearly all of them school children who were buried in debris when the wind tore down a school building at Milton, Ont.

Lightning Kills Three.

Three of the deaths were caused by lightning. A fireman was killed in Toronto while fighting a fire in a church, caused by an electric bolt; a small boy was struck at Fruitland, Ont., and a farm worker was electrocuted near Batavia, N. Y. The fourth victim, a farmer, lost his life when a barn was blown down on him near Lancaster, N. Y. In Buffalo, Capt. Thomas Baker was fatally injured when he was blown into an open hatch of the barge Silver Queen, which he commanded.

Nearly all of the Ontario school children suffered only slight hurts, it was said. Damage was reported at Guelph, Ont.; Winona, Ont.; Jamestown and Lackawanna, Ont. Coast guards here were kept busy this evening towing in small craft which had been disabled in the lake. Several of these were torn away from moorings and carried out in the lake.

Minnesota Loss $300,000.

St. Paul, Minn., June 7.—(AP)—A series of tornadoes in southern and southwestern Minnesota last night did damage estimated by insurance adjusters at upwards of $300,000. No one was killed. More than 20 were hurt.

Dr. E. A. Kilbride aided by flashlights—a tornado had plunged the Worthington hospital in darkness by wrecking power and light lines—performed an emergency operation. Damage estimated at about $100,000 was caused in the Worthington area.

At Butterfield a 75,000 bushel grain elevator was thrown across the tracks and a freight train, the engineer blinded by dust, rammed into it.

Nebraska Hard Hit.

Madison and North Platte were hardest hit today, the former by wind and the latter by hail. There were no injuries reported by early evening. At the farm of Henry Peterson, living half a mile north Madison, Harold Seiler, a farm hand, was standing beside a barn when the storm struck. As the structure toppled over he was whisked over several trees, carried about two blocks and landed in an alfalfa field unhurt.

REGULAR TICKET WINS EASILY IN BAR'S ELECTION

The Chicago Bar association overwhelmingly elected the candidates presented on the ticket of the regular nominating committee, it was disclosed last night when results of the voting were made public. For the first time in more than 20 years the regular ticket was opposed by an independent slate.

Attorney John D. Black, unopposed for the presidency, was elected by a vote of 1,458. Henry A. Gardner is the new first vice president, Laird Bell is second vice president, and William Beye and Willard L. King, who were unopposed, were elected respectively treasurer and librarian.

The five candidates elected to the board of managers were Stephen Love, Richard Yates Hoffman, William H. Holly, Frederic E. von Ammon, and Fred D. Silber. They were opposed by five candidates on the independent slate and also by two candidates who conducted separate campaigns.

WORLD FLYER FORCED DOWN IN SIBERIA

Map indicates where James Mattern, American flyer, who is attempting to set a new round the world speed record, was forced down in Siberia. The town of Prokotevsk, where Mattern landed, is 168 miles southeast of Novo-Sibirsk and the map would indicate that the flyer was off his course. He had been scheduled to fly east from Omsk through Novo-Sibirsk, Krasnoyarsk, Irkutsk, and Chita. Story on page 1.

Judge Orders Ralph O'Hara Freed of Murder Charges

A directed verdict of not guilty ended the murder trial of Ralph O'Hara, business agent for the Motion Picture Operators' union, in the Criminal court of Judge James F. Fardy yesterday afternoon. The union organizer shot and killed Fred Oser, leader of a rebel faction of the union, in the union headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue on March 24.

The state case collapsed with the ruling of Judge Fardy that the testimony of Sylvester Cascio, owner of a barber shop at 134 North La Salle street, was not admissible. Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty had depended on Cascio to support the state contention that Oser had never carried a revolver and was killed because he opposed the rule of the union czar, Thomas Maloy.

Rule Out Cascio Testimony.

There had been little evidence to dispute the defense claim that O'Hara shot in self-defense or to support the state claim that the gun found near Oser's body had been placed there after the shooting. The testimony of Cascio was ruled out after he had told his story to the jury from the witness stand.

The barber said that he had shaved Oser an hour before the latter was shot in the union office. Cascio testified that he had helped Oser remove his top coat and suit coat.

"Did Oser ever have a gun?" Prosecutor Dougherty asked.

"No," the witness replied.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorney Michael Ahern, the witness admitted that he had no way of knowing for certain that Oser had no revolver.

"Did you search him for a revolver?" the defense attorney asked.

"No," Cascio told him.

"Do you know of your own knowledge that Oser had no revolver?" Ahern asked.

"I didn't see any revolver," the witness replied. Judge Fardy upheld the motion of Attorney Ahern to strike the testimony from the record. Julius Dickstein, a motion picture operator and member of the Maloy faction, who once owned the revolver found near Oser's body, was called by the state. He testified that the revolver had been stolen from his car. He knew O'Hara only as an organizer for the union, Dickstein said, but had been friendly with Oser. The witness said that Oser had often rode in his automobile and knew where the revolver was kept.

After the state had rested Attorney Ahern moved that the jury be directed to return a verdict of not guilty. He argued that the state had failed to produce any evidence to support the murder charge.

Prosecutor Dougherty held that the burden of proof had been shifted to the defense with the plea of self-defense.

"As far as I can see," Judge Fardy told him, "the evidence makes a clear case of self-defense. What has the jury to decide?"

"There is nothing in the evidence to substantiate the defense claim that O'Hara shot in self-defense," the prosecutor insisted.

"There is no evidence that he didn't," Judge Fardy answered. "I allow the motion."

Widow Weeps in Court.

Oser's widow, Mrs. Grace Oser, left the courtroom weeping, as Maloy and others crowded around to congratulate O'Hara. The only victory of the state rested in the refusal of Judge Fardy to return the silver handled, gold plated .38 caliber revolver with which Oser was shot.

"I move that the state return the property of the defendant," Attorney Ahern said as the court waited for the jurors to sign the verdict.

"You haven't proved that it is your gun," Prosecutor Dougherty said. The revolver was allowed to remain in the possession of the state.

Former Mayor Abandons Old Suits Against Tribune

Attorneys for William Hale Thompson, former mayor, appeared yesterday before Judge Craig A. Hood in the Circuit court and dismissed four suits for libel which the politician filed against The Tribune company and others in 1917 and 1918. The action put a legal finish to a long series of suits which Thompson filed against THE TRIBUNE. His claims for damages were refused in all of the cases which went to trial.

Former Official of Loan Association Goes on Trial

Daniel Henrici, 45 years old, former secretary of the Arnoldsville Building and Loan association, 6239 South Ashland avenue, was placed on trial yesterday before a jury in Judge Rudolph Desort's court. He is accused of embezzling $48,000 from the association for stock market operations.

WARN INSURANCE HEADS AGAINST FRAUD BY PUBLIC

The increase of frauds during the depression makes it necessary to tighten up on the methods of medical examinations and inspection of applicants for life insurance policies, J. B. Mabon of Montreal, associate actuary of the Sun Life of Canada, declared yesterday. He spoke at the annual meeting of the medical section of the American Life convention at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Mr. Mabon declared that a study of applications and death claims showed that there was a trend on the part of the public to obtain life insurance on dishonest grounds. "The companies endeavor to attract the public by evidence of their strength and security," said Mr. Mabon, "but they stand in the public mind as large and wealthy corporations who are fair game for any profit which may be gouged out of them."

FIRST APPEAL BRINGS $145 FOR CAMP ALGONQUIN

In response to the first appeal for contributions to the Camp Algonquin fund, donations poured into THE TRIBUNE yesterday, giving the fund a start toward the $10,000 which must be raised in order to send underprivileged mothers and children away from the city for summer vacations.

The largest single gift was $100, from a contributor who asked that only the initials A. L. R. be used. Kappa chapter of Psi Delta Sigma was among the first contributors, sending $10. Other gifts, including $25 previously acknowledged, gave a grand total of $145. This will be sufficient to buy ten day vacations for 24 persons. Officials of the camp say that a mother or her child can be maintained there at a cost of 60 cents a day.

$1—Barbara Kinsley.

Total $120
Previously acknowledged 25

Grand total $145

Gifts should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. All will be acknowledged in this newspaper.

Rio Grande do Sul reports freezing temperatures, and snow fell in the high regions of Parana state.

LEADER IN TAX STRIKE PAYS ON 4 BACK LEVIES

J. L. Kesner Acts to Avoid Receiverships.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

June 7.....	$ 48,026	$ 98,287
Uncollected ..	19,557,451	51,648,706
	1930.	1931.
June 7.....	$ 173,036	$ 177,797
Uncollected ..	83,198,213	114,623,687

The day's collection of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $7,149.

Representatives of Jacob L. Kesner, one of the leaders in the tax strike some months ago, capitulated yesterday to County Judge Jarecki's drive against delinquent tax properties to the extent of paying taxes upon four pieces of property owned by Kesner.

The payments were made to avoid the appointment of the county treasurer as receiver under the Kerner-Skarda act to collect income from the properties until the taxes were paid. Total payments in Judge Jarecki's court yesterday of back taxes were $186,829. The total tax payments for the day at the county treasurer's office were $501,291, including the money received from Judge Jarecki's court.

Payments on Kesner Properties.

The payments upon the Kesner parcels were as follows: 400 South Wells street, $10,756; 506 South Wells street, $7,727; 504 South Wells street, $3,863, and 312 West Harrison street, $17,389.

The largest payment during the day was one of $64,944 made by attorneys for the Tower building, 2 North Michigan avenue, upon which delinquent taxes total $240,682. Judge Jarecki postponed appointment of a receiver for this property.

The Del Prado hotel, 5301 Hyde Park boulevard, paid $39,826 on a total back tax bill of $50,924 and no receiver was appointed pending the disposal of objections to the total assessment.

Delinquents Raise Totals.

Representatives of the W. W. Kimball property, 300 South Wabash avenue, made a payment of $34,827 on taxes, raising the total paid to 75 per cent of the entire tax bill. A payment of $15,000 on the 40 North Dearborn street building also raised the total paid to 75 per cent of the delinquent tax bill.

An investigation was ordered by the judge of the nonpayment of $42,383 taxes upon the Plaisance hotel, 6000 Stony Island avenue. An attorney last week gained a continuance by stating that County Treasurer McDonough already was in charge of the property. There was no response when the case was called yesterday, and Assistant State's Attorney William T. Crilly said that the county treasurer had no representative in charge of the building.

Taxes totaling $150,000, collected by the county treasurer on the 1931 levy, were distributed to six governments yesterday. The city received $100,000, the state $10,000, the sanitary district $20,000, and the three major park boards received the remaining $20,000.

Suits to place thirty more properties in county receivership were filed by Assistant Corporation Counsel William L. Sullivan, legal assistant to the county treasurer.

$44,300 Raised for War Vets in Poppy Day Sale

Citizens of Chicago who bought poppies on the tag day conducted a week ago by the Veterans' Poppy Day association contributed $44,300 for the benefit of disabled veterans and their dependents, R. P. O'Reilly, treasurer of the association, announced yesterday. This sum is a little under that collected last year, he said.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS 15 PCT. TAX REDUCTION

Backs Appeal Board Order by 4 to 3 Vote.

The Illinois Supreme court, in an opinion handed down yesterday at Springfield, held that the Cook county board of tax appeals had legal authority to issue its order reducing 1931 assessments on homes and small flat buildings by 15 per cent.

The Supreme court action was taken by a 4 to 3 vote of the justices. Two of the four votes for the majority opinion came from "lame duck" members of the court. These were Justice Oscar E. Heard, defeated for reelection Monday, and Justice Frank K. Dunn, who was not a candidate to succeed himself. The other members of the majority were Justice Frederic R. De Young, the Chicago member of the court, and Justice Clyde E. Stone. All four are Republicans.

Three Justices Dissent.

The three justices who dissented from the majority opinion are Norman L. Jones and Warren H. Orr, the two Democratic members of the court, and Warren W. Duncan, Republican, who is retiring. If yesterday's ruling is sustained in a rehearing it will have three important effects upon the muddled tax situation in Cook county:

1. It will cut a total variously estimated at $6,600,000 to $9,000,000 from the bills of small taxpayers, depriving Cook county governments and the state of that amount of tax revenue for 1931. There is small chance, however, that some 70,000 small taxpayers who have already paid their 1931 bills in full will get any rebates.

Another Tax Collection Delay.

2. It will delay collection of the second installment of 1931 real estate taxes, now scheduled for Sept. 1, until the assessment records can be changed for nearly half the real estate parcels in the county. This will take six months and cost $500,000 under the present form of the appeals board order, County Assessor J. L. Jacobs said last night, but if the order is simplified the changes may be made in three or four months.

3. It will, according to Chicago bankers, constitute a virtual bar to further sales of tax warrants by the local governments. It was pointed out, however, that the legislature can remedy this defect, if it wishes, by restricting the power of the board of appeals to prevent the board's making further blanket cuts in assessments.

See More Financial Chaos.

Unless means are found of avoiding the long delay in tax collections and of restoring the salability of tax warrants, public officials said, the order designed to lift part of the load from small taxpayers may prove to be the final straw which will upset the whole financial system of local government in Chicago and Cook county.

Public employés, they said, may look forward to a lengthening series of payless pay days due to the stoppage of revenue which the officials fear the order may bring about.

"This decision means a complete breakdown of the 'entire assessing machinery,'" Assessor Jacobs said. "It opens up the field for cuts in all other classes of property. Naturally it will delay collections on the second installment of 1931 taxes for many months.

Assails Form of Order.

"The order of the appeals board in its present form presents an impossible task. The 15 per cent reduction applies only to homes and two and three flat buildings, not to the land beneath them or to garages or other improvements—only to the base price of the buildings and not to the half dozen different variations in assessment price which every building has.

"To comply with the order in its present form would involve refiguring the entire assessment of all properties included in the cut, and before that, an examination of every one of more than 1,100,000 properties on the assessment rolls to determine whether the reduction is to apply to them.

"I hope, if it still remains necessary to carry out the order, that the board will change the order to include all the improvements under the property classes involved, so that the reduction will apply to the minor variations in the properties as well as to the base prices.

"My assistants have already made a survey of the work necessary to carry out the blanket reduction. It was contained in a report to the county board in which I asked $200,000 to do the work. This was on the assumption that the appeals board could be prevailed upon to simplify its order. My best guess is that the work, in that event, will require more than three months. To do the work under the present form of the order would take six months and $500,000."

The board of tax appeals estimated that its reduction order would cut 2.5 per cent off the total assessment roll for 1931, which would mean a corresponding reduction in taxes. With tax extensions totaling $263,000,000, this would amount to about $6,600,000. Other estimates have placed the loss of revenue as high as $9,000,000.

Installment Payers Get Cut.

Neither of these estimates took into account, however, the fact that many small taxpayers have already paid their 1931 bills in full and probably will not get the 15 per cent rebate.

Attorney Hayden N. Bell, head of the tax department of the state attorney's office, said that there is no legal way at present to make refunds to taxpayers who have paid in full. For those who still owe half or more of their 1931 bills, 15 per cent of their tax on improvements will be deducted from their second installment payments.

Mr. Bell pointed out that every owner of a home or small flat building, under the Supreme court ruling, will get the reduction, regardless of whether he filed an objection before the board of tax appeals.

The Supreme Court Action.

The matter was placed before the Supreme court in the form of a petition, filed on behalf of a taxpayer by Attorney Lester L. Falk, seeking a writ of mandamus ordering the appeals board to expunge its blanket cut order.

Attorney Falk left for a European vacation after filing his brief in the case. Attorney Homer H. Cooper, one of his associates, said last night that without reading the Supreme court decision he could not say whether a rehearing will be sought. The majority opinion will be studied carefully with that end in view, however, he said.

Jacobs Awaits Legal Advice.

Assessor Jacobs, who has consistently refused to enter the changes ordered by the appeals board, said he had not determined his course of action and would not do so until the Supreme court opinion has been studied by Attorney Bell and his other legal advisers. He pointed out, however, that the action was that of a private citizen against the board of appeals and does not involve him.

Under these circumstances the way is open, if the assessor wishes, to force a second hearing of the case by the Supreme court. If he continues his refusal to obey the appeals board order, the procedure open to the board would be to seek a writ of mandamus to compel him to do so. Such an action would be taken before the new Supreme court, which will include only two of the justices who signed yesterday's opinion.

The principal legal point on which Attorney Falk sought to invalidate the appeals board order was the contention that the statutes give the board power to reduce individual assessments upon presentation of proper complaints by the owners of the properties, but that they do not give the board power to make blanket reductions on all properties in a certain class or classes.

The majority opinion of the Supreme court held, however, that in case of the inequitable assessment of a whole class of property, the board of appeals cannot grant reductions to single property owners, but must correct the inequity for the whole class. The opinion stated:

"In the case of property of a certain class including the applicants, which is assessed at 40 per cent of its fair cash value while all other taxable property in the county is assessed at 30 per cent of such value, the applicant could not be given relief by the board of appeals unless it had the power to reduce the assessment on the entire class of property which was overassessed.

"Preferential Treatment Prohibited."

"If the board could reduce only the assessment on the applicant's property, he would be given an unwarranted advantage over the owner of other property in the same class. Since individual preferential treatment is prohibited by the constitution, the board of appeals could not make a reduction in the assessment of property of a single taxpayer under circumstances of this kind."

The contest over the assessment reduction order has been bitter from its inception. George F. Nixon, the Republican member of the board of tax appeals, and Fred W. Brummel, his Democratic associate, issued the order without previous consultation with Assessor Jacobs, a Democratic appointee.

Lieut. Col. Carlo Tempesti and Lieut. Giuseppe Baylon, aviation officers in the Italian army, paid a call upon Mayor Kelly yesterday, accompanied by Sanitary Trustee Paul V. Colliani. They are in Chicago to make arrangements for the arrival of twenty Italian seaplanes, commanded by Gen. Italo Balbo, which is expected to cross the Atlantic and reach Chicago about June 20. Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt is arranging docking space for the seaplanes and police protection for them during their stay in Chicago.

EXPEL STUDENTS FOR NEW YORK PACIFIST STRIKE

New York, June 7.—(AP)—Dr. Morton Gottschall, acting dean of the College of the City of New York, announced today that the thirty-one students suspended last Monday for participation in a pacifist demonstration against the president, Dr. Frederick Robinson, would be denied the right to take their final examinations.

This means they will fail in their courses, and, under a college rule, failure in all courses means expulsion.

Sympathizers of the suspended students called a strike at the college today. After police were called out, and trouble appeared imminent, Dr. Gottschall invited some 1,500 students into the great hall to talk it over.

The acting dean said the demonstrations were endangering the future of the college. After the meeting, the strike ended in one final, peaceful demonstration.

JEWISH FAMILY HITLER WANTS NAME CHANGED

[Copyright, 1933: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, June 7.—Ajzyk Hitler, a 24 year old Jewish merchant of Wyszogrod, has applied to the Warsaw law courts for permission to change his name to Hiller, his fiancee, Gitla Wajncwang, refusing to bear the name of the antisemitic German chancellor.

Moses Hitler, Ajzyk's father, also wants to assume the name of Hiller, while a younger son, Netta, a 14 year old school boy, complains that his life has been unbearable since the Nazi leader's accession. The boys greet him with shouts of "Heil Hitler!" and he has been made the laughing stock of the school.

REVIVES HOPE OF RAISING CASH FOR COUNTY PAY ROLL

Board Considers New Tax Warrant Sale.

Members of the county board found some rays of hope yesterday in their efforts to relieve the plight of county workers, who have taken from the school teachers the unenviable title of the least paid public employés in Chicago.

On the first of the month the county employés were six and a half months behind on their salaries. Their last pay checks were for the first half of November. School employés have been paid six weeks farther ahead, to the first of the year, while the city, due to its better credit standing, has been able to pay its help up to March 1.

Consider Warrant Pay Plan.

The county board has been considering giving its employés part of its back pay in 1932 warrants. Hitherto the county has avoided this method of paying salaries, and as a result its 1931 tax warrants are quoted at higher prices than those of the school board, which was one of the first to pay in warrants.

The county board some time ago adopted a resolution limiting its issue of 1932 warrants to 50 per cent of the tax levies to make the warrants more salable when the Sargent committee staged its drive to sell them for pay roll purposes. Yesterday at a conference between the board finance committee and John O. Rees, director of the Sargent committee, it was brought out that the county has about $900,000 in 1932 warrants still unissued under the 50 per cent limitation.

Hope to Sell Warrants.

Mr. Rees told the commissioners that the Sargent committee would try to find a purchaser for those warrants. With $200,000 received from the sale of warrants a few days ago to the Illinois Bell Telephone company, this would give the board enough money to meet a little more than one month's pay rolls.

BOARD WILL REDEEM FIRST OF '31 WARRANTS GIVEN TO TEACHERS

The school board yesterday issued a call for the redemption of the first 1931 tax warrants which it gave to teachers last spring in payment of salaries.

The present call is for the redemption of $50,000 in warrants. Before the teachers' warrants could be redeemed, the board had to redeem about $9,000,000 of warrants of earlier issue which it had sold to the public.

Teachers were instructed to take their warrants to the board's business office by tomorrow in order that the interest may be computed. Interest accruals will stop Tuesday. The warrant series called for payment are those dated Feb. 25 and bearing the serial numbers E-4084-A-0001 to E-4084-A-1000, and those dated Dec. 20 and bearing serial numbers EM-4085-A-1 to EM-4085-A-100 and EM-4086-A-1 and EM-4086-A-11.

President James B. McCahey of the school board announced yesterday that interest on school bonds falling due July 1 and Aug. 1 will be paid. The cash is held on reserve in various funds of the board and is barely enough to meet the obligations. The total payment will amount to $494,760.

The citizens' committee on public expenditures sent a statement to school board members which was not made public. The statement dealt with the bill pending before the legislature which would authorize the sale of $40,000,000 worth of bonds to finance school pay rolls and operating expenses. It was understood the citizens' committee asked that the bond issue be cut to $18,000,000.

TWO ARRAIGNED AS DEALERS IN 'SPIKED' BEER

The first prisoners seized on charges of spiking near beer and selling it as legitimate brew under stolen or counterfeit labels were arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker yesterday. They are Jack Osterman and Vito Borsillino, who were seized in a cutting plant at 3136 Polk street. Their bonds were fixed at $1,000 each.

Chief Enforcement Officer Al Aman of the prohibition unit said that 20,000 beer labels stolen from the Frank McDermott brewery were seized in a raid on the cutting plant and that equipment for counterfeiting labels was confiscated.

FRANCE INSISTS WORLD PARLEY MUST TALK DEBTS

Says Problem Is First in Importance.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 7.—That revision of the war debts due the United States and the return of the dollar and pound to a gold basis will be the principal objectives of France at the world economic conference was affirmed by Georges Bonnet, finance minister, at a luncheon today of the Anglo-American Press association.

Referring to the debt problem, Bonnet clearly implied that official omission of the debts from the program of the conference did not mean anything and that actually much activity would be centered around this point.

Cites Lausanne Agreement.

"How can any one expect to maintain massive war debt payments when at the Lausanne raparations conference the most eminent experts of Europe and the United States concluded that it is impossible to continue with a system of metal transfer without corresponding movements of goods?" Bannet asked.

Speaking of the necessity of stabilizing currencies on a gold basis, Bonnet drew an interesting parallel between the tariff war which it is one of the objects of the conference to end and the battle of exchanges. Both are forms of economic war, he said, and France wants security against economic war just as it wants security against actual war.

Secs Parley as Political.

One of the most obvious things implied in Bonnet's remarks is that France envisages the conference primarily as a political one and not as a technical one. This is the reason why all of France's delegates will be members of the cabinet and headed by Premier Daladier himself, while a relatively small corps of experts will be taken along. France's scepticism of the conference, it thus appears, is directed chiefly at technical schemes for recovery.

France is also interested, besides debts and the gold standard, in better tariff accords. For the rest, raising of prices, increasing buying power of easern countries, and similar problems, France is willing to coöperate providing the powers do not place the emphasis on technical questions and agree to tackle political problems first.

Probably the clearest expression of the whole French attitude is contained in one phase of Bonnet's talk, where he referred to "a reasonable raising of prices of raw products which will be one of the best symptoms of the waning of the crisis." It is noteworthy that while France, according to this statement, approves a "reasonable" increase in prices, it does not regard price raising as a means to restoring prosperity, but as a symptom and the result of other measures.

France Wants Security.

It is on these other measures—debts, the return of the whole world to a stable and uniform currency, and the ending of exaggerated competitive tariffs—that France is concentrating its attention, and it is into these channels that it will try to direct the conference.

As Bonnet put it in his closing sentence, "The responsible statesmen of the world will realize the necessity of first giving back to peoples a feeling of monetary security. Without this security revival of international credit is inconceivable, and only this security renders possible a progressive re-establishment of economic activity and freedom of exchanges."

That is almost word for word the French formula for disarmament. Eliminate political tension by guaranteeing security for all peoples, then the armed nations will progressively reduce armaments as their security is strengthened.

"Big 4" of Europe Sign Mussolini Treaty; Aims to Guarantee Peace for Ten Years

ROME, June 7.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini and the ambassadors of France, Great Britain and Germany tonight signed a four power pact promising Europe a decade of peace and pledging the achievement of disarmament even if the Geneva conference failed.

Signature of the accord took place in Mussolini's office in the Palazzo Benezia immediately after the Fascist chief had delivered a speech to the senate solemnly announcing conclusion of the agreement.

After signing the pact Il Duce declared to a crowd of thousands gathered outside his office that the day had been "satisfactory for Italy, reawakened by her Black Shirts."

Summary of Pact.

The signature completed negotiations started on March 18, when the Italian premier submitted his original plan to Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Sir John Simon of Great Britain on their visit to Rome.

The agreement briefly summarized is as follows:

A preamble says that the pact is based on the Kellogg pact and the Locarno treaties and the league of nations' covenant, and upon the agreement of Geneva of Dec. 11 of last year granting Germany theoretical parity in armaments.

Article 1. The parties agree to collaborate within the framework of the league of nations.

Agree to Push Disarmaments.

Article 2. The parties agree to examine among themselves articles 10, 16 and 19 of the league covenant. [These articles of the covenant provide, respectively, the maintenance of territorial integrity of league members against external aggression; military, commercial and financial action against an aggressor, and the possibility of treaty revision.]

Article 3. The four powers agree to exert all their efforts to assure the success of the disarmament conference; if the conference leaves questions in suspense, the four powers will examine them among themselves.

Article 4. The parties agree to collaborate for economic reconstruction.

Article 5: The pact is to last for ten years and is renewable.

Article 6: The French text will be the authoritative text of the treaty in case of difficulties in interpretation. The agreement is to be ratified as soon as possible and registered with the secretariat of the league of nations.

Mussolini Tells Aims.

In his speech before the senate, Mussolini said that if the disarmament conference were to fail, an untenable situation would arise. All present indications point to success of the Geneva efforts, he said, "but if, despite everything, they end otherwise we have the pact to fall back upon."

The premier added that if France Great Britain, Germany and Italy were forced by events to take up the arms question among themselves they would scrupulously respect the rights of other states.

"The fruitful results of the agreement should rapidly be forthcoming," the premier said, "but do not think that there will be no more differences or that differences will be magically composed."

The author of the plan warned against over-optimism.

"The object of the pact," he said "is to create the possibility of solving questions that arise from time to time. For this purpose it must be complemented by normal diplomatic contacts. There must be periodical and more or less frequent conferences according to necessities among men directly responsible for the foreign policies of the four states.

"As for the league of nations, it will be revitalized, not rendered useless, by this methodical collaboration among permanent members of its council.

"The four-power pact institutes no hierarchy of the powers, the four powers concerned, already being permanent members of the league of nations, do not intend to force their decisions upon other states. Upon the cordial relations of these four states depend the tranquility and the pacific development of other states."

TEXT OF PACT

AGREEMENT OF UNDERSTANDING AND CO-OPERATION.

The Preamble.

The president of the German reich, the president of the French republic, his majesty the king of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British dominions beyond the seas, emperor of India, and his majesty the king of Italy,

Conscious of the special responsibilities incumbent on them as possessing permanent representation on the council of the league of nations where the league itself and its members are concerned and of responsibilities resulting from the common signature of the Locarno agreements,

Convinced that the state of disquiet which obtains throughout the world can only be dissipated by reinforcing their solidarity in such a way as to strengthen confidence in peace in Europe,

Faithful to League.

Faithful to obligations which they have assumed in virtue of the covenant of the league of nations, the Locarno treaties and the Briand-Kellogg pact, and taking into account the declaration of the renunciation of force, the principle of which was proclaimed in the declaration signed at Geneva on Dec. 11, 1932, by their delegates at the disarmament conference and adopted on March 2, 1933, by the political commission of that conference,

Anxious to give full effect to all provisions of the covenant of the league of nations while conforming to the methods and procedure laid down therein, from which they have no intention of departing,

Mindful of the rights of every state, which cannot be affected without the consent of the interested party,

Have resolved to conclude an agreement with these objects and have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: The president of the German reich, the president of the French republic, his majesty the king of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British dominions beyond the seas, emperor of India; for Great Britain and northern Ireland: his majesty the king of Italy, who, having exchanged their full powers found in good and due form, have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I.

The high contracting parties will consult together as regards all questions which appertain to them. They undertake to make every effort to pursue within the framework of the league of nations a policy of effective coöperation between all powers with a view to the maintenance of peace.

ARTICLE II.

In respect to the covenant of the league of nations, and particularly articles 10, 16, and 19, the high contracting parties decide to examine between themselves and without prejudice to the decisions, which can only be taken by the regular organs of the league of nations, all proposals relating to the methods and the procedure calculated to give due effect to these articles.

ARTICLE III.

The high contracting parties undertake to make every effort to ensure the success of the disarmament conference, and should questions which particularly concern them remain in suspense on the conclusion of that conference, they reserve the right to reëxamine these questions between themselves under the present agreement with a view to ensuring their solution through the appropriate channels.

ARTICLE IV.

The high contracting parties affirm their desire to consult together as regards all economic questions which have a common interest for Europe and particularly for its economic restoration, with a view to seeking a settlement within the framework of the league of nations.

ARTICLE V.

The present agreement is concluded for a period of ten years from the date of its entry into force.

If before the end of the eighth year none of the high contracting parties shall have notified to the others its intention to terminate the agreement, it shall be regarded as renewed, and will remain in force indefinitely, each of the high contracting parties possessing in that event the right to terminate it by a declaration to that effect giving two years' notice.

ARTICLE VI.

The present agreement is drawn up in English, French, German, and Italian, of which the French text prevails in case of divergence. It shall be ratified and ratifications shall be deposited in Rome as soon as possible. The government of the kingdom of Italy will deliver to each of the high contracting parties a certified copy of the process verbaux of deposit.

The present agreement will enter into force as soon as all ratifications have been deposited.

It shall be registered at the league of nations in conformity with the covenant of the league.

Done at Rome, this seventh day of June, 1933, in single copy, which will remain deposited in the archives of the government of the kingdom of Italy; certified copies will be delivered to each of the high contracting parties.

140 MILLIONS IN DEBT PAYMENTS DUE U. S. JUNE 15

Eleven Nations Must Pay or Default.

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—Only one week remains during which eleven nations must decide whether to pay up or default on 140 million dollars of interest and principal due the United States on June 15 on the debts growing out of the world war.

Only two nations—England and France—have made any official overtures to the United States concerning the payments and what they will do in the matter remains in doubt.

The nine other countries are expected to default. France is expected to default, as she did on the Dec. 15 payment. England's conduct in the matter is the subject of many exchanges of cables across the Atlantic.

The President's attitude, as disclosed in an authoritative quarter, is that Europe has put too much emphasis upon the importance of the debts issues as weighed in the scales of world economics.

Debate Fixed Value.

The stabilization of world currencies, regarded as most important in spurring international commerce, can be better accomplished now, in the White House opinion, because domestic price levels, fluctuating violently in past months, are getting to a point of stability which will permit agreements on currency values.

One plan now under consideration by world powers for currency stabilization is to set standards to a fixed value of gold, or of gold and silver, instead of allowing currencies to fluctuate up and down in ratio to each other.

At present, it is explained, the pound fluctuates with the dollar; the franc fluctuates with the dollar and also with the pound, and so on with other currencies. The new scheme would set up an "imaginary coin" of a fixed metallic value, and all other coinages would bear ratios to that "imaginary coin."

BRITISH "GIVE UP HOPE."
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 7.—Hope that some magic word might come from Washington banishing British war debt obligations has disappeared among British government members.

The weekly cabinet meeting was called off today because a number of ministers were out of town. The special session summoned for Friday will meet after Secretary of State Hull, head of the American delegation to the economic conference which opens here Monday, has visited Prime Minister MacDonald. They have a provisional appointment for Friday morning.

It is believed the cabinet will be forced at Friday's session to consider the question of paying the $75,950,000 installment due the United States on June 15. If nothing definite results from diplomatic exchanges in the next few days, it is likely that the British government will address another note to the United States.

ROAR OF PISTOL FIRE IN ART INSTITUTE IS ONLY GUARDS' DRILL

The roar of heavy service pistols on a target range breaks the cloistered quiet of the Art institute at regular intervals as the result of precautions which officials of the institute have taken to guard the $75,000,000 official art exhibit of the World's Fair, housed in the institute.

The force of guards in the institution has been doubled for the duration of the exhibit and all carry revolvers in plain sight in holsters. Under the direction of Capt. William Porter they hold regular drill and target practice on a range in one of the courts of the museum building during hours when the institute is closed.

Sentry and Peggy, two police dogs which the institute acquired several years ago, make regular rounds of the corridors at night with a watchman, to make sure there are no thieves concealed about the building after closing hours. Other precautions against theft and fire were taken following the recent $35,000 robbery of the Brooklyn museum.

Johnson Calls Teagle, Swope, Sloane.

"when the giant movers in a great industry meet, even to hold a dance, before they close the meeting they will talk over the question of whether or not they can raise the prices of their products. Where in this bill is there any protection for the consumer, for the man who has to pay the price? The consumer of the United States must pay whatever the 200 nonbanking corporations, holding the wealth of this country, say is the proper price under fair competition."

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] joined Senator Wagner in the bill's defense. He said he hoped he had heard "the last of that cry of unconstitutionality when it is raised solely to obstruct a measure of righteousness." The United States has escaped such revolts as have occurred in other countries, he said, only because the people believed that congress would "come to their rescue."

"The mere fact that a measure may be radical, that it undertakes a new authority, begins a new departure in government," the Illinois senator added, "is no answer to its righteousness, no denial of its justice."

Long Takes Up Attack.

Then Senator Long took the floor and made it plain that he was not going to permit further progress to be made today.

"And if I cannot finish what I have to say today," he declared, "I'll go on tomorrow. We fought the war of secession for two principles—humanity and state rights. Now, in 1933, we've lost 'em both. Under this bill we're going to have white slavery as well as black. If this is what we get under this administration, then I'll swap it for Herbert Hoover any day and give boot in the trade."

KITS SALESMAN FACES GENERAL AT QUIZ TODAY

Challenges Army on Issue of Fair Price.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—Across the table in the senate military affairs committee room tomorrow Richard B. BeVier, who sold the government 200,000 toilet kits for $1.40 each, will confront Maj. Gen. John L. DeWitt, army quartermaster general, who contends the kit could have been supplied by the army for 85 cents apiece.

Mr. BeVier, the young New York "supersalesman" who got the contract for his firm three hours after a visit to White House Secretary Louis McHenry Howe, challenged the army before the committee today to prove its contention.

Wants Board Named.

"I contend," Mr. BeVier declared, "that we will sell the government these kits at a cost of 10 per cent lower than the same quality goods can be purchased by the army. I request the committee to authorize the appointment of a board consisting of myself, a representative of the quartermaster corps and a member of this committee, to determine the lowest price at which these goods can be bought."

The committee did not grant his request today. Instead it appointed a subcommittee to continue the investigation into the toilet kit transaction including the matter of prices. At the same time, it was regarded as possible that the investigation may be turned into a sweeping survey of the entire field of governmental purchasing, including the activities of the quartermaster general's office.

Blame Put on Others.

Mr. Be Vier appeared today to have convinced the senate committee of his good faith in selling the kits to the government.

"As I see it," said Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.], one of his most persistent inquisitors, "there is no fault to find with Mr. Be Vier. He, as the seller, made the best possible price. The blame rests with the parties who allowed him to fix the prices and failed to check up on them."

Senator Robert D. Carey [Rep., Wyo.], author of the resolution authorizing the investigation, announced that he had found nothing in the Be Vier company records to verify reports that several prominent officials of the administration were stockholders in the company.

Policeman Is Discharged by Civil Service Board

Policeman Stephen Harrington of the Engelwood station was ordered discharged from the force yesterday by the civil service commission. Harrington had identified two men, who were charged with stealing a truck load of 3.2 beer, after their arrest, but when the men were arraigned before Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan he testified that he was not sure they were the same men.

SALVATION ARMY RELIEF EXPENSES DECLINES $121,000

A decline in expenditures for relief by the Salvation Army was announced yesterday in a report by John J. Mitchell, treasurer, ata meeting of directors in the Palmer house.

The report revealed that $471,508 was disbursed during the first five months of 1933, while during the same period in 1932 the total spent was $592,922. The number of families on the Salvation Army relief rolls in the first five months of 1933 was 1,941, as compared with 6,122 in the same period in 1932.

There was, however, an increase in other branches this year, including an 18 per cent increase in cases in the Women's home and hospital. More meals were given in the men's shelter and gymnasium attendance in the south side settlement was more than doubled.

Refunds expected to total $12,000 are being obtained from 235 persons who have obtained relief under false pretenses, it was announced by Joseph L. Moss yesterday.

STORE EMPLOYE FIGHTS BANDITS AND KILLS ONE

A bandit believed to be Stanley Lewicki was killed last night in a revolver battle with Louis Wajay, 24 years old, 4310 Crystal street, a clerk in Peter J. Stoltman's drug store at 4258 Division street. A second gunman escaped without participating in the fight.

When the men announced "this is a stickup," and drew guns, Wayjay drew his also. The bandit who was in the lead and Wayjay each fired two shots almost simultaneously. The bandit dropped with a bullet in his forehead and another in his hip. His shots missed Wajay.

LOSES TRUCK AND 3.2 BEER.

James Paras, 3257 North Clifton avenue reported the theft of his truck loaded with thirty cases of 3.2 beer and twenty cases of ginger ale to Warren avenue police yesterday.

U.S. ENVOYS LAND TODAY TO DICKER WITH 66 NATIONS

American Strategy Ready for London Parley.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, at sea, June 7.—Concluding today a week of daily consultations with technical advisers aboard this steamer, the American delegation to the world economic conference has completed a partial program for its participation in that parley. The delegation will land at Plymouth tomorrow and will proceed immediately to London, where the conference of 66 nations will open on June 12, next Monday.

The major objectives of the American delegation are:

1. To bring about a permanent stabilization of the currencies of the United States, Great Britain and other principal commercial countries on agreed ratios of value.

Aim to Reduce Tariffs.

2. To effect an agreement providing for the gradual reduction of protective tariffs of all nations.

3. To procure removal of exchange restrictions, quotas, licensing, and other depression-born expedients for limiting imports.

4. To induce other nations to join the United States in a concurrent artificial manipulation of commodity prices upward in a common endeavor to restore purchasing power as a major remedy for the world depression.

President Roosevelt's instructions empower the delegation to make as great concessions as other nations offer to achieve these results, but no greater. Unless the principal powers are willing to make reciprocal concessions, the American government will refuse to be a party to an unequal bargain, according to the present attitude of members of the delegation.

"Better to Do Nothing."

"I approach this conference," said Congressman Samuel D. McReynolds of Tennessee, a member of the delegation, "from the viewpoint that it would be better to do nothing than to let them do us."

The expectation is that several weeks will be consumed in jockeying by the powers for advantage. Great Britain, France, Italy, and other war debtors of the United States are manifesting an unwillingness to join in currency, tariff and other economic agreements unless the United States is willing to cancel or radically reduce its 11 billion dollar debt. The American delegation, however, is not empowered to negotiate or even to discuss debt revision.

The prospect, therefore, is that while the delegation endeavors to negotiate economic agreements in London the debtor powers will be pressing for debt reduction in Washington in negotiations with President Roosevelt.

A Great Diplomatic Game.

Eventually the fate of the conference will be determined by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister MacDonald of Britain, Premier Daladier of France, and Premier Mussolini of Italy.

If President Roosevelt makes concessions on debts satisfactory to the debtors, some sort of economic agreement probably will emerge from the London conference. If President Roosevelt stands pat on the war debts the question will be whether the European powers will be compelled by the economic chaos at home to come to an agreement with the United States on monetary stabilization and tariff readjustment notwithstanding failure of the debt revision move.

Although the war debts are excluded from the agenda of the London conference, they will be a specter at the international council board, around which the greatest game of diplomatic poker in decades will be played. There are some who think the finale will be a dramatic rush to London by President Roosevelt in person to save the conference from failure.

U. S. in Strategic Position.

As the situation shapes itself on the eve of the conference, the United States is in an exceedingly strategic position to achieve its objectives without concessions on war debts or undue economic concessions.

If the conference should fail, the United States is better prepared than any other nation to prosper in economic isolation. The foreign trade of the United States has never exceeded 10 per cent of its output, and President Roosevelt's agricultural and industrial program provides for limiting production to the domestic demand, if necessary.

Great Britain, on the other hand, cannot regain prosperity unless it regains a large proportion of its former foreign trade and foreign financing.

The American delegation in conferences aboard ship has evolved only a partial program for the reason that it lacks instructions so far on tariff policies. President Roosevelt will be unable to transmit such instructions until his authority is defined by the tariff resolution he will ask of congress.

Various tariff reduction plans have been canvassed, among them a suggestion of a 10 per cent horizontal scaling down of duties by all nations. Members of the delegation, however, are inclined to regard this proposal as impractical.

On currencies Walter R. Gardner, federal reserve board economist, who is accompanying the delegation as a financial expert, suggested stabilization of the dollar at par and the pound sterling at $3.50.

Delegates Reject Proposal.

Members of the delegation rejected the suggestion as too discriminatory in favor of the British. They held that the natural level of the pound is more nearly $4. A majority of the delegation holds it is impossible to stabilize currencies or remove import barriers except in conjunction.

The American delegates aboard this ship are Secretary of State Hull, Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, Congressman McReynolds, and Ralph W. Morrison, a retired banker of Texas. They will be joined in London by James M. Cox, former Democratic Ohio governor, and Senator James Couzens of Michigan.

Japan Demands Real Truce.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 8 (Thursday).—Instructions were dispatched to Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira at London today that Japan is not satisfied with having the nations of the world merely endorse a traiff truce but insists on a signed international agreement.

This action follows another boost in the Indian tariff yesterday. Matsudaira was told to declare that Japan is willing to restrict exports to India on condition that India removes its tariff, otherwise Japan will engage in a tariff war with India.

In some quarters it is feared that aggravation of anti-British feeling will result here. The foreign office is understood to be preparing a protest. Widespread indignation is developing among industrialists.

May Be on Board to Rule Industry in U. S.

HOUSE FAVORS NONRESIDENT TO GOVERN HAWAII

Votes Rankin Bill in Bitter Debate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's governor of Hawaii, unlike all previous governors of the territory, will not have to be chosen from residents of the island if action taken by the house today is followed in the senate.

By a vote of 237 to 119 administration forces in the lower body brushed aside a stubborn Republican opposition and passed the so-called Rankin bill, amending the organic act for Hawaii to permit the selection of the governor from the citizenry of continental United States.

Debate was shot through with partisanship, despite several protests that the importance of the matter demanded deliberate consideration. The report that Ben B. Lindsay was to be named governor of the island by President Roosevelt was formally denied by Democratic leaders. The notorious Massie rape case was likewise injected into the proceedings as an argument in behalf of the bill.

Minority Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.] provoked the most acrimonious fight of the day, however, when he referred to ten million dollars said to be in the Hawaiian treasury. Democrats led by Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] immediately charged Mr. Snell with impugning the honesty of the President and the Democratic party. So bitter were the Texan's remarks that the house was forced to a roll call on a motion to expunge them from the record.

Boulder Dam Water Spots Teeth, Los Angeles Fears

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—[Special.]—On insistence of Dr. Milbank Johnson, president of California Taxpayers' association, a delegation today was assigned to make a chemical research into the water at Boulder Dam and the Colorado river aqueduct projects. The water is to be conveyed to Los Angeles for domestic purposes after Boulder Dam is constructed with federal funds. One Los Angeles faction has made public charges that the water contains such a high percentage of fluorine that it will injure the teeth of children who drink it.

Texas Oil Operator Killed; Hit by Plane Propeller

Atlanta, Ga., June 7.—(AP)—Frank Foster, an oil operator of Dallas, Tex., was killed here tonight when he walked into an airplane propeller at Candler field. Foster was en route to New York for the Schmeling-Baer fight in a plane belonging to Skyloft, Inc., of New York.

GOLD HOARDS COME INTO BANKS AFTER MANY ARE QUIZZED

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—Federal reserve banks throughout the nation were beginning today to receive gold which had been held by hoarders in violation of President Roosevelt's proclamation.

In the district covered by the New York office of the United Bureau of Investigation 85 agents had interviewed more than 600 persons including a list of suspected hoarders.

The agents reported that only one hoarder, the owner of a large sum in gold, had declined to surrender his holdings.

His name will be sent to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings in Washington along with a report on his case and the cases of others like him who might choose to "test their constitutional rights."

Mr. Cummings, it was indicated, will instruct United States attorneys in all districts to prosecute persons who wilfully hoard gold in large amounts.

PRUSSIAN PRINCE MADE GOVERNOR OF HESSE-NASSAU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CASSEL, Germany, June 7.—Prince Philip of Hesse today was inducted as governor of the Prussian province of Hesse-Nassau by Hermann Goering, reich air minister and premier of Prussia. The prince was accompanied by his wife, Mafalda, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, in whose honor the Italian flag floated over the "red palace" where the ceremony took place.

The city enthusiastically greeted the new governor. Goering and other speakers asserted the prince's loyalty to Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The prince himself declared: "As a loyal National Socialist I responded to the call of my leader."

Goering afterward addressed the populace from a balcony of the palace, declaring: "I have appointed a National Socialist from the storm troops to govern this province. This guarantees that Hesse-Nassau will continue to be a rock of our glorious movement.

ROOSEVELT PUTS NEW VETS' OFFER UP TO CONGRESS

Compromises to Obtain Early Adjournment.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—Fighting to get congress out of town as early as possible, President Roosevelt was reported tonight to have made new peace offerings to the veterans' bloc on Capitol hill.

The President is reported aware that many business leaders are holding back in fear that the radicals in congress will pass new wild legislation, but at the same time Mr. Roosevelt is striving to save his economy program from wreckage.

The President conferred with the Democratic steering committee of the house today and also with an independent group of 14 young Democrats of the house. Later he went into a long session with Budget Director Douglas and Veterans' Administrator Hines, and these two, it was learned, were delegated to present the President's final compromise plan to the house leaders.

Although efforts were made to keep the nature of the Roosevelt concessions secret, it was reported that the President has offered to give any veteran who is cut off the rolls or reduced beyond a certain point the privilege of appealing the order and of receiving full payment, pending his appeal, for a period of six months.

Talks of Tariff, Too.

It is said that in order to avoid delay in adjourning congress this week the President agreed to wait for the regular session this winter before asking for authority to negotiate tariff changes. If, however, there should be delays on the industrial control and the veterans' bill he would send the tariff proposals to congress.

There are reports that the President does not expect that speedy negotiations on tariffs will follow the London economic conference that opens on June 12.

It is said the President feels that some compromise, that with a six months' clause or other, must be reached with congress in the veterans' case. That would avoid putting in jeopardy the prestige gained by the administration in previous relations with congress.

Granting that the concessions he is making will add to the red side of the government ledgers, the President indicated today that even so he will be able to bring the budget into balance. He appeared ready to risk a doubt on this score, weighing as greater the need for an end to this congressional session.

The President has taken pride in the past in asserting that his budget estimates of revenue have all been compiled without any expectation that better business conditions will bring increased tax revenues.

Bars Optimism from Estimates.

Even now, after many signs have pointed to a more definite promise than ever before that this depression is giving way to good times, the President refuses to make official budget estimates based on "prosperity around the corner," as his predecessor did.

But his attitude on the veterans' payments, his willingness to make the compromise offered yesterday of boosting them by $41,000,000, coupled with his firm promises, repeated today, for a balanced budget, led some observers to the opinion that he really does expect a better grist of revenues than the original predictions allowed.

Presumptive Cases the Issue.

The dispute between the President and congress on the veterans' payments resolves almost entirely into the question of whether so-called "presumptive" cases are entitled to federal benefits.

Under the law adopted by a past congress any veteran of the world war who contracted any disease or disability which by any stretch of imagination could be attributed to his war service was "presumed" to have encountered it in service and was permitted to receive compensation.

The President, convinced beyond any doubt by investigations that most of the 250,000 veterans now being paid under this presumptive clause have no just claims on the federal government, has insisted that they must be taken off the rolls. If they are completely disabled, however, the President has provided they may be paid $30 and hospital care.

In his arguments to the congressional steerers today the President declared that these men came out of the war whole and hale, and that in some cases their disabilities resulted, after the war had been fought and won, from their own misconduct.

Will Accept "Reasonable Doubt."

But in order that no injustices may result the President reiterated today that if some possibility existed that a "presumptive" case might have resulted from war service, such a case would be cared for fairly. The President employed for the resisting congressmen the legal phrase "reasonable doubt" and he promised that if such doubt existed it would be resolved in favor of the veteran.

MAKE PLANS TODAY FOR DEDICATION OF ILLINOIS WATERWAY

Plans for the formal dedication of the Illinois waterway, June 22 are to be made at a meeting today of the committee appointed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly to take charge of the ceremonies.

The first cargo flotilla from New Orleans to Chicago is to reach Lake Michigan on that day, completing a voyage from salt water in Mississippi sound, and the arrival is to be a feature of the dedicatory celebration.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the city council committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, is chairman of the celebration committee. Today's meeting, which is to be attended by leaders in Chicago civic life, is to be held in the city council chamber at 2 p. m.

Secretary of War Dern is expected to represent the federal administration at the June 22 celebration. A water pageant has been proposed as part of the program, depicting the early French explorers, La Salle, Jollet and Father Marquette, the first to discover the water route over the Chicago divide into the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

The Illinois waterway completes the link between the Chicago sanitary and ship canal at Lockport and open water in the Illinois river below Starved Rock, and it is now carrying commerce on a water route between the great lakes and the gulf of Mexico.

Dedication day is to be the occasion for celebrations up and down the river. It is planned to hold the official dedicatory ceremonial near the Michigan avenue bridge, close to the mouth of the Chicago river.

JUDGE DISMISSES SUIT; CALLS LOAN TERMS USURIOUS

Municipal Judge John J. Lupe yesterday dismissed a suit brought by the Admiral Securities corporation, 2326 South Michigan avenue, when he discovered that the company had charged $48 in "brokerage" fees on a $100 loan.

Judge Lupe ordered the company officials to surrender within a week all papers in the case to the defendant, Charles H. Schroeder, 7121 St. Lawrence avenue, an electrician. Among the documents is a chattel mortgage on his automobile which Schroeder gave to the company. The company failed to get possession of Schroeder's car and then filed suit against him for the loan. Judge Lupe ruled that the rate of interest on the loan was usurious and that Schroeder need repay neither interest nor principal.

"Somebody's going to jail," said Judge Lupe. "I'm going to have the state's attorney investigate this case, or I'll issue a warrant myself."

Judge Prystalski to Try to Solve Mystery.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 91; recovered, 60; stripped, 15 [from Chicago police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Tuesday].
Court cases: Harold Carter, Roland Minsghor and Samuel Mussolino, all charged with auto thefts, each sentenced to one year in the Bridewell; Joseph Sarello, same charge, 6 months in the Bridewell; all cases before Judge Gutknecht.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, will begin an open court investigation at 11 o'clock this morning into the mysterious liberation from jail of John Holland, 25 years old, who is facing trial on several criminal charges. Holland slipped out of jail on May 25, through the juggling of a remand slip.

A remand slip is a document which accompanies a prisoner to jail and contains the facts on which he is detained. It is issued by the court clerk, given to the bailiff in charge of the prisoner, and passed on by him with the prisoner to the jail clerk. It is an official record showing the prisoner's status.

Judge Prystalski was openly concerned with the escape of Holland. Except for Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail, he appeared yesterday to be the only official interested in solving the mystery.

A Carefully Planned Plot.

"There is something very peculiar about this, and I intend to find out what it is," said the chief justice. "It looks like a carefully planned plot to liberate a dangerous criminal."

The judge then announced his plan to hold a court hearing this morning at which he expects Sheriff William D. Meyering, Chief Bailiff James Z. Gabriel of the Criminal court, Warden Moneypenny and others to be present. Witnesses will be made to testify under oath.

Judge Prystalski tried yesterday in a chamber hearing to learn the facts about Holland's escape, but was balked by the absence of the necessary officials and witnesses.

Sheriff Meyering for one did not show up, and it could not be learned what, if anything, he has done in the matter. Chief Bailiff Gabriel did not appear either, being absent from his office when a messenger was sent for him. Deputy Bailiff Steve Cichon, believed to be the key man in the case, and Mike Russell, another deputy, also were absent. Only Warden Moneypenny appeared, and he was indignant.

Blames Sheriff's Office.

"The blame is on the sheriff's office," said the warden, after explaining that he had investigated Holland's escape and reported his findings to Meyering. "They are trying to shift the responsibility to the county jail staff and I'll not stand for it. I'm convinced my men are blameless."

Judge Prystalski's chamber hearing developed the fact that a duplicate remand slip, similar to the one which should have held Holland in jail, had been drawn up by a court clerk at the request of a bailiff, but this was later voided at this same bailiff's request. Moreover, the judge learned that the clerk's book in which the duplicate remand slip had been recorded is now missing.

Holland's escape was revealed Tuesday by the Chicago Crime commission when Holland failed to appear before Judge Harry Lewis on a charge of robbing a truck driver of $2,750 in tobacco. It was assumed at the time that Holland was in jail because he was unable to put up a $10,000 bond in the truck case.

As charged, Holland's release was effected through apparent trickery in the handling of the remand slip. After his arrest for robbing a truck driver Holland was released on $10,000 bail. Last month he was arrested on two minor charges in connection with the theft of an automobile. Bond on these two minor charges was $2,000.

On May 25 the signers of Holland's $10,000 bond refused to stay on his bond and he was taken to jail. That was about noon. However, the remand slip did not accompany him, and, in fact, did not reach the jail until twenty-four hours later. Consequently there was nothing to hold him on except the two minor auto theft charges. Late at night he was able to put up the $2,000 bond in these cases, and in the absence of anything else to hold him he was released.

TO HEAD COLLEGE

DR. MABELLE BLAKE.

The appointment of Dr. Mabelle Babcock Blake, associate professor of education at Smith college, as president of the Chicago Teachers' college, was announced yesterday by Mrs. William L. Pattison, chairman of the board. Dr. Blake, whose home is in Cambridge, Mass., will assume her duties in September.

Dr. Blake, who was graduated at Harvard university, organized the personnel department at Smith college eight years ago and has directed it since. The position of president of the Chicago Teachers' college, which was organized 40 years ago by a group of educators at the Columbian Exposition of 1893, is newly created, and Dr. Blake is the first to serve in that capacity.

DR. R. MESIROW IS ILL; ALIMONY CASE POSTPONED

A plea of illness won Dr. Maurice Mesirow, 4659 Drexel boulevard, a ten day continuance yesterday of a hearing at which counsel for his former wife, Mrs. Eda Mesirow, sought to have him sent back to the county jail because he owes her $3,000 in alimony.

Dr. Mesirow appeared before Judge Craig A. Hood in the Circuit court leaning on a cane and supported by his lawyer. He appeared about to collapse at one time. Judge Hood ordered that a physician representing the court determine the extent of his illness.

Mrs. Eda Mesirow, who got her divorce in 1930, is now in a sanitarium at Strathmore, Cal. Dr. Mesirow, who married Irene Pavloska, opera singer, shortly after the divorce already has served two terms in alimony row.

HELD AS KILLER-BANDIT.
A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Joseph Lorio, 27 years old, 651 Division street, be held to the grand jury on a charge of slaying Harry Gasaman, 40 years old, 4026 Monticello avenue, during a robbery last Saturday.

CLOSE CROOKED GAME OF CHANCE ON FAIR GROUNDS

Officials Warn Other Concessions.

A personal investigation conducted by Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, resulted yesterday in the closing of the concession, "Rolling Balls," as a crooked gambling game. The Exposition manager also issued a warning to concessionaires that gambling, violations of the prohibition law, and indecent shows would not be tolerated.

The closing order and warning followed a tour of investigation by Manager Lohr Tuesday night in company with an attorney. After investigating a number of other concessions the two men approached the "Rolling Balls" game on the Midway.

This game is played with numbered balls, which are rolled down a trough from the mouth of a wooden dragon. The customer, on payment of a dime, was privileged to seize one of the balls. If the number on the ball coincided with one of the winning numbers designated on the stand posters, the customer was given a prize. The major prize was a hand painted china set valued at $25.

$8 Worth of Balls.

Maj. Lohr and the attorney, posing as customers, asked the concessionaire the rules of the game. Then they paid $8 and seized all the balls in the trough. No winning numbers were found among the balls. Investigation revealed that the dragon held a secret drawer in which the winning balls were kept.

The operator could release them when a confederate appeared to play the game in order to stimulate business. The owner of the concession, whose name was withheld, was ordered to close the game and leave the grounds. Maj. Lohr said that plans for prosecution were halted when the concessionaire obeyed the orders to close.

Operator Follows Them.

Maj. Lohr and his companion discovered that the operator of the ball game followed them as they continued their investigation of other concessions. The Fair manager said that he believed the man had warned others of the investigation.

"Our investigation will not stop with the closing of this crooked game," Maj. Lohr said. "Exposition officials are coöperating with police in a thorough investigation of the concessions. We are determined to protect the visitor to the Fair."

Congress Too Busy.

Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, declared in Washington yesterday that congress is too busy to investigate charges of questionable activities in "The Streets of Paris," at the World's Fair. He made the declaration in reply to a telegraphic request, containing the charges, sent by Mary Belle Spencer, a Chicago attorney.

"I have every confidence that A Century of Progress officials are making the Fair attractive to people of every walk of life," wired the congressman. "If the Streets of Paris depicts life in its most artistic phases it will certainly open the eyes of Kansas and Oklahoma. The adoption of a resolution for a congressional investigation at this time would seriously interfere with the President's legislative program for early adjournment of congress."

Notes of a Century of Progress

More than 3,000 pieces of pharmaceutical shelfware, mortars, documents, and other apparatus assembled on the ground floor of the Hall of Science show how apothecaries operated two and three hundred years ago. The collection includes almost every article used in the pharmacies of the 16th to 18th centuries.

Charley White, former lightweight pugilist, who is now running a "muscle sense" exhibition at Jantzen Beach, yesterday entered a complaint against the heat. Since the opening of the Fair White has been enjoying a lucrative business from visiting women who wish to reduce after seeing the bathing beauties. The number fell off yesterday, with some visitors deciding to let the temperature do the reducing.

Registrations at the official registration desk of the World's Fair, located in the Sears-Roebuck building, average about 4,000 a day. The list includes 69 foreign countries. Illinois leads the states in numbers registered, with six neighboring states running a close race for second place. California is seventh.

Joseph Thon, an editor from Poland, was at the Fair yesterday. He is writing articles on international participation in A Century of Progress and intends to organize parties of his countrymen to visit here later in the summer.

An exhibition of public school work is on display at the Hall of Social Science at the World's Fair. The display includes a diorama contrasting the schools of 1833 and 1933, and 80 classroom views.

A valuable collection of 30,000 stamps and cachets will be on display today in the General Exhibits building. Lou W. Kreicker is supervising the issuance of official cachets.

Flying time between California and Chicago will be reduced to 14 hours beginning Sunday, it was announced yesterday by P. G. Johnson, president of United Air Lines. Salt Lake City will be only 9 hours 20 minutes from Chicago; Omaha, 3 hours; Cleveland, 2 hours; Washington, 6 hours 10 minutes; New York, 4¾ hours; Philadelphia, 5¾ hours, and Boston, 7¼ hours. Three mile a minute twin engined, all metal transport planes carrying ten passengers will be used. The faster service is to accommodate visitors to the World's Fair.

Sir Wilfred Grenfell and Lady Grenfell arrived in Chicago yesterday and will visit the Fair today and tomorrow. For years Sir Wilfred has been doing missionary work in Newfoundland and Labrador. He will have his headquarters in the International Grenfell association room in the Hall of Social Science.

Twelve business men from Vienna visited the Canadian exhibit yesterday.

The picture of one Chicagoan—Cardinal Mundelein—has been chosen as one of three outstanding men to be exhibited at the entrance to the International Photographic salon in the General Exhibits building. The other two are Charles Daguerre, one of the originators of photography, and George Eastman, who perfected modern improvements. The exhibit is sponsored by the Chicago Camera club and was hung under the direction of a committee headed by George High.

Graver Is Re-elected to South Park Board

Philip S. Graver, 10338 South Seeley avenue, was reëlected for a five year term as a South park commissioner at a meeting of the Circuit judges yesterday in the chambers of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan. Mr. Graver, who was first elected in 1928, is one of the owners of the Graver Tank and Manufacturing company, 332 South Michigan avenue. He is a Republican. The four other members of the park board, of which Mayor Kelly is president, are Democrats.

SAYS HIS LOVE PROMPTED HIM TO BEAT WOMAN

Reno, Nev., June 7.—[Special.]—He loved her so much that he acted as a nurse for her and gave her a beating whenever she needed one. [She needed one twice.] This was the only defense offered in behalf of Eugene A. Bowen, wealthy former restaurant owner of New York, when he was arraigned here today on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Miriam Hostetter Young, of Pittsburgh, heiress to a fortune made in patent medicines.

Mrs. Young, who came here to get a divorce from Charles Fuller Young of Chicago and New York, had let it be known previously that she intended to marry Bowen after the decree was granted. She took the stand in the assault case to tell her story. The romance, she said, had withstood the first beating, but the second seemed as little superfluous.

"He followed me into my hotel apartment on May 29," she said, "hit me six or eight times in the face and gave me a black eye. I told him I didn't want to see him any more."

After George Springmeyer, Mrs. Young's attorney, testified that Bowen had admitted the attack, William Taylor of Los Angeles was called to the stand. Taylor is Mrs. Young's uncle.

"Bowen told me: 'This girl needs a 24 hour nurse and I qualify,'" said Taylor. "Then he added: 'I will marry and divorce her at your say so, any time; I love her.' I told Bowen that was a hell of a way to show his affection."

The jury in the case agreed with the uncle and fined Bowen $50.

SEVEN ROB TWO STORES OF $440.
Seven bandits took $440 in robberies early yesterday of a Walgreen drug store, 5925 North Clark street, and the Irving tavern, 7471 Irving Park boulevard.

ATTENDANCE AT FAIR ON WAY TO WORLD RECORD

May Reach 30 Million for Five Months.

BY EARL MULLIN.

If attendance at the Fair continues at the rate set during the first eleven days a new world record for expositions may be set, it was indicated in a tabulation completed yesterday. The tabulation is based on a percentage comparison with the Columbian Exposition of 1893, when 21,480,000 persons paid admission. Attendance at A Century of Progress Exposition is running 270.9 per cent ahead of the 1893 Fair, the tabulation showed.

To make A Century of Progress a financial success, so that all outstanding bonds can be paid off, a total attendance of 30 million is needed. Officials are hopeful of reaching this figure.

Fair to Run Five Months.

The present Fair will run five months, one month less than the 1893 Fair. The greater part of the 21,480,000 attendance at the Columbian Exposition, yesterday's tabulation showed, was rolled up during the second half of the Fair.

Yesterday's attendance, swelled by special programs in honor of "Electrical day," showed approximately a 300 per cent increase over the twelfth day of the 1893 exposition. Officials said there were 51,332 paid admissions yesterday, compared with 17,402 on the twelfth day in 1893. A half holiday given 65,000 electrical workers in the Chicago area boomed yesterday's attendance which set a record for an ordinary week day.

London Holds Record.

According to records at the promotion office of the exposition, the greatest attendance at an exposition in modern times was at the London, Eng., exposition in 1908. The total attendance for that exposition was 28,000,000. The fair ran six months, however, and the attendance figures included both paid admissions and those admitted on passes. Only paid admissions are counted at A Century of Progress.

The attendance figures at the major American expositions and the numbers of days the fairs were open are as follows:

Philadelphia	1876	159 days	8,004,000
Chicago	1893	179 days	21,480,000
Atlanta	1895	90 days	818,000
Nashville	1897	155 days	1,274,000
Omaha	1898	153 days	1,778,000
Buffalo	1901	184 days	5,307,000
St. Louis	1904	187 days	12,804,000
Portland	1905	137 days	1,589,000
Jamestown	1907	219 days	1,481,000
Seattle	1909	139 days	2,766,000
San Francisco	1915	288 days	13,127,103
Philadelphia	1926	.....	6,400,000

The attendance figures for the Philadelphia exposition of 1926 included all forms of admission. The expositions at Atlanta, Nashville, and St. Louis were closed on Sundays. The 1876 exposition in Philadelphia was closed on Sundays and every night. Officials claim that the 1907 fair in Jamestown suffered an attendance loss of 2,521,000 persons and a monetary loss of $1,589,000 on account of the death of President McKinley.

Dedicate Electrical Building.

The feature of yesterday's program was the dedication of the Electrical building. Tribute to the men who fostered the growth of electrical research and engineering was paid by George B. Cortelyou, president of the Edison Electric institute and president of the Consolidated Gas company of New York, at the dedication ceremonies.

Delegates to the electrical convention in Chicago were among the several thousand spectators who attended dedication ceremonies. Speakers included Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, and Mayor Kelly.

"A great American President once said: 'Expositions are the timekeepers of progress,'" Mr. Cortelyou said, "and the thousands who see this Exposition will understand that statement.

"The visitors to the Columbian Exposition marveled at the profusion of electric lights, but that display would pale into insignificance in comparison with the magnificent lighting of this Exposition. The earlier Exposition played an important rôle in advancing the electrical art by bringing to the attention of the world the great promise of electrical development. Now we see some of the realizations of that promise."

Romance in Industry.

The keynote of the electrical program was taken from a statement by the late Dr. Charles Steinmetz that "there is more romance in modern industry than in all history." Leaders in the electrical field expressed the gratification of an industry that their craft had been honored by the dedication of one day to their research and applied science.

Following the program a tour of the electric exhibits was made with the visiting delegates as honored guests. Visits to the cooling plants, developed by electrical research, were classed as one of the more enjoyable features of the tour. In the evening special programs of an electrical nature were presented.

PIONEER COUPLE FLY BACK OVER OLD WAGON TRAIL

David Jack, 94 years old, and his wife, 90 years old, of Peru, Neb., arrived in Chicago yesterday on a United Air Lines plane from Omaha to see A Century of Progress Exposition. It was their first airplane ride. They journeyed west from Chicago in 1857 in a covered wagon hauled by a team of oxen, and retraced the distance that they covered then in several weeks in three hours yesterday. Mr. Jack is a civil war veteran.

Senn High School Star Leaves to Enter Annapolis

Ross Jean Konchar, 19 years old, 6602 North Ashland avenue, winner of an appointment to the United States Naval academy, will leave today for Annapolis. He was graduated from Senn High school, where he was a member of the football and swimming teams. Young Konchar is the son of George Konchar, booking agent for Chicago orchestras.

GRANTS HOLIDAY AT RACES TO PAY FOR FAIR EXHIBIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, June 7.—The problem of providing funds to maintain the Porto Rican exhibit at Chicago's A Century of Progress exposition was partly met today when Acting Governor Manuel V. Domeneck declared a half holiday to encourage attendance at Las Monjas race track.

The proceeds were given to the exhibition fund. After the government had arranged for the exhibit, the legislature failed to make an appropriation.

Gov. James R. Beverley, conferring with his successor, Robert H. Gore of Chicago, today sent word here that Gore will be accompanied by a party of ten coming by airplane for the inauguration July 1.

DEFEATED MAYOR OF LOS ANGELES PLANS CONTEST

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—(AP)—After Mayor John C. Porter had issued a formal statement saying he had no plans for a "contest" in his office, in which he was defeated yesterday for reëlection by Frank L. Shaw, he made a subsequent statement today indicating he might attempt to continue in the position.

Shaw, whose candidacy for the mayoralty was attacked by Porter supporters on grounds that he never had achieved citizenship, defeated the incumbent by some 30,000 votes. Shaw was born in Canada.

Mayor Porter admitted he had consulted his lawyers about the possibility of legal action.

Californian Held in Cell for Passing Light.

BY HAL FOUST.

Visiting motorists who are able to identify themselves satisfactorily no longer will be required to post cash bonds for minor traffic violations. They will receive summonses the same as residents of Chicago.

The change in rules was brought about yesterday afternoon after a Californian, here for the World's Fair, reported to THE TRIBUNE that he had been jailed for two hours while awaiting $10 bail on a charge of driving through a red light.

Led to Police Station.

Ralph Klinger of Alameda, Cal., visited A Century of Progress on Friday night with Ralph Metzler, real estate operator, 7528 Sheridan road. After leaving the Exposition at 1 a. m., Klinger, engrossed in conversation, accidentally drove through Clark and La Salle streets after the lights had changed to red against him.

A police car under Patrolman Groark of the accident prevention detail stopped the California automobile and led it to the Hudson avenue station. Metzler and Klinger looked in their pocketbooks and found that they had saved but $6 from their evening at the Exposition. Metzler identified himself with lodge, club, and business cards, but he was not permitted to sign a recognizance bond for Klinger's appearance in court.

Forced to Wait in Cell.

"Mr. Klinger then asked permission to sit in the squad room or in the sergeants' office while I drove to Rogers Park to get money for the bond," Metzler related, "but the police insisted upon his being locked in a cell. He was behind the bars for about two hours."

The incident was related to Police Commissioner Allman.

"The policemen followed the instructions of the Municipal court to require a $10 bond from out of town drivers," said the chief.

"Can't they exercise a little discretion during A Century of Progress?" the interviewer asked. "There'll be a million foreign cars in town this summer."

"If you can get the Municipal court to change its rule," the commissioner replied, "we'd be happy to use judgment."

Drops Bond Requirement.

The conversation with the chief was related to Chief Justice Sonsteby.

"We can't have visitors jailed for minor traffic violations," said the chief justice. "I'll write a letter to the commissioner advising him that the Municipal court does not require a cash bond from motorists able to identify themselves, regardless of whether the motorists are residents of Chicago, California, or Maine."

LEAPS TO DEATH FROM PIER.

VISITORS FROM 31 STATES INSPECT TRIBUNE MUSEUM

Visitors from 31 states and five foreign countries have inspected THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Historical museum since its opening four days ago on the 20th floor of the Tribune Tower. Among the exhibits drawing the attention of visitors to A Century of Progress are newspapers showing the World Fair of 1893 as reported in THE TRIBUNE. There are also pictures and members of the Columbian exposition.

The making of newsprint is traced in photographs and exhibits from the timberlands of Canada to the composing room of THE TRIBUNE. The speed of present day news gathering is contrasted with the time necessary in getting information to the public 100 years ago in another exhibit. In 1840, the exhibit points out, the first returns were printed eight days after the election and the complete returns were tabulated in newspapers 65 days later.

Front pages of THE TRIBUNE reporting great events of the last 75 years are shown in the museum. Among these are the opening and closing of the civil war, the Chicago fire, the assassination of James A. Garfield and of Abraham Lincoln, the first airplane flight, the Chicago Haymarket riot, and the discovery of the North pole.

Roosevelt Road Trolley to Fair Gets Park O. K

An ordinance providing for the extension of the Roosevelt road street car line into Grant park was approved yesterday at a special meeting of the south park commissioners. The ordinance was practically identical with the one approved by the city council last week. The tracks will be extended across Michigan avenue at street level and thence over the Illinois Central railroad on a temporary viaduct, to be built by the city at a cost of $135,000.

INDIANA'S ART STIRS CONFLICT AT WORLD FAIR

Conservatives Find It Too Modern.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Hoosier conservatism and Hoosier appreciation of art are in some conflict concerning the Indiana state exhibit at the World's Fair, it was revealed yesterday by Wallace Richards, in charge of the exhibit. The exhibit consists of a large mural in the Indiana room in the Hall of States. The mural portrays Indiana's history.

"Some Indiana people have protested against what they call the artist's socialistic preachments," said Richards. "They point to the section of a panel near the center picturing the coal mines of southern Indiana, and the sign, 'Workers, why vote the rich man's ticket?'

"I want to say that the artist, Thomas Hart Benton, who won the New York Architects' league gold medal for decorative paintings for 1932, is not a socialist. He is not trying to preach a sermon, or point a moral. He simply has tried to give an accurate pictorial representation of Indiana's history, social, economic, and cultural.

Shows Unrest at Mines.

"He has not injected propaganda into this mural, which was paid for by the state. But in showing the unrest in the southern mines, and displaying a sample of the propaganda displayed there, he gave that part of the history of the times."

Richards pointed out that the artist, in a section of another panel, shows a gathering of the Ku Klux Klan, sheeted figures grouped about a flaming cross, but that he also showed a hospital bed in which white persons gave free treatment to a Negro child.

The reactions of several Hoosiers were noted as they sat on one of the oak benches, part of the simple furnishings of the room devoted alone to the spectacular mural and one map exhibit on the floor.

"Well, it's modern enough, all right," an amply proportioned woman said to a smaller man.

"Sure, it's modern. What of it?" he replied. Then: "Look, dear, see the French trappers? That means they were the first white men in Indiana. And there's the covered wagon, pulled by yoked oxen. Then the pioneer's breaking the land, you see, and his wife is walking by his side."

"She has awful big feet," the woman said. "Yes, it's modern art, all right."

The Old Pine Tree.

Another couple, two women in summer dresses, studied the mural.

"It seems sort of odd, for Indiana," one said thoughtfully. "But I feel sure it's very artistic. All but that old stump of a pine tree."

She alluded to a separate panel, in the center rear of the room, portraying the dunes country, with a strip of sand, the lake, and the black trunk of a dead tree. Overhead the two halves of the mural, one depicting the social and cultural history, the other the industrial and economic history of Indiana, meet, with the chemist and the skilled laborer on one side, Gov. McNutt facing the future, symbolized by a question mark, on the other. Richards explained:

"The history of the world shows that, despite all this progress, we will return to the land, symbolized by the lonely dunes and the desolate tree."

CHILDREN TO GET CUT RATE TOUR OF FAIR ON FRIDAYS

Junior Fair Tours, with headquarters on Enchanted island, yesterday announced a special rate for one tour to begin every Friday morning at 10:30. The rate will be 5 cents an hour, or 20 cents for the four hour tour. The regular rate is 50 cents for the four hour period. The Children's day tour will include all the features of the regular tour, and, as a special attraction for the first tour tomorrow morning, Burton Holmes, travel lecturer, will act as guest guide. A parade through the loop, starting at 9:30 o'clock this morning, will give children an idea of the entertainment to be provided on the first Children's day, tomorrow.

REPEAL SEEN BY END OF YEAR IN WET LANDSLIDES

Vote of 37 States Looked On as Possible.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Repeal forces yesterday interpreted the repeal landslides in Illinois and Indiana as indicating that the 18th, or prohibition, amendment may be eradicated from the federal constitution before the end of the year.

Iowa is the next great midwest state to draw national attention. It elects its delegates June 20. Massachusetts is to vote June 13, and the anti-repealists concede it will go for ratification of the 21st amendment, which wipes out national prohibition. Four years ago Massachusetts voted 3 to 2 in a referendum for repeal of the 18th amendment. It repealed state enforcement in 1930, and next Tuesday it is expected to become the eleventh state in the repeal parade.

Repeal Seen This Year.

As the tally stands, ten states now have voted for repeal. In 21 other states elections have been set for this year. In six others the repeal leaders expect elections will be set for this year. It makes a total of 37. Ratification requires the vote of 36 states. From this the repealists see a possibility that before the end of 1933 prohibition may be expunged.

The rural vote for repeal in Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan is regarded by the repealists as a symptom of what may happen in Iowa, preponderantly an agricultural state. The rural sections in past years have been the bulwark of the professional drys. The repeal elections have shown them surging against prohibition. As cross-sections of the sentiment of the farmers, the rural vote in Illinois and in Indiana, which the Anti-Saloon league picked for its last desperate stand, is regarded by the repealists as indicating the trend likely to be shown throughout the agricultural states of the north and west. Illinois and Indiana farmers usually talk and act like Iowa farmers.

Three States Vote June 20.

On June 20, three states will vote on repeal. Besides Iowa there are Connecticut and New Hampshire. Ratification is conceded in Connecticut which never ratified the 18th amendment. New Hampshire is listed by the repealists as more than hopeful; it passed a beer bill.

In all six states are still to vote this month, for on June 27 California, and West Virginia will hold their repeal elections.

Much significance is seen in the rural voting so far. In Illinois on Monday when a 4 to 1 landslide was registered for repeal, the downstate regions went 2 to 1 for repeal. Only 19 of the 102 counties were carried by the drys, and these 19 have a combined population of only 375,523, which is less than 5 per cent of the state's population.

In Indiana most significance is attached to the fact that while the state in popular vote went about 2 to 1 for repeal, the repealist vote in the ratifying convention June 26 will stand more than 3 to 1. Repeal carried 57 of the 92 counties and the drys got only 35. There will be an indicated total of 250 repeal delegates and 79 anti-repeal delegates in the convention.

All this the repealists argue indicates a sentiment prevalent throughout rural America, and they regard it as a barometer of the voting in other agricultural states.

Vote in South in July.

July will see the first states of the south to vote on repeal. Alabama and Arkansas vote July 18, and Tennessee, July 20.

Looking over the figures, the ten states which already have gone for ratification have voted for repeal by an average of more than 4 to 1.

The figures for eight states in which popular votes were held are as follows:

Michigan	350,546	287,931
Wisconsin	648,031	141,518
Rhode Island	150,244	20,874
New Jersey	573,532	90,743
New York [unofficial]	1,929,813	240,677
Delaware	45,615	13,505
Illinois [est. from almost complete figures]	1,219,600	335,000
Indiana [incomplete]	517,544	284,806
	5,934,925	1,415,954

In addition, Wyoming ratified repeal 65 to 0 by delegates chosen at county conventions, and Nevada at precinct meetings has chosen 670 repeal delegates to attend county conventions June 10.

Repeal Ratified in Five States.

Five states already have ratified repeal in delegate conventions, the order standing: Michigan, 99 to 1; Wisconsin, 15 to 0; Rhode Island, 31 to 0; Wyoming, 65 to 0; New Jersey, 220 to 2.

The ten states which already have voted for repeal have a combined population [1930] of 36,522,388. This is about 30 per cent of the total population of the United States.

Besides the states already mentioned Oregon will vote July 21, Texas Aug. 26, and Washington Aug. 29. Five states are set for September—Vermont, Sept. 5; Maine, Sept. 11; Maryland, Sept. 12; Minnesota, Sept. 12; New Mexico, Sept. 19.

On Nov. 7 Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and North Carolina will vote.

250 REPEAL AND 79 DRY DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., June 7.—[Special.]—On the basis of the latest unofficial returns, Indiana yesterday elected 250 delegates pledged to vote for ratification of the amendment to repeal the dry amendment. The drys won 79 delegates. The popular vote was: For repeal, 517,544; against repeal, 284,806. Fifty-seven of the 92 counties voted for repeal. The following list shows results by counties with delegate strength.

TOMAN DEMANDS ACTION ON NEW CAB ORDINANCE

Committee Gets Draft of Monopoly Plan.

Ald. John Toman [23d], chairman of the city council subcommittee on taxicabs, called on his fellow aldermen yesterday for action of some kind on a new taxicab ordinance.

A draft of a new ordinance which would continue the monopoly now enjoyed by the Yellow and Checker companies and with the rate of fare to be determined later was presented to the committee. When no constructive action was proposed it was decided to refer the entire subject of monopoly ordinance and rate reduction to the full committee on transportation, of which Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] is chairman.

Submits Five Year Plan.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman prepared the ordinance submitted to the committee yesterday. It is called a contract ordinance, and if passed would be in effect five years.

One of its provisions is that no new licenses may be issued for taxicabs until all the cabs now in operation average 90 miles a day of paid travel, which would be about double the present figure.

The Grossman ordinance also repeals the section of the present ordinance under which a police committee headed by Deputy Commissioner John Alcock has charge of licensing cabs. Mayor Kelly said he wanted such jurisdiction given to a bureau under the administration control and not under the control of civil service employés.

Proposes Flat Loop Rate.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] presented his plan of a zone system around the loop in which taxicabs would be permitted to charge only 25 cents a ride.

Ald. Rowan found several of the aldermen in accord with his views regarding the 25 cent zone but at Ald. Toman's suggestion the subject was dropped pending its presentation to the transportation committee tomorrow. Rowan and others said they might be in favor of the five year franchise if there is a rate reduction, but not otherwise.

Attorney Glaeser Denied Reduction in Prison Term

Chief Justice John Prystalski yesterday denied a motion to reduce the prison term of Charles F. Glaeser, 66 year old lawyer, who is serving two consecutive sentences of one to ten and one to 20 years in Joliet penitentiary. Glaeser confessed defrauding clients of more than $600,000 through the sale of fictitious mortgage notes. An attorney pleaded that Glaeser is in poor health and may die in prison if the term is not shortened. Assistant State's Attorney Robert L. Donigan argued against the reduction and he was sustained.

WANTED A $20,000 MAN!

A well-established, aggressive Chicago advertising agency, whose billing has increased during the past two years, is looking for a man of outstanding ability in the creation of ideas and copy.

This man is between the ages of 25 and 40. He must have had successful experience in the conception and execution of complete national advertising campaigns, particularly in the food and proprietary fields.

He must have a thorough knowledge of copy and must be an able copy-writer. His writing must be vigorous, convincing and productive of sales. He must be practical, rather than theoretical. He must be willing to accept at the start much less than $20,000 a year, but the agency expects to be paying the man chosen that salary in eighteen months or two years.

To simplify the task of choosing the right man, this method of application has been devised. Prepare an advertisement selling yourself, instead of the usual letter of application or recital of achievement. An expensive, elaborate presentation will not be a factor in reaching a decision. All communications will be held strictly confidential.

Men aren't the only ones who know Luckies are better

We women know that there's always a good reason for everything. And when a cigarette is so unusually mild, so pure and fine-tasting as Luckies are—what other reason but "Toasting" could there be? No man has to tell me that fine tobaccos play an important part—but Luckies please me completely in still another way. My cigarette is such a personal thing—when I place it between my lips I want to be sure not to offend my sense of feminine daintiness. You men have your reasons for saying "Luckies Please!"—but with me it's the welcome purity as well as the flavor and mildness that "Toasting" imparts.

Keeping money on the move —making everybody happy

Keeping dollars on the go!—that is what makes business good. For instance, we loan a fellow $500... He pays up all of his bills; his creditors in turn pay up their accounts or use the money to buy more goods... And as the fellow who borrowed the $500 from us, and the other thousands who have borrowed pay their loans back, we in turn lend this money to somebody else—and the operation is repeated over and over again.

Money on the move—dollars on the jump—that makes business good and everybody happy.

This bank has played and continues to play an important part in this movement of dollars in Chicago. It does a "big bit" in helping to make business good and in making so many people happy—our own customers and the countless friends and concerns with whom they deal.

'SILENT' STREET CAR SOON TO BE TRIED IN CHICAGO

Rubber Is Secret of New Vehicle's Smoothness.

BY HAL FOUST.

A street car of radical new design, as quiet and flexible as a good automobile, will be placed in operation in Chicago probably this fall, for demonstration and experimental purposes. The announcement was made yesterday by Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, as he made public the first report on four years of coöperative research in behalf of twenty-five of the larger street railway companies in the United States.

"The most radical improvement," said Mr. Richardson, "is in the reduction of noises. A new application of rubber in wheels, springs, and trucks has left the overhead trolley wheel running on the wire as the most distinguishable sound. And the acoustic engineers have reduced this harmonic by staggering the poles."

Noise 14 Stories Below Audible.

The street railway president was sitting in his office fourteen floors above La Salle and Jackson streets. From far below and a block away came the noise of steel wheels, ringing, grinding, and pounding over steel rails.

"The improved wheels do more than anything else to reduce the noise," said E. J. McIraith, staff engineer for the surface lines. "Eight different types are being tried on the experimental cars in Brooklyn. One of the most impressive types has three rings of steel imbedded in rubber encircling the tread, the riding surface of the wheel. Between this rim and the axle are seven or eight discs of rubber supporting the weight of the vehicle.

"Rubber, a greatly improved material during the last few years, here receives a new mechanical application. The forces against it are in shear, a form of tension. Rubber has greater resilience when it is stretched than when it is compressed.

Rubber Replaces Springs.

"Rubber, in shear rather than in compression, has also been used to replace leaf and coil springs. This not only eliminates rattles but it also reduces weight. The new car will weigh between 26,000 and 28,000 pounds, as compared with 40,000 to 50,000 pounds of our present rolling stock."

One of the experimental brakes eliminates mechanical friction as an agency for stopping cars. An armature revolving in a magnetic field serves as a brake through a control of this magnetic field. There is a hydraulic brake with a fiber shoe pressing a drum, this brake being for use when the trolley wheel slips from the wire.

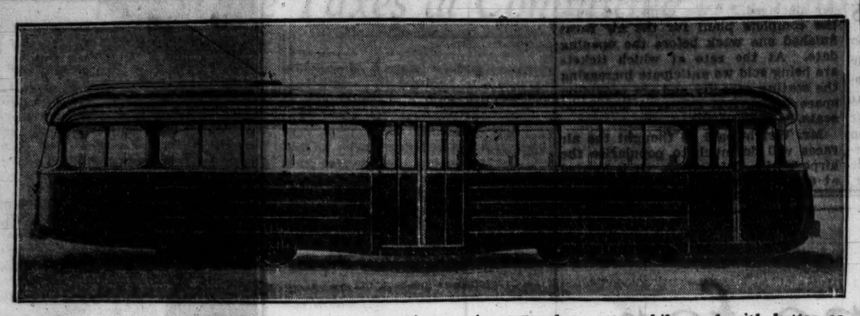
"It's a great safety factor," said Mr. Richardson.

"With better brakes we can step up the speed of our service without detracting from safety. Lighter weight, worm gears, and new types of motors will give a pickup almost twice as fast as an ordinary trolley, and an acceleration from 10 to 15 per cent faster than most modern automobiles."

"What's your best guess on how soon the noisy cars will be removed from service?" Mr. Richardson was asked.

"Your guess is probably as good as mine," he replied. "The change will be made when it is demonstrated that it is the economical thing to do and when it is demanded by the stock and bond holders and by the public."

Develops Noiseless, Easy Riding Street Car



A new street car, with rubber wheels and springs, quiet as modern automobiles and with better acceleration, which is being developed through co-operative research of America's street railway companies. This is one of the test cars such as may be brought to Chicago for demonstration in service next fall.

EVANSTON GIRL'S SUITOR IS JAILED IN PISTOL FIGHT

Joseph Meagher, 19 years old, 5459 Winthrop avenue, was arrested early yesterday after he had fired a pistol in the entry of an apartment building at 550 Sheridan road, Evanston.

He had rung a door bell there and requested Miss Norma Poll, 16 years old, to come down and take the pistol. If she didn't, he threatened, he would kill himself.

Miss Poll's relatives called the police and Meagher was overpowered by a squad led by Sergt. Anton Schultz after more shots had been fired. At the Evanston police station the youth, who is a son of the late Police Capt. Thomas Meagher, blamed his actions on the drinking of "docky wocky," an alcoholic concoction.

12 STATES MAP WAR ON ALABAMA PRISON GOODS

Plans for resisting a suit brought by Alabama in the United States Supreme court, seeking to protect its interstate markets for prison made goods, were drawn up yesterday at a conference of attorney generals and other representatives of 12 states in the Stevens hotel.

Nineteen states are made defendants in the Alabama suit, which attacks the constitutionality of state laws restricting or prohibiting the sale of convict made goods and also of the Hawes-Cooper act of congress which, after Jan. 19, 1934, would subject prison products in interstate commerce to the laws of the states importing them. Alabama contends that the state laws violate the right of congress to regulate interstate commerce. Illinois is not a defendant.

It was the consensus among the representatives of the 12 states that prison conditions in the southern states are subversive of social morality and that the sale of prison made goods subjects manufacturers to unfair competition.

One of the contentions of Alabama was cited by Raymond T. Nagle, attorney general of Montana, who called the conference, as revealing something of the conditions that prevail in southern penal institutions. Alabama makes the plea that if the markets for its prison made goods were destroyed it would be put to the expense of constructing additional cell houses.

Uses Kerosene Poultice; Blisters Cause Death

Frank Gearowski, 57 years old, 127 East 118th street, died in the county hospital yesterday as a result of deep blisters incurred when, to stop a stomach ache, he wrapped kerosene soaked bandages around his stomach and then applied hot cloths.

DISMISS PERJURY CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN LAWYER

A charge of perjury against Mrs. Ina R. Campbell, prominent woman attorney, was dismissed for want of prosecution yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. The complainant, Mrs. Hannah Randall, 4558 Dover street, failed to appear in court and her attorney Reuel H. Grunewald, told the court that his client had made a serious mistake in bringing the charge.

Mrs. Campbell announced after the hearing that she would bring suit for false arrest against Mrs. Randall. The perjury charge grew out of a civil suit in which Mrs. Randall charged that her husband, now dead, had had her imprisoned in a sanitarium. Mrs. Randall charged that Mrs. Campbell, who represented her in the case for a short time, forged her signature on a certificate of satisfaction of judgment.

Attorney Grunewald told the court yesterday that he believed that Mrs. Randall had imposed on him. The attorney said that he believed that the allegedly forged signature is genuine.

10 SHOT IN MINE BATTLE; TROOPS ARE CALLED OUT

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—[Special.]—Militiamen were called out in the Springfield district again today following a battle between Progressives and United Mine Workers at the Peabody Peerless mine northeast of Springfield, in which ten were shot and several others beaten.

Among the seriously injured was Herman Schwarberg, 723½ South Fifth street, special deputy sheriff. Slugs from a shotgun tore his left arm and penetrated his chest. Thomas Urban, Progressive miner picket, was shot in the abdomen and is not expected to live.

The Peerless mine has been operating under a contract with the United Mine Workers of America. Early this morning a thousand or more pickets met the miners as they were going to work. They were accompanied by women and armed with bricks. Firearms were used by both factions of miners.

The fighting ceased when union officials turned back several carloads of miners who were on their way to work.

A company of militia on duty at Taylorville under Maj. Christopher Long was hurried to the scene to maintain order. Later Gov. Horner authorized the calling out of Company C, 130th Infantry, of Springfield, under Capt. Howard H. Bentley. Maj. C. S. Long was placed in charge of the situation.

Four Held for Attack.

Benton, Ill., June 7.—(AP)—Four men are held in the county jail here today charged with assault to murder Pete Grory, a United Mine Worker, last night.

ILLINOIS HOUSE PASSES MERGER PLAN FOR PARKS

Board to Be Chosen by Chicago Mayor.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—[Special.]—The first important step toward consolidating Chicago park districts was taken today. The house of representatives passed the Rategan bill. That calls for submission of the consolidation question to the voters next April. Opposition was bitter, but the vote was 90 to 48. The bill now goes to the senate.

Backed by Chicago's Democratic city administration, the bill drew fire from Republicans. They objected particularly to the provision allowing appointment by the mayor of Chicago of five commissioners to direct the consolidated park system.

Election Feature Rejected.

A measure introduced by the Republican controlled Illinois commission on taxation and expenditures authorized last session was defeated last week. It called for the election of the commissioners.

Representative Joseph L. Rategan [Dem., Chicago], who handled the park legislation today, had a hard time for an hour or more. Members, chiefly from the Republican side, attacked his measure as "taking the franchise from the voters" because of its appointive features.

"A large part of the credit for victory was given to Former Speaker David E. Shanahan [Rep., Chicago]. He made one of his rare speeches today and said: "We in Chicago have worked for park consolidation for 30 years and I believe it is our duty to the voters to aid them in getting it now." Some Republicans immediately cast their votes for the bill. Minority Leader Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, principal spokesman for the Republican bill last week, for elected commissioners, managed to keep more than half his followers in line against the Rategan bill. He gained some support from the Democrats.

Chicagoans Fight Bill.

This defection from the majority side was led by Raymond T. O'Keefe [Dem., Chicago] whose district includes the northwest parks. O'Keefe contended that consolidation would increase the tax rate for citizens in his district.

Among defenders of the measure was James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], consistent proponent of economy in government, who answered attacks on the appointive feature by reminding the house that "the mayor will have to run the gauntlet of the electorate" if his appointees do not conduct themselves properly.

If finally enacted, the bill will allow all Chicago park districts—large and small—to vote upon the unification preposition next April. A senate fight is predicted.

SENATE PUTS OFF SALES TAX BILL ACTION TO TODAY

Due to Heat and Proposed Change.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—[Special.]—With Capitol building thermometers hovering around the 100 degree mark for the second successive day, the heat began to show its effect on the state senate today.

The biggest subject of the day, the 2 per cent sales tax, was discussed, but the senators backing the proposed excise let it be known they had determined to let it go over until tomorrow.

The chief cause of this delay was a proposal during the morning by Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] that the bill be amended to strike out the provision that from July 15 to March 1 the proceeds of the tax go to the Illinois relief commission.

Barr for Amending.

The legislation provides that after the latter date the receipts be devoted to the reduction or possible elimination of the present state taxes on general property; and Barr suggested that they be devoted to this purpose from the outset.

He made his suggestion during discussion in the committee of the whole and said he would submit it as a definite amendment later. This, with other opposition to the plan, wos sufficient to cause Senator Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago] to participate in conferences looking toward a compromise which would limit to Jan. 15 the period during which the retail tax receipts would go for charity. Final action on this question is expected tomorrow.

For Chicago Taxing Chicago.

The senate revenue committee recommended for passage a bill by Senator Simon E. Laniz [Rep., Congerville], leader of the farm bloc, which would authorize the Chicago city council to levy taxes to any amount it sees fit for relief purposes. All Chicago members are opposed to it, but the downstaters had a majority at the committee meeting.

The senate elections committee tabled the bill backed by the Illinois League of Women Voters for the creation of a system of permanent registration for Chicago voters.

The senate, itself, however, reached the peak of hot weather legislation when, allegedly because of resentment at the manner in which its members have been refused recognition, it refused to pass the reappropriation of $150,000 for A Century of Progress. This bill will be called up again and then probably will receive better treatment.

Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] paved the way for the reopening of the biennial battle over legislative reapportionment by introducing a bill giving Cook county 26 of the 51 districts of the state.

900 WAR VETERANS HERE APPLY FOR FORESTRY JOBS

Approximately 900 idle world war veterans have applied to veterans' bureau headquarters at the Hines hospital for enrollment in the civilian conservation corps, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Hugh Scott, head of the hospital.

President Roosevelt recently issued an order changing requirements for the reforestation army so that idle veterans may enroll.

UTILITIES OFFER HORNER A CUT IN CHICAGO'S RATES

Simpson Sees Governor About New Law.

Gas are now paying dividends at the rate of $5 yearly as compared with the old rate of $8 annually during the Insull régime. These dividends will probably be cut to $4 a year, it is said. Public Service company's present rate is $3 and will be cut to around $2.50 under the present plan.

Opposition to Bill.

Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago] chairman of the subcommittee named to consider the Sinnett bill, held a hearing late in the day which served the purpose of hearing opponents of the legislation, but did not accomplish other results. No vote was taken, but McSweeney said that there might be a report to the full committee tomorrow.

The most important witness was Harry Dunbaugh of Chicago, representing the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois and the Commonwealth-Edison company.

Lists His Objections.

Dunbaugh objected to the following sections of the bill:

1. Provisions placing the burden of proof upon the utilities in rate making cases.

2. The section giving the commerce commission the right to enforce temporary rate reductions.

3. The section placing the cost of appealing rate reductions on companies.

4. The proposed section giving the commission the power to halt dividends when in its opinion the credit structure of the companies would be impaired by payment.

When he had finished, Mr. Sinnett asked, "Can't you fellows get together?" referring to Dunbaugh and Irwin Rooks, attorney for the commission.

"There's not a chance," replied Rooks. "These sections enable the commission to do its duty. The utility companies have taken this position: 'Why should we do anything to help the commission do its duty?'"

Daily Denies Charge.

Mr. Daily was brought to his feet by this remark. "I don't want to listen to such a characterization," he said. "It isn't true. We think this bill is vicious, pernicious and utterly bad."

"And I repeat the charge," said Rooks. "The commission is not trying to get at the little companies. This bill is aimed at the giant companies organized to defraud the people of their right. The governor wants this bill and the commission wants to do its duty. I think the committee should report it favorably."

GROUND BROKEN AT AIRPORT FOR AIR RACE SEATS

Walter Wright, director of aviation for the city, yesterday afternoon broke ground at Chicago airport for the construction of grandstands that will seat 41,000 spectators at the American Air Races, to be staged at the airport on July 1, 2, 3 and 4 under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. He was assisted by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of events of the races.

"The ground has been prepared and construction of the grandstands will be started immediately," Maj. Schroeder declared. "We expect to have the complete plant for the air races finished one week before the opening date. At the rate at which tickets are being sold we anticipate increasing the seating capacity and are providing space for several thousand additional seats."

Mr. Wright said he thought the air races will do much to popularize the airport with Chicagoans. It is located at 63d street and Cicero avenue.

Trained Nurse Loses FAT

Wears Dresses 3 Sizes Smaller

Friends and Patients Reduce this Safe Way

MRS. GRACE HUGHES
Trained Nurse

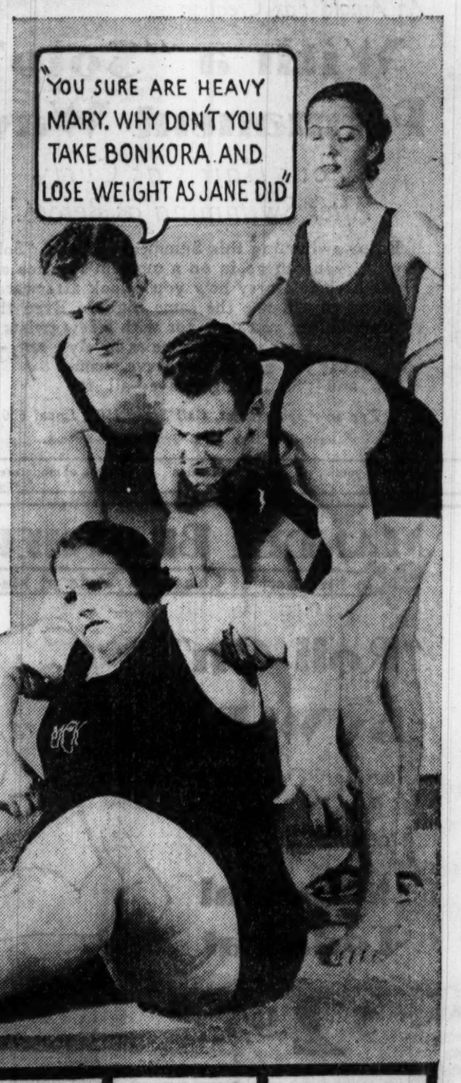
Loses 21 Pounds. Gains New Health

"I had taken a number of reducing remedies but they proved unsatisfactory. However, I am a Registered Nurse and when I learned about BonKora I knew it was different and just what I needed.

I lost 21 pounds in 8 weeks. I could have lost faster but didn't want to reduce too fast so I only took BonKora twice a day. I will keep on taking BonKora until I lose 20 more pounds. I have already reduced my waist 6 inches, bust 6 inches, hips 4 inches and now wear dresses 3 sizes smaller.

I feel like new. Can run upstairs now! Before, even walking upstairs took my breath away.

Five personal friends are taking BonKora after seeing what it did for me. And I always recommend it to my patients if they are stout."—MRS. GRACE HUGHES, State Registered Nurse, 17 N. Lindenwood St., W. Philadelphia, Pa.



Safe, Pleasant Way. Eat Big Meals Fat Goes Quick—or Pay Nothing

Lose your fat as this trained nurse did. Trained nurses naturally can recognize the best way to lose fat when they are overweight. That is why they choose BonKora, the safe, harmless, pleasant remedy.

Among other trained nurses who have written grateful letters about BonKora, are Mrs. Francis Rudolph, 4527 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, who lost 40 pounds; Miss Lola Sharp, Bristol, Ind., who lost 45 pounds; Miss B. A. Zimmerman, 766 Sutter St., San Francisco, who lost 20 pounds.

Why You Lose Fat So Quick

BonKora treatment reduces fat new 3-stage way. Triple action, triple speed. It has reduced fat for people who say they had tried other methods in vain.

Just take a little BonKora daily to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues and help body function normally. EAT BIG MEALS of delicious foods you like, as explained in BonKora package.

Reduce fat all over if you wish. Or, if you are just fat around waist, bust or hips, this fat goes first. When it is gone, you can stop if you don't want to reduce elsewhere.

Doctor Loses Weight Quick

Dr. S. P. Blumenberg of the great San Anselmo Sanatorium, San Anselmo, Marin Co., Calif., writes that he tried BonKora himself. He lost 7 pounds in the first 10 days. Then he began advising it for overweight patients at the sanatorium. He says: "I find BonKora is not only a safe remedy, but it actually increased my energy!"

Loses 70 Pounds in 14 Weeks

Mrs. F. W. Moran, 2349 Lake St., Kalamazoo, Mich., writes that she lost 70 pounds in 14 weeks taking BonKora, or at the rate of 5 pounds a week. She reduced from 210 pounds to only 140 pounds. She says BonKora also gave her new health.

Lose Fat. Look Years Younger

No dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way. Many say they look YEARS YOUNGER since they lost fat this healthful way.

So don't let fat ruin your looks, injure your health or add years to your appearance any longer. Get a bottle of BonKora from druggist on TEST OFFER below. If not delighted with quick loss of fat, manufacturer refunds money you paid for this bottle. You don't risk a penny.

Nurse Loses 40 Pounds

"Other remedies had failed to reduce me, but BonKora took off 40 pounds in 6 weeks. It made me feel stronger and I look years younger. I am a Registered Nurse and I always recommend BonKora to my patients if they are stout."—Mrs. Francis Rudolph, 4527 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Lost 61 Lbs. Reduced Bust, Waist, Hips

"I weighed 200 lbs. before taking BonKora. Now weigh 139. Lost 61 lbs. in 10 weeks. Reduced bust 6 inches; hips 9 inches; waist 12½ inches. Used to wear 44 dresses. Now wear 18. Headaches and indigestion all vanished."—Miss Lillian Rahn, 3004 Roosevelt Rd., Chicago, Ill.

Chicago Beauty Expert Loses 25 Pounds

"I tried nearly every reducing remedy but they all failed except BonKora. When I took BonKora I lost 25 pounds in 5 weeks. I wear dresses 4 sizes smaller. I now feel better than I have ever felt."—Miss G. Allen, Beautician, 7147 Constance Ave., Chicago, Ill.

SAYS MITCHELL SOLD AT PROFIT AFTER '29 CRASH

Medalie Cites Deal in 10,000 Shares.

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—It was asserted in court today that in the trying days immediately after the collapse of the bull market in October, 1929, Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, sold 10,000 shares of his bank's stock at a substantial profit. United States Attorney George Z. Medalie made that point today.

Mr. Mitchell is charged before Judge Henry W. Goddard with evading payment of $850,000 taxes on an estimated net income of $4,000,000 for 1929 and 1930.

Sale Briefly Discussed.

Cross-examined concerning the sale of the 18,300 shares to his wife, Mr. Mitchell admitted they had discussed the matter only briefly and that she was unaware that a drop of 50 points in the stock would have eliminated her entire investment. He admitted he did not tell her that he owned an additional block of 35,000 shares, then up as collateral on his $10,000,000 loan later reduced to around $6,000,000 at the Morgan office. He said he was sure, however, she knew of his substantial holdings. He insisted that Harry W. Forbes, tax expert, who advised him in this transaction, had not instructed him to advise J. P. Morgan & Co. of the transfer of the stock.

Mr. Forbes advised him that the usual transfer tax stamps required by the state and federal laws should be affixed, he said, but he simply forgot to do so.

Mr. Medalie has made much of this point, insisting that the stamps would have been affixed if the sale had been anything but a sham.

Mr. Mitchell has contended that he purchased 18,300 shares of National City bank stock at the time of the market crash, to save that bank from the consequences of a "perpendicular" decline in the value of its stock, doing so at the sacrifice of his personal fortune.

Sells 10,000 Shares Around $425.

That, according to Mr. Medalie, was not true. In the course of a prolonged cross-examination, the prosecutor brought out that Mitchell sold 5,000 shares to Dr. John Dorrance, 1,000 shares to John W. Harriss, 1,000 shares to George A. Fuller, and 3,000 shares to the late Harry Black at prices ranging from $425 to $450. These sales occurred within two weeks after the crash on Oct. 29, when the market price was $367 a share. Subsequently, Mr. Mitchell took a tax loss of $2,800,000 on the remaining shares through transferring them to his wife, by what the prosecution has called a sham sale.

At that time the stock was selling at $212. When it had fallen to $40 he repurchased it at $212 because, he insists, of a sense of responsibility for his wife's investments.

Market Built for Merger?

In his cross-examination yesterday Mr. Medalie brought out over the protests of Max D. Steuer, the defense counsel, that the National City company, of which Mitchell was then chairman, purchased 71,000 shares of National City bank stock on Oct. 28, the day before the crash, in order to "peg" the stock. A merger with the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company was in prospect at the time and the National City bank desired to hold its stock at its then level of $450 a share.

As he hammered away today, trying to break down Mitchell's story that he threw his personal fortune into the market in an effort to support his bank's shares, Mr. Medalie showed that of the 71,000 shares purchased on Oct. 28, only 41,000 shares remained by Dec. 3 of the same year.

These eventually were turned over to the bank's "employes' participation fund" until the National City company, the securities affiliate of the National City bank, actually had only a few shares in its portfolio.

The implication was that Mitchell might easily have disposed of his shares—28,300 in number—and that in holding them he was doing nothing to aid or save the bank.

Van Sweringen Tells of Stock Transfers to Escape Taxes at Committee Hearing

Washington, D. C., June 7.—(AP)—Creation of special corporations to avoid income taxes on huge stock transfers designed to promote formation of the Van Sweringen railroad realm was disclosed today to a senate committee that already was planning to ask full authority to examine J. P. Morgan & Co. partners on their tax affecting transactions.

In his third day on the stand O. P. Van Sweringen agreed with Ferdinand Pecora, the banking committee counsel, that using intermediate corporations to transfer stocks "took the least dollars" and legally side stepped taxes in building the vast railroad structure that started on $1,000,000 in 1916.

The O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen share of this $1,000,000 was $500,000.

Morgan Again Present.

J. P. Morgan and his partners again were on hand, listening off and on to the tedious testimony about a complexity of interlacing corporations that left the few senators present and a much depleted crowd wondering what it was all about.

The Morgan group heard the rail operator tell at one point how he had paid their firm and the Guaranty company of New York a $240,000 bonus for floating an issue of Chesapeake and Ohio bonds at a time Van Sweringen interests owed Morgan & Co. $35,000,000.

Before setarting off, the investigating committee agreed upon the terms of a resolution in which it will ask the senate for full authority to inquire into stock sales of Morgan partners in years when the firm paid little or no taxes.

Authority Is Challenged.

Chairman Fletcher said the resolution, when approved by the senate, would empower the committee to go into "all transactions with reference to sale or other disposal of securities" relating to income tax returns. But John W. Davis, Morgan counsel, was ready to challenge again the legal authority to make tax returns public.

Van Sweringen was the immediate witness in the hot hearing room. His brother—M. J.—and associates sat behind him as he testified in a low tone on his railroad holdings.

Two special transfer corporations were stressed by Pecora in his questioning. One was the General Securities corporation which was used to transfer thousands of Chesapeake and Ohio railroad shares from the Vaness company to the Chesapeake corporation, a holding company.

The other was the Geneva Securities corporation which performed a similar function when the Alleghany corporation, another holding group, was created.

Morgan Aids Financing.

Morgan & Co. aided in the financing of both the Chesapeake corporation and the Alleghany corporation.

Pecora brought out that 255,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio common were transferred from the Vaness company—a security company of the Van Sweringens and their associates—through the General Securities company to the Chesapeake corporation, at a time when its market value exceeded $44,000,000. This was above the cost price, but the witness could not say how much.

"If there had been a straight sale by the Vaness company to the Chesapeake corporation there would have been a big profit?" demanded Pecora.

"That's like saying if the dog hadn't stopped running he would have caught the rabbit," Van Sweringen replied. "We didn't do it that way."

"That profit would have been a taxable profit?"

Any Profits Taxable.

"If there had been a profit it would have been taxable."

"Now isn't it a fact that the purpose for the creation and use of the General Securities corporation in this transaction was to avoid—and avoid by lawful means—payment of a tax on such profit to the Vaness company?"

"It was the economical way of handling this matter lawfully from the tax standpoint."

"What economy interest to the Vaness company was served by that?"

"As between two routes, the one would have involved the expenditure of more dollars than the other. We chose the economical one, the one which took the least dollars."

"Why would the other have cost more?"

"That was because of the law on that subject, I suppose."

"Wasn't it because you would have had to pay a tax on the resultant profit to the Vaness company by the direct exchange."

"Yes."

Makes Use of Exemption.

Van Sweringen said also that when the Alleghany corporation was formed with Morgan aid, the Geneva Securities corporation likewise was used "to avail of income exemption provided by congress in connection with corporate reorganization."

Pecora told newspaper men that this testimony had "shown for the first time the advantage in effecting a transfer of stock through the medium of a third corporation."

"By this means the payment of taxes on profits is avoided," the investigator said. "It shows a weakness in the tax laws that congress may want to strengthen."

Pecora said the previously discussed deal by which the United corporation, a Morgan utility holding company, and American Superpower exchanged securities through the Public Electric Holding company was similar to the Van Sweringen exchange made to Start with Million.

Van Sweringen's answer to Pecora's question on how much he, his brother, and their associates had put of their own cash into their railroad domain brought the answer the counsel had sought for vainly during two days.

"I have read your question and am pleased it is in a form I can answer frankly," Van Sweringen said. "The amount of dollars was a million with which we started back in 1916.

"We were poor when we started out in life. I've never been reluctant to admit that."

'UNDER GUNFIRE FOR THREE MILES,' VENIZELOS SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, June 7.—Aroused by the attempted assassination of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos yesterday, all Greece today made known its disapproval of the attack which sent the noted statesman's wife to the hospital with four bullet wounds and killed a personal bodyguard.

The attempted assassination occurred as Venizelos and his wife were being driven toward Athens. Another automobile came alongside and poured a stream of bullets into the statesman's car.

"Remembering the attempt on my life at a French railway station," Venizelos said in describing the attack today, "I took my wife in my arms and we both crouched on the floor of the car.

"The assassins kept firing at us for three miles. All the time I kept asking my wife whether she had been hit, but she replied no. Then I saw blood and understood she had been wounded. We passed three passenger buses but they took no notice of our plight, preferring to get out of range of the shots."

The chauffeur finally managed to outdistance the gunmen, although he had been cut painfully by flying glass, and proceeded to the hospital.

Alleged Nebraska Robber Faces Court Here Today

Samuel Taran, 35 years old, was formally booked yesterday on a fugitive warrant charging him with robbery, kidnaping, and assault to kill in connection with a $150,000 bank robbery at Fairbury, Neb. His bonds were fixed at $30,000 and he will be arraigned in South State street court today preparatory to the beginning of extradition proceedings. Taran was arrested Monday. At the time he was with his bride of one day. He was seized after bonds taken in the bank robbery were traced to him.

Unclaimed Articles Are Auctioned by the Police

Yesterday was auction day for the police department. More than 2,000 lost or stolen articles that had remained unclaimed in the hands of the police during the last year were sold at 2729 Lincoln avenue. Among the items were false teeth, lemon squeezers, chicken coops, bicycles, typewriters, musical instruments, clothing, shoes, books, sleds, rings, and suit cases. All money derived from the sale will be added to the funds of the Police Benevolent association.

DOGS RACE AGAIN IN CITY, BUT ALL BETS ARE BARRED

Injunction Gives Tracks Doubtful Victory.

Greyhounds chased the electric rabbit around the Lawndale track, 26th street and Kostner avenue last night, to revive dog racing in the city after an absence of three years. But there was no joy among several hundred spectators because the betting cages were dark.

The dogs went to the post in ten races under protection of an order issued earlier in the day by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay, which restrained the sheriff, state's attorney and police from interfering with the racing. The betting windows were closed because the judge deleted from his restraining order all references to pari-mutuel betting.

40 Police Are Present.

Forty policemen in plain clothes, under the command of Supervising Captain John Stege, were present ready to make arrests if bets were accepted. The policemen came prepared to pay the 40 cents admission charge advertised at the gates, but the management let everybody in free, declaring the performance was merely an exhibition of racing.

The police detail was ordered by Commissioner Allman after Mayor Kelly had declared that he would stop dog racing in the city if it is legally possible to do so. Mayor Kelly made his statement shortly after the restraining order had been entered.

Sponsors of the dog tracks considered the injunction a doubtful victory because the betting is not protected. The injunction was secured by the Chicago Greyhound Racing association, which is seeking to operate the Lawndale track, and the Thornton Coursing club, which has been operating the Thornton track at 175th and Halsted streets.

Thornton Track Operates.

The Thornton track, which opened Mar. 1, continued to operate last night, although Assistant State's Attorney O. P. Lightfoot announced in court he would have dog tracks raided if betting is carried on. The Thornton track is outside the city limits and comes under the jurisdiction of the sheriff and state's attorney's office.

Attorney Daniel M. Healy of the law firm of Litsinger, Healy & Reid, appeared in court in behalf of the dog tracks. He argued pari-mutuel betting should be permitted at the dog tracks just as it is at the horse racing tracks.

He was opposed by Assistant State's Attorneys Lightfoot and Jacob Shamberg and Assistant Corporation Counsels William V. Daly and Otto F. Weiner. They argued that pari-mutuel betting on dogs is contrary to expressed provisions of the statute which permits betting on horse races.

Sponsors of the Lawndale track appeared in court after the presence of thirty policemen at the track Tuesday night prevented an attempted reopening.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MORE INTELLIGENCE THAN COURAGE.

The senate's finance committee, which had earned the gratitude of the country by striking out the two most conspicuously unsound portions of the industry control bill, promptly weakened and restored at least one of the provisions. The members of the committee thereby proved they have the intelligence to distinguish good legislation from bad but not the courage to fight for their opinions.

The section which was first struck and then restored was that which required every firm engaged in interstate commerce to obtain a license under penalty of fine and imprisonment for failure to do so. As the bill now stands a government functionary may control all business by his power to grant and revoke licenses. It is a power which can be used to prevent ambitious men from going into business and to encourage inefficiency in business by preventing competitors from entering the field. It invites favoritism; it is open to abuse by politicians seeking campaign funds, jobs for their followers, and even financial advantage for themselves. The provision is intended to stabilize business, but in so far as the granting of licenses is withheld or licenses once granted are withdrawn it can only unstabilize business by undermining the sense of security of business men in the continuance of their enterprises.

The committee has, apparently, stuck to its determination to protect American industry from the invasion of foreign goods which must be expected if the bill is passed. The bill is frankly intended to force American manufacturers to pay more for their raw materials and labor. As the draft has been amended, the President is authorized to place an embargo on imports from countries where lower wages are paid. The amendment will certainly be opposed by the Hull wing of the cabinet, which desires to restore international markets and which is going to fight in London for lower tariffs all around; but the fact must be recognized that there can be no compromise between the Hull view and the basic idea of the control bill. If the control bill is passed in its original form, without providing compensation for the added burden on our industry, a considerable section of our industry will be utterly destroyed. If Mr. Hull succeeds in obtaining tariff reductions the control bill can only increase the area of destruction in our industries.

The bill still contains the provision for the repeal of the anti-trust laws. If enacted, higher prices for many commodities must be expected, an objective which is no doubt desirable from numerous points of view, but which may prove profoundly disturbing at this moment. Business is plainly on the mend. Confidence is returning because the relation between the prices of commodities is such that numerous factories and industries are beginning to show some profit and increase their operations. To disturb the price relationships now might, and probably would, cause a severe setback to recovery. We might again have to go through months and perhaps years of painful readjustments. What progress has been made in reëmployment might well be lost.

The same criticism applies with equal force to the labor provision still in the bill. Organized labor expects, and with much reason, that if the bill is enacted the unionization of many nonunion and open shop industries, like the automobile plants, will proceed apace. Whatever may be the long term view of this program, there is no doubt that for the immediate present it offers only the prospect of wage controversies, strikes, and lockouts, with all the disorganization of production, distribution and prices which accompany them. In normal times we can stand a certain amount of this kind of thing, but now it can prove fatal to hopes of a continuing recovery.

The whole industrial control section of the bill should be rejected as dubious under any circumstances and profoundly disturbing under the circumstances confronting the nation at this moment in its history.

TO THE LADIES.

A whole city and the neighboring country-side turned out on a day recently to pay tribute to the virtue and character of a girl who had been crowned queen of A Century of Progress.

It was not mere curiosity nor admiration for a pretty girl that made her townspeople throng the streets of Racine to welcome Lillian Anderson when she came home bringing for a day all of the fifty girls of her court selected after a search by THE TRIBUNE lasting many months. It was instead a public recognition of the virtues of modesty, dignity, repose, and charm which have been all too frequently neglected in the world of the last generation.

If there had been about Lillian Anderson any of the boldness, the forwardness, the pretense, and the impertinence so often observed in beauty contests or if she had been other than what she is, there would have been a bitterness in her homecoming which was totally absent.

The day of the hoyden has passed. America, we believe, is turning to ladies. Not to the ladies whose conduct or absence of conduct brought discredit to a fine old English word but to the lady described in the dictionary—a refined and well bred woman, a gentlewoman.

Such was each of the girls about the throne of A Century of Progress. There is no home in the land which would not have been honored by the presence of any of them. Nearly all were university graduates, from cultured and quiet homes. The Junior league was well represented. Miss Anderson and some others came from the business world, and if their lives had lacked advantages enjoyed by others they were none the less gentlewomen. They were fun loving, merrymaking girls who crowded joy and adventure into their ten days' experience in Chicago.

The bathing beauty contests, with their display of bodies and painted faces, have become abhorrent. THE TRIBUNE sensed the disgust they created and in the contest for the queen of the Fair sought to honor those virtues which Lillian Anderson possesses.

Its success was shown by the welcome Racine gave to Miss Anderson and by the respect and honor paid each of the girls at every one of the public functions at which they appeared in Chicago.

ABOLISH THE ALIMONY SCANDAL.

The bills to restrain the alimony racket passed by the state senate in April are now on third reading in the house. Some opposition has appeared and amendments are proposed. One of these which would put a definite limit on the charges of masters in chancery for alimony hearings may not be objectionable if the rates fixed are fair. The amendment striking out the provision limiting separate maintenance to two years is another matter. Separate maintenance covers some of the worst abuses of our archaic marriage laws and is used constantly for extortion. If the assembly is informed of the extent of this evil, the gross injustice and social demoralization created by our present laws, it will pass these conservative bills of relief without tampering with them. The measures were carefully drawn and embody the experience and judgment of jurists and lawyers who for many years have had to do with the actual working of our divorce laws. They ought to be passed without delay, for the cruelties and frauds and scandals of the present system are a reproach to the state as a civilized community.

MISS POPP BECOMES NEWS.

Mr. Pegler did not leave anything more to say about Mr. Farley's reversal of the postoffice regulation prohibiting the printing of news stories regarding sweepstakes winners in newspapers to be admitted to the mails. The rescinded order was one of Mr. Hoover's postmaster general, Mr. Brown, who towards the close of his administration found that he could not get himself and his high hat together and simultaneously into his automobile. The prohibition of this news was as grotesque a single instance of the bureaucrat at his noblest as ever graced a period dominated by swivel chair autocrats. There is a Washington insanity which feeds on the meat which made Cæsar great without requiring any glimmer of Cæsarian intelligence.

The idea that the moral character of the country was so juvenile it could not withstand the shock of reading that some lucky person had won a small fortune in a racing lottery conducted outside the jurisdiction of the United States was a flower of the kindergarten conception of American citizenship. American citizenship, it is true, had become unbelievably juvenile in the eyes of its Washington government and many strange things came out of such doctrine. Mr. Farley abolishes this particular idiocy, but many more remain. While Mr. Brown's rule was in effect American winners shot by luck in these sweepstakes were almost as alarmed as they were elated. They had every reason to fear that possession of a winning ticket might land them in the bastile for life.

Because Mr. Farley took the ban off, the newspapers were allowed to publish the fact that Miss Louise M. Popp, a telephone operator living on Long Island, won $118,500 in the Irish sweepstakes. Her two dollar ticket was on Hyperion, the English Derby winner. The story reveals another of our government's eccentricities. If the fortunate young lady succeeds in getting her winnings into the United States the government will take about $43,000 of it in taxes.

All of which is funny. Maybe. But what is not funny is that Mr. Brown made an arbitrary ruling to curry favor with some professional reformers. Mr. Farley has made another arbitrary ruling, this time to curry favor with the newspapers.

Our forbears thought to create a government of laws and not of men. But in this affair we have one man dressed in a little brief authority laying down, interpreting, and enforcing one rule and another man, his successor, reversing it. If the first acted lawfully the second acted lawlessly, but in fact the laws were not the source of their action but only their ideas as to their "self-interest." This is not a government of laws but a government of men and corruption will eventually result.

BENEFITS FROM BEER.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The effect of legal beer on the federal budget is shown in the latest monthly report of treasury receipts. In 23 days of April the government realized $9,139,687 of new revenue from beer, while virtually every other source of federal income was registering a decrease from the previous month. In addition to the federal return from the tax of $5 a barrel on beer and the levies on brewers, wholesalers and retailers, the states which have legalized beer also received a large income from the beverage.

The beer tax was estimated to produce $150,000,000 a year for the government, and if the rate of the first 23 days is continued, the revenue for the year will be $4,000,000 short of that amount. However, there are reasons for believing revenue will exceed the estimate. There was a beer boom in the first few days of legal sale, it is true, but the production of breweries was smaller at that time than it will be later on. More breweries have opened meanwhile, and additional states are legalizing the sale of beer. The next few months of hot weather may be expected, also, to accelerate sale of the product.

The treasury report exhibits the economic gain. The benefit to law and order may not be so readily appraised, but in a statement last week by Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, federal prohibition director, an indication of these benefits is obtainable. Legal beer, said the director, had driven at least 50,000 speakeasies out of existence, a figure he reached on the basis of reports by administrators and from personal investigation. The open sale of beer thus places a definite curb upon an unwholesome institution whose rise since prohibition had been deplored by wets and drys alike, and which had spawned a large share of the crime and immorality of the epoch.

Thus had 3.2 beer contributed to the economic and social welfare of the country.

GRADUATION VALEDICTORY FOR 1933.

. . . Beloved professors and dear classmates, it has always been the custom at graduating exercises in the past to say at this point, "and now, dear friends, our pathways part." But all that has been changed—no longer do our pathways part, oh, anything but—for with our dear professors leading the way let us, classmates, march on to Washington.

No more will we say, "Beyond the Alps lies Italy." That's old stuff, fellow classmates, tie a can to it. Rather let us say that beyond the Alleghenies lies Washington, and, dear professors and fellow classmates, Washington is our oyster. Our day has come! No longer will we abandon the bright dreams we have dreamed through four years of college and go out and sell bonds or the "Life and Public Services of Alphonse Capone." Nay, nay! In Washington college graduates are now the whole cheese and from there we will run the country and the whole illimitable universe. Already in Washington the great places are filled with college professors. They are at all the desks in every department or if not will be ere long. Even now as you listen you will hear on every wind that blows from the direction of Washington a sharp, poignant scream as some old line politician or statesman is pried away from his job and thrown through the window to make way for a college professor or college graduate.

It is a new day, fellow collegiates! In Washington with professors marching by companies, by regiments, by brigades in Pennsylvania avenue and all the streets, and massed in solid ranks around all the great public buildings, we will find our greatly desired opportunity of taking the whole world to pieces, finding out what makes it tick and then putting the damthing together again the way we want it.

Ah, dear professors and fellow classmates, at last our time has come. Rude, common people who never went to college used to give us college graduates the hoarse and raucous hoot. They said we would have to forget our Greek and Sanskrit and do messy, greasy things in order to get on in the world. But that is not true now. Our Greek and our Sanskrit will be very useful in Washington where there are now such a great number of scholars in all the high offices that even the street car conductors say "Fare, please," in Greek, Sanskrit and Chaldean. And many of the new plans and laws made by the professors in Washington for the farmer, the home owner, the workingman and all classes of our people represent so much of collegiate culture and scholasticism that the fact is recognized by the people generally, many of whom after reading of something said in Washington will look up and say: "Well, that's all Greek to me."

Yes, fellow graduates, this time we're sitting pretty. If anybody asks you to sell bonds or be a book agent or push a wheelchair down at the World's Fair soak him on the beezer. Fall in line behind our dear professors and on to Washington!

THOUGHT ABOUT PROGRESS.

When I wangle my way to my dwelling,
Each day at its close, so to speak;
When I pull my stakes out of the trade-marts
And solitude flat-ward I seek,
'T is not my luck to find relaxation
In the Longfellow'd way of repute,
For the rip-roaring radio greets me
With programs full fortissimo,
And methinks I could do with the hardships
That our forefathers once had to know.

JOHN L'E. REYNOLDS' ASSISTANT.

"THE REAL TEST," declared good Bishop Cannon last week, "comes in Indiana." And then Indiana rose up and swatted the sacred 18th all over the place. "The real test," said the bishop yesterday, "comes in Alabama at the election in July." Well, after all, one must not be impatient with the good bishop. Suppose you had a nice meal ticket good for twenty-four meals at your favorite restaurant and you dropped it on the floor and some great big bozo wearing hobnailed shoes came along and stepped on your meal ticket and punched out the whole twenty-four meals. You'd be sore, too. Well, that is the way it is with good Bishop Cannon. The voters have put their hobnailed shoes on and they are jumping up and down on his meal ticket.

CAMOUFLAGE.

Just a look between us,
That is all we need,
Who cares who has seen us,
We shall take no heed.

Words are lightly spoken,
Touches quickly gone,
But barriers are broken
While the smile is on.

So just a glance between us,
Sweetheart, you and I,
That's enough to screen us
From the hue and cry!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

AFTER READING how easy it was for the super salesman to sell the conservation department toilet kits for $1.40 apiece that the war department says it could have bought for 85 cents we have decided to go down to Washington and see if they would like to buy a nice gold brick all wrapped up in old newspapers. Or we might try the old shell game. That ought to go great in Washington.

THE WATER SUPPLY AND MOTTLED TEETH.

THE cause of mottling of the teeth appears to be settled beyond doubt. This disorder, so long mysterious in its manifestations, is now well understood. It is caused by the prolonged use of water that contains an excessive amount of fluorine. On the one hand any community can have its water supply analyzed and know with certainty whether the inhabitants of the town will or will not have mottled teeth if they use it. A certain Arkansas community that once shifted from one water supply to another might have escaped an outbreak of mottled teeth if they had had the new water tested for fluorine, and had they known the significance of what the test showed. Furthermore, a community in which the people suffer from mottled teeth can also know how to overcome the affliction.

There seems more than a possibility that the problem of tooth decay is practically settled. If so, in a few years people who care enough to carry out a policy can escape loss of teeth due to decay. There remain three great problems in prevention in mouth hygiene: prevention of pyorrhea, of malocclusions, and of erosion.

A recently published study by surgeons connected with the public health service nearly rounds out the demonstration that mottling is due to excess fluorine in the water. The study was made in connection with the water supply in Conway, S. C., a community where mottling prevails.

This study showed the water to be too rich in fluorine. When this water was boiled down to a tenfold strength and given to rats their teeth speedily developed mottling. If the water, concentrated in the same way and containing all of its elements except fluorine, was given rats no mottling followed. A water made up of water containing those elements in the Conway water, and to which was added sodium fluoride in the proportion of 150 parts per million, was fed to rats and mottling followed. If the strength of the fluoride was increased to 500 parts per million, most of the rats receiving it died. Those that survived showed mottled teeth which speedily became chalky white and brittle.

This seems to explain one question that remained in controversy after the main one was settled. That was, are the mottled teeth prone to decay? Are they good teeth or bad, from that standpoint? In some places the dentists hold that in persons of certain ages mottled teeth, while not pretty, are extra sound. Some other dentists and research students have found mottled teeth to be poor quality.

This experiment indicates that dosage is a factor. If the dose is large the teeth are chalky and brittle. If it is smaller they are discolored and not good to look at, but they are fine tools to chew with.

Discussion may very well swing away from the cause of mottled teeth toward maturing an opinion as to the soundness of such teeth. In the practical public health field the question should swing to learning the fluorine content of all public water supplies and improving those that are causing harm to teeth.

BOIL THE MILK.

L. T. writes: 1. My child is going to the country to visit. Is it safe for him to drink milk that has not been pasteurized?

2. Do farmers have any way to pasteurize? 3. If so, what is the formula?

REPLY.

1. Safety is a relative term. Probably your child can drink raw milk for two weeks and escape all harm. Farmers' families drink it when they drink milk and the yearly crop of young farmers passing from youth to manhood is pretty large. At that, they suffer far more than their share of milk-borne infections.

2. No.

3. My advice is that you have your child drink boiled milk while on the trip. Let the milk simmer rather than boil actively. This is fairly convenient and it is safe.

BEDBUGS.

Mrs. W. A. writes: What is the most effective way of fumigating a house for bedbugs and their eggs? Would burning of a sulphur candle be sufficient?

REPLY.

Cyanide fumigation is the most effective method, but it is also the most dangerous. Sulphur is less dangerous and less effective.

PROPERTY OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, June 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to find out who owns a certain piece of property. Can you tell me where I can obtain this information? R. P.

By going to the city map department on the fourth floor of the city hall you can ascertain the legal description. By looking up this description in the tract index in the recorder's office in the county building you can ascertain the name of the record holder. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHATTEL MORTGAGE.

Oak Park, Ill., June 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A mortgages his furniture for $300 with a finance company, B. A gives up housekeeping and rents a garage from C, where he stores the furniture. He fails to pay rent for the garage, which is now twelve months past due. B is looking for him. A has left town. 1. Can the finance company get a court order taking the furniture from C? 2. If so, how much will this cost? 3. Can C hold the furniture until B pays the storage charges? 4. Can C also hold this furniture for board and room for seven months? 5. If A comes for the furniture, will C have to give it up to him without compensating for storage on same? D. S. H.

1. Yes, if their chattel mortgage was validly recorded.
2. We are not in a position to say.
3. See 1.
4. Not as against the chattel mortgage.
5. Rights between A and C would depend upon the agreement between them. If the furniture was delivered to C as security, then C would be entitled to hold it as security, otherwise there would be no right to hold it merely because money was owing.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 8, 1917.

LONDON.—The British army yesterday struck the Germans a stunning blow on a front of ten miles in Belgium—just south and east of Ypres. The famous Messines ridge is in British hands. Reports are that they took 5,000 prisoners during the storming engagement. The attack was made by troops under command of Gen. Herbert C. O. Plumer, who have been continuously on the defensive for two years and more. The official report indicates that the towns of Messines and Wytschaete have been captured. Unofficial reports add the towns of Zareebe, Lenfre, and Oosttaverne. English and Irish troops and Australians participated. The climax of the attack was the explosion of a million pounds of dynamite underneath the German forward positions. For months the British army has been tunneling for this purpose. Lloyd George, the premier of Great Britain, was advised of the hour of the explosion and was awakened by his own orders at 3 a. m. to hear it. He was at his country home over in England, 140 miles away.

WASHINGTON.—The military collapse of Russia will require the United States to furnish 2,000,000 soldiers as soon as it is physically possible to do so. It is estimated that with Russia out of the military reckoning Germany will be able to transfer nearly 2,000,000 troops from the eastern to the western front. This transfer is believed to be in progress, and a terrific drive by Hindenburg on the British and French has been expected within the next few weeks. The British drive announced today may be aimed to forestall these German plans.

WASHINGTON. — Differences between Gen. George W. Goethals and his two aids over the question of constructing 1,000 wooden ships for the national crisis reached a climax. The two aids issued statements virtually charging that Gen. Goethals, who is general manager of the Emergency Fleet corporation, has halted the building of the huge fleet of wooden vessels by prescribing an impossible form of contract. Gen. Goethals would not comment on the statement, but said he might talk today.

CHICAGO. — Of the approximately $15,000 males between the ages of 21 and 31, who registered in Chicago, June 6, 115,715 — 110,017 whites and 5,098 Negroes—asked no favors of any kind. A total of 151,006—143,735 whites and 7,271 Negroes—went down under the claimed exemption classification. The prevailing exemption stipulation was the married state.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—For children too young to be checked at the Enchanted island is there a concession on the Fair ground which will rent the parents of such a child a go-cart in which the child can be wheeled around by its parents? What is the location of the concession and what charge does the concession make?

ANSWER—The Daggett Roller Chair company is inaugurating such a service and will have it functioning shortly. The carts are to be pushed by the parents, and, although the charge has not yet been decided, will probably cost about 50 cents an hour. The carts can be obtained at any of their stations at the entrance gates.

QUESTION—Is there a numismatics exhibit at the Fair, and to whom may I write regarding the placing of such an exhibit?

ANSWER—There is no such exhibit. Write to the Exhibits department, A Century of Progress, Chicago.

QUESTION—Please inform me if I can purchase a season discount ticket. Where can I purchase it and what is the price?

COLONIES FOR DEBTS.

Chicago, June 5.—Mr. M. A. Spellacy of Lima, O., whose letter was in the Voice of the People on June 5, seems to have some peculiar ideas about former German colonies and their value. He speaks of Iraq as if it were a former German colony and as if it were a colony of England today. Such a statement is without foundation. Iraq used to be part of the Ottoman empire and today is an independent state under the protection of England. From 1921 until 1932 it was a mandated territory under the sovereignty of the league of nations. The open door principle prevails in mandated territories and under that principle the Sinclair-Standard Oil groups of this country got a 25 per cent share in the oil production of Iraq.

Mr. Spellacy seems to think that the United States hasn't enough oil. Well, the fields of the United States produce 70 per cent of all the oil consumed in the world, and American companies control 8 per cent more of the oil fields outside continental United States, thus putting 78 per cent of the oil production of the world in American control. Surely, isn't that almost a monopoly?

As for the other colonies taken away from the central powers, in practically every case the controlling government has to spend more money on them than it receives in revenue from them. Those territories that have any great economic possibilities at all are open to economic penetration by Americans under the open door policy established by the league of nations.

Most competent observers feel that the former German colonies, if held by the United States, would be of value in two ways not mentioned by Mr. Spellacy. They would have prestige value, a value the United States does not need, because this country is already the most powerful one on the face of the earth. A second value of greater importance would be their military and naval strategic value, and this applies only to the former German islands in the Pacific ocean, the least valuable economically of all. If the United States held those islands now instead of Japan, we would not have to worry very much about Japanese attacks on the Philippines, the Hawaiian islands, or our Pacific coast. This would be true if the former German islands were held by a small power such as Holland or Portugal.

Certainly we do not need any of the former German colonies. In conclusion it might be well to remember that we refused to assume a mandate over Armenia, which is thought to have large reserves of oil. L. W. H.

A PREVIOUS LOAN TO CHINA.

Chicago, June 5.—I note an item in your paper of today relative to the R. F. C. having loaned $50,000,000 to China for various reasons.

Being one of the many suckers who purchased Republic of China bonds at par some years ago upon the recommendation of a large Chicago bank, I am at a loss to note the absence of any protest upon the part of newspapers or our high salaried statesmen at present.

Inasmuch as the issue was only $6,000,000, would it not be a good idea to mention the indebtedness in some manner? Surely, if they repudiate a straight out-and-out obligation are we to assume they will pay when the R. F. C. loan is without any security other than a new promise? G. J. A.

A BILL TO BE VETOED.

Chicago, June 3.—Never have I seen such a dastardly misrepresentation of facts as was printed in an editorial of THE TRIBUNE today entitled "A Bill to Be Vetoed" concerning the so-called teachers' strike bill lately passed by the legislature. According to the editorial it is simply a bill permitting "arrogant" and "radical" members of the teaching force to quit their posts whenever they please and then have the privilege of reinstatement.

The truth is that the bill would permit teachers to take a leave of absence without loss of pension and reinstatement privileges after their salaries have been more than three months in arrears and for no other reason. The bill further provides that they must return to their posts within ten days after payment of their back salary.

The resolution hastily adopted by the board of education yesterday providing for the same thing is not binding on the board since it was passed in defiance of certain rules of the board procedure.

For deliberate and malicious misrepresentation of facts THE TRIBUNE should be awarded first prize. And if the editorials can be so grossly untruthful concerning one set of facts, all of its editorials must be taken with several "grains of salt."

ARROGANT.

THE SHORTCOMINGS OF THE RADIO.

Mishawaka, Ind., June 2.—Several years ago radio and radio broadcasting reached a point of recognized excellence. Since then both have gone into a tail spin. Whereas automobiles have offered a thousand and one improvements and refinements, the radio industry has not offered a single advancement and none is in sight as far as I can learn. But, still worse, radio broadcasting has degenerated into mere programs of fifteen minutes of jargon, mostly advertising, accompanied by a noise or racket composed of blues singers, torch singers, and jazz orchestras which are 100 per cent anathema to radio listeners. There is scarcely a time [except Sunday mornings] a music lover can turn on the radio and not become possessed with a mania to hurl the thing out the window and have the pleasure of listening to the crash. To be sure, there are some momentary interjections of pipe organ and piano, but this is only a flash in the storm. W. W. S.

JAPANESE RELATIONS.

Chicago, June 2.—Why not grant the Japanese the equality they demand? It seems a very modest request in view of the fact they undoubtedly are our superiors in many respects.

I should not recommend the lowering of the immigration bars, but if our diplomats were to explain tactfully to the Japanese that we keep them out only to spare ourselves the comparison of our ignoble race with their glorious and honorable one, I am sure so polite a people as the Japanese would refrain from humiliating us further with their excellence.

It is difficult for the crass mind of the west to understand the finesse of the orient. It may be that this demand is in reality only a bit of subtle flattery. If so, let us be grateful, but at the same time continue to insist that they do not diminish their ineffable splendor by contact with our lowly, baseborn, and utterly unworthy race. C. I. T.

THIS REMINDS ME OF THE NIGHT WE ELOPED -
I THOUGHT I NEVER COULD GET DOWN OFF OUR KITCHEN ROOF AFTER CLIMBING OUT TH' BACK WINDOW.
AND I NEVER WILL FORGET THAT MAD RIDE OVER THE STATE LINE WITH THAT HORSE AND BUGGY.
AND THEN THAT LONG LONESOME WAIT AT THE STATION FOR THAT TRAIN - LOOKING FOR FATHER TO SHOW UP ANY MINUTE
SAY YOU COULD NEVER COUNT ON YOUR OLD MAN EVER CATCHIN' A TRAIN - HE WAS NEVER ON TIME IN HIS LIFE
I FELT AT TH' TIME I WAS MAKIN' A MISTAKE COUNTIN' ON HIM.

Automobile output in the week ended May 20 was estimated at 55,801 units, a gain of 4,130 over the previous week, according to Cram's Automotive Reports. It was the highest level reached since the week of June 13, 1931. The above chart shows the weekly trend.

Breaking RECORDS!

THE returning tide of prosperity sees Detroit rising to new records both for factory production and retail sales.

Increased activity in all phases of Detroit life proves that better business is opening up the pocketbooks of all!

Automobiles lead, of course, since Detroit is the world's greatest automotive center. Production is literally booming. May production was greater than in April, which formerly has always been considered the peak month for spring production. An extraordinary feature of increased sales is the great proportion made for cash. There is actually a shortage of turned-in used cars in Detroit; while Wayne County, Michigan, which embraces Detroit, shows gains in retail sales of automobiles of 20% over the same month last year, the largest gain in several years.

"May sales of National Cash Registers will run 100% ahead of the same month last year," according to E. L. Blake, Detroit Sales Agent.

"The Eureka Vacuum Company has gone on a full five-day production schedule because of the increased demand for its vacuum cleaners," according to Fred Wardell, President.

And the Norge Corporation, manufacturing refrigerators, set a production schedule for May 40% heavier than any previous month in the history of the Company.

Wholesalers! Retailers! Domestic buyers! They are all making new business opportunities in Detroit for those who are keen enough to recognize a new trend.

How to reach this market

This is the simplest problem you have to face in reaching any major market in the United States.

The Detroit News has the distinction of being one of the greatest home newspapers in the world—with proved influence upon retail sales.

An advertisement in this paper will open the 4th greatest American market to your product.

Approximately 4,845,000 people live within the boundaries of Michigan. These people, grouped into 1,184,000 families, constitute the living state of Michigan. Where can they be reached? Almost half of them, actually about 2,300,000 in number, or 47.80% live in the Detroit trading area!—1,700,000 within the city's limits!

The Detroit News gives you most thorough coverage, not only of the City of Detroit, but of the entire Detroit Trading Area—85% of the Sunday and 95% of the week-day circulation of The News being concentrated in the local trading area.

MOURN DEATH OF CYRUS H. CURTIS, FAMED PUBLISHER

Messages from All Over World Pay Tribute.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—(AP)—The walks of life in which Cyrus H. K. Curtis was most interested—journalism and literature, art and music—paid tribute today to the noted publisher, who died at his home after a year's illness.

From different parts of the world came messages from personal friends, or from authors and others, testifying to their regard for the newspaper and magazine owner.

Mr. Curtis passed away early today at his suburban home "Lyndon" in Wyncote. All the members of his family were present awaiting the end which had been expected for several days.

Rites To Be Private.

Mr. Curtis, who would have been 83 years old on June 18, was stricken with a heart attack while on his yacht "Lyndonia," in New York waters in May last year. He rallied and spent the summer in Maine and part of the winter in southern waters.

Mr. Curtis will be buried Friday afternoon. Services will be simple in accordance with the wishes of the great publisher. The only deviation will be the singing by the Portland Men's Singing club of 40 voices of Portland, Me.

Burial will be in West Laurel Hill cemetery here and will be strictly private. On behalf of the family it was requested that friends refrain from sending flowers.

Mr. Curtis was head of the Curtis Publishing company which produces the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal and Country Gentleman, and also was president of Curtis-Martin Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the Philadelphia Morning and Evening Ledger, Philadelphia Inquirer and New York Evening Post.

Gave Away Millions.

He gave $3,125,000 to the Franklin institute and Franklin memorial in this city; $3,350,000 to universities and colleges in the Philadelphia area; $200,000 to Bowdoin college, and gave many gifts of $100,000 each to various institutions in different parts of the east.

BUILDER'S WILL LEAVES $80,000 TO HIS WIDOW

The estate of William A. Murphy, general superintendent of construction for the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, who died last May 29, was estimated at $80,000 yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. The estate is left to the widow, Mrs. Catherine Murphy, 3100 Sheridan road.

Mr. Murphy was 62 years old. He supervised the construction of foundations and anchorages for the Sky Ride towers at A Century of Progress.

Four other wills were filed in the Probate court yesterday and approved by Mr. Caplan. The wills are those of:

MARY E. BRAINERD, died Nov. 6, 1932. Estate, $5,000; to a brother and sister $10 each; residue equally to sisters, Clara Vantwood and Rosetta Shortridge. Clara Vantwood is the executrix.

JAMES M. MORAN, died Feb. 24. Estate, $12,000; to widow, Isabel M. Moran, the executrix.

LAURA VOSS, died May 31. Estate, $55,000; equally to sons, Frederick and Louis Voss. Oscar Reum is the executor.

PARIS BEAUTY'S BODY TO START HOME TONIGHT

High mass will be celebrated at 11 a. m. in Holy Name cathedral for Mlle. Lyette Teppaz of Paris, who represented France in the contest for Queen of A Century of Progress conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and associated newspapers. Mlle. Teppaz died on Tuesday at Henrotin hospital from an illness from which she was suffering before she left France for America.

A girls' organization will act as escort at the church and also to the train, which will leave at 7 o'clock tonight. The body will be sent to Quebec over the Canadian Pacific railroad and then to Cherbourg, where it will be met by a representative of THE TRIBUNE.

Thomas Griffin, 15 years old, 6618 North Talman avenue, was killed and three other youths were injured yesterday when their automobile was demolished by a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific passenger train at Devon avenue and Carpenter road. The injured are John Garrity, 17 years old, 6433 North Washtenaw avenue, a student at Loyola university and driver of the car; James Alicoate Jr., 18 years old, 6236 North Campbell avenue, and Howard Radcliff, 19 years old, 6443 North Maplewood avenue.

Griffin was a student at St. George's preparatory school, as are Alicoate and Radcliff. The youths were on their way to the Twin Orchard Country club, Wolf road and Bryn Mawr avenue, to take part in a golf tournament. Alicoate and Radcliff were taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital, where it was said they had suffered internal injuries.

Garrity, who escaped with cuts and bruises, told police that he had stopped the car to wait for a north bound train to pass. He started as the last car of the train passed, Garrity said, and the automobile was struck by a south bound train. The death of Griffin increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 413.

RITES TOMORROW FOR W. G. ZOLLER, EX-COAL DEALER

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Oakwoods chapel for Walter G. Zoller, retired vice president and treasurer of the Bell & Zoller Coal company, 307 North Michigan avenue, who died Tuesday in his home at 5120 Hyde Park boulevard. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Zoller was prominent in the coal industry in Illinois for forty years. He was born at Lebanon, Pa., and began work as a telegraph operator at Peoria, Ill.

Mr. Zoller was a member of the Chicago Athletic, South Shore Country, Sky Line, Flossmoor Country, and Phoenix [Ariz.] Country clubs. He was a life member of the Loyal Order of Moose. Surviving are three nieces and a nephew, of whom only Mrs. Edwin S. Ford lives in Chicago.

Body of Radio Musician Is Recovered from Lake

The body of David P. Cody, 40 years old, a musician, formerly with a radio act, known as "Louie's Hungry Five," was recovered from the lake at 45th street yesterday. A sister, Mrs. Mary Pierce, 4837 Van Buren street, identified the body. She said she doubted that he had ended his own life. Police said the body had been in the water two or three days.

Chief Geronimo Playmate, Nah-Thle-Tla, 110, Is Dead

Lawton, Okla., June 7.—(AP)—The 110 year old Nah-Thle-Tla, who as a child played with Geronimo, Apache Indian chieftain, is dead. The Apache woman, who never until the last year was seriously ill, was named America's oldest living mother by the National Federation of Women's Clubs in 1932.

Plan Woman's Exchange Sales Outside of City

Mrs. Philip Loring Reed Is New President.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHILE chatting with Mrs. Nora Crane yesterday over luncheon in the Woman's Exchange she told us about the out of town sales at which the exchange's lovely wares will be shown and offered for sale this summer, and she mentioned that Mrs. Philip Loring Reed, the new president, was planning a sale to be held in Marion, Mass., where the Reeds have their summer home, on July 11 and 12. We realized with a start that no one had published yet the results of the election of officers at the annual meeting on April 27, so we hastened to get the complete list, and here it is: Honorary president, Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon, a charter member of this philanthropic enterprise in which so many society women are interested; president, Mrs. Reed; first vice president, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne; second vice president, Mrs. John W. Gary; third vice president, Mrs. William Roy Carney; recording secretary, Mrs. John L. Cochran; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frederick W. Keith; treasurer, Miss Helen K. Gurley; chairman of the finance committee, Mrs. Gary; directors, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Lester Armour, Miss Janet Ayer, Mrs. Harold Beacom, Miss Elizabeth Brown, Mrs. Britton I. Budd, Mme. Giovanni Cardelli, Miss Cornelia Conger, Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, Mrs. Walter W. Crawford, Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. George W. Dulaney Jr., Mrs. Waldo Emerson, Mrs. Henry W. Farnum, Mrs. William P. Hodgkins, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles I. Pierce, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Earle H. Reynolds, Mrs. Edwin S. Rosenbaum, Mrs. William M. Scudder, Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Harris Whiting, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, and the officers.

Numerous Sales Already Arranged.

Mrs. Thorne resigned from the presidency last February and Mrs. Osborne, as first vice president, served until the meeting. To return to the sales: Mrs. Osborne is leaving today to spend a month in Greenwich, Conn., with her sister, Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin Jr., and while there she will arrange a sale to be held there some time during the summer. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is going to open her lovely home, Innisfail, in Lake Forest on Tuesday, June 20, for a sale, and Mrs. Philip Wrigley telephoned from Catalina island yesterday to tell Mrs. Crane that she would be back from California in time to open her Lake Geneva place for a sale some day late in June.

Mrs. Crossett will give the use of her house at Wianno, Mass., on July 5 and 6; Mrs. Reed and Miss Amy Brewer, sister of the late Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, who was a president of the exchange and always one of its most active supporters, are sponsoring the Marion sale, which will be on July 11 and 12 at one of the tennis clubs there. Miss Brewer and the Cudahy children are leaving today to spend the summer at the Cudahy summer place at Marion, and the Reeds will leave on Saturday of this week for their country place in the same lovely place.

Mrs. Frank Hibbard and Mrs. C. Bai Lihme, a former Chicagoan, are the members of the summer colony at Watch Hill, R. I., who have planned a sale to be held at the Ocean house there on July 20 and 21. Mrs. Farnum is planning to open her home in Magnolia, Mass., the last week in July for a display of the smart and attractive things with which the trunks are filled when Mrs. Crane leaves on her annual summer hegira. They aren't empty when she returns, either, no matter how successful the sales are, for a great many of the things she takes with her are only samples and are not sold in spite of the fact that often women try to buy the sample and carry them away.

Olga de Tarnowsky to Wed William J. Hudson.

Miss Mary de Tarnowsky and her aunt, Miss Mary Nixon, weren't here last night for the announcement dinner at which the engagement of Mary re Tarnowsky's older sister and Miss Nixon's other niece, Olga Georgevna de Tarnowsky's older sister and Miss son, was announced to the families, but they will be here before long to offer their good wishes to the young couple for they are sailing tomorrow from Italy, and will come straight to Chicago after they land in New York on the 19th. The announcement was made by Dr. and Mrs. George de Tarnowsky at a dinner at their Pine Grove avenue residence. Miss de Tarnowsky and her fiancé both went to the Francis Parker school and then she went to Switzerland to continue her studies while he went to Cornell, where he was graduated in 1931. Miss de Tarnowsky went to the School of Fine Arts and Crafts in Boston during the winter of '31 and went to Florence to study art the following winter. The wedding will take place in September.

Mary de Tarnowsky has spent the last winter at her aunt's school in Florence and according to present plans she will be a debutante next season. The de Tarnowskys and Miss Nixon will spend July and August at Lake Beulah, Wis. Mr. Hudson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Newton Hudson of 538 Hawthorne place.

Society at Opening Friends of Music Concert

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The piece moves fast and quite amusingly and concerns itself with the adventures of one Jeff, a whirlwind, free lance publicity agent. He saves from drowning a lady [?] who is smarter than he is. He plans to use her in some of his publicity schemes—but she uses him instead—with results the picture shall show you.

I like that Robert Montgomery. Nice, merry, clean-cut, little-boy sort of chap. He is funny and loveable as Jeff.

Sally Eilers does the hard-boiled rescue effectively with farce trimmings. Madge Evans is nice as Jeff's ex-wife, to whom the young man runs with all his problems.

When Mona turns a murderess,
Jeff turns to Claire in his distress.
When M.'s acquitted—fancy that!—
To Claire he runs—and that is that.

"LOVE BOUND."
Produced by Peerless.
Directed by Robert Hill.
Presented at the Majestic theater.

THE CAST:

Verna Wilson	Natalie Moorhead
John Randolph Jr.	Jack Mulhall

Audience Acclaims Mme. Dux and Orchestra at Concert

Society Braves Severe Heat to Attend.

Going to Auditorium Like Good Old Times.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

THE hottest June day in the history of Chicago's weather bureau did not in the least dim the brilliance of the first concert arranged by the Friends of Music given last night in the Auditorium and the lovely old theater was filled to capacity with the "creme de la creme" of society and hundreds of others, of course, to hear the Chicago Symphony orchestra and Claire Dux give a delightful program.

The problem of what to wear was settled by each individual according to his or her own idea of what is comfortable when the thermometer reaches 100 in the shade, and the result was exactly what Mrs. John Alden Carpenter—one of those responsible for the success of the Friends of Music in making possible this series of summer concerts—said last night the committee had hoped it would be.

Summer formals, afternoon clothes, street frocks, everything but bathing suits, were worn, and no one seemed to mind the extreme heat much. Not even Col. George Voevodsky, who was the only man we saw in a tail coat and white tie. He was with his fiancée, Miss Maroussa Russell, lovely and cool looking in a chiffon gown with a pale green background with a design of silver gray leaves and black foliage.

Most of the Men Wear Dinner Jackets

Dinner coats were the favorite attire of most of the men sitting in boxes, although some were in flannels, notably Charles H. Hamill, whose wife wore a charming print in gay colors and a hat. Mrs. William B. Hale also wore a hat, a white one trimmed with black flowers, and a lovely soft blue chiffon gown. Mrs. Carpenter's gown was charming, very sheer black chiffon over white net, long and trailing, but it made us hot to see her scarf of black satin and silver fox around her shoulders.

Jackets were thrown over arms instead of being worn in most cases, although Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed did not take off the fetching little capelet of black chiffon she wore over a pale pink gown. Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins and she made an entrancing picture as they walked together, for Mrs. Hutchins also was in pink, her gown shading from flesh at the hem to a pale rose at the top. Mrs. Hutchins must have spent a lot of time in the sun recently, for she has acquired a gorgeous tan since the last time we saw her.

Fill Bars to Get Cooling Drinks

The cool drinks served from bars in the foyer and lobby helped in a very great measure to make the evening the great success that it was. During the intermission every one from the boxes crowded into the foyer, not to promenade, but to find a place at a table and have a drink of something cool. The little green tables were filled in a few moments, so many had to stand at the bar to have their drinks, including Mrs. William L. Baum, who enjoyed a glass of beer; Mrs. Charles Edward Brown, who also chose beer as her beverage; Miss Anita Blair, the John Paul Wellings, the Chauncey McCormicks, the Chauncey B. Blairs, the Orville Thompsons, and the Andrew Sherriffs, all of whom seemed to find the 3.2 beverage the best thirst quencher on such a hot evening.

One of the largest box parties was that of the Chauncey McCormicks, who had four boxes. They were a little late in arriving, for they had dined first at the Casino. In their party were the Carpenters, Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frank, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mrs. Marshall Price of Miami, Mrs. Clyde Reese of Jacksonville, Mrs. Charles Deering [Mrs. Mc-

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There can be no argument over one point. The Auditorium is one of the finest halls in the world to hear orchestral music.

It was like getting back to the good old former times last night. The Auditorium was where Mr. Stock became a member of the orchestra which he now commands, where he served for a number of seasons as viola player and assistant conductor. Now the Chicago Friends of Music have put him and the orchestra back in the old quarters, and never was there a more glowing, golden tone from the players nor a quicker, more electric response from the audience.

For the Friends of Music have engaged on the noble project of presenting to Chicago residents and visitors a series of fine concerts, not in the hit-or-miss, open air fashion, but with professional finish and in professional surroundings. Mr. Stock and the orchestra are to be in the musical forefront with many great soloists assisting, beginning with that lovely artist, Mme. Dux. If one may judge by last night's attendance and applause, the series is already an assured success.

The first program was of music by the two Richards, Wagner and Strauss. If Mr. Stock and the orchestra stirred the audience as no audience had been stirred for several seasons, Mme. Dux created the furor of her life. There was applause, there was insistence that she repeat at least one song in each of her groups, there were cheers, shouts, and finally the whole audience rose to its feet in acclaim. There is no chance of a dissenting opinion in this column, either. She is a superlative artist, a world leader in songs such as these.

It was another experience to hear the orchestra sing and exult, whisper and shout under the magic of the music and Mr. Stock's leadership. This was a great concert, and deserving of all its success.

Tonight's program will be of the music of Tschaikowsky. Rudolph Ganz will be the soloist in the piano concerto in B flat minor. The symphony will be the fourth, and there will be other briefer numbers.

Mayor Appeals to City to Distribute Flowers to Shut-ins Saturday

Mayor Kelly yesterday requested Chicagoans to observe Saturday, June 10, as "Flower Shut-In day." On that day clubs and other organizations will distribute flowers to hospital inmates, disabled veterans, crippled children, and other shut-ins. A committee of club and society leaders is in charge of the distribution of the flowers to various institutions.

Homer Lange, chairman of the florists' committee on the distribution of the flowers, said that the florists in early June have an abundance of flowers,

Linen Dinner Gowns Chic as Satin or Crepe

BY RHEA SEEGER.

And now—linen swanks down to dinner! A certain linen-conscious designer has presented three new linen dinner dresses that are about as sophisticated, as devastating to the speechless bystanders as anything you formerly wore, made of slinky, gleaming satin or rough crêpe. They are a knockout trio, fresh, trim, trig, and as audaciously piquant as a snappy white linen mess jacket on a masculine dinner partner.

One is made of black linen that starts about four inches above the waistline, and then wanders with a bit of a flare right down to a good dancing length around the ankles. The top is of cross barred organza in red and white with sleeves cut of two circles sewed together at their outside edge. V necklines fore and aft are featured in all models.

The second number is of creamy white linen, with the skirt made in the same simple but smart manner, and the bodice top starts well around the upper ribs. The colorful top section is made of handblocked linen in patterns that remind you of peasant embroidery in clear bold tones of red, green, yellow, blue, and black.

The third and last creation shows what a genius can still do with poor overworked black linen. From neckline to hemline . . . a long seductive silhouette of black, inky, dramatic black, without a bit of color, then, as if deciding that the thing must have contrast, the clever designer added a dinky narrow tie, just exactly like the amazing narrow string-like bull fighter tie and this tie is of white linen, sewed demurely under the chin with the two long narrow ends fluttering at the waistline.

Party at C. H. McCormick Estate Climaxes Garden Club's Tour

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Iced lemonades mingled with horticultural highlights yesterday as the 600 members of the Garden Club of America spent the third day of their annual meeting in a tour of the north shore with their Chicago hostesses. From 9 o'clock in the morning until almost sundown they enjoyed the June fragrance and beauty of the loveliest estates that border Lake Michigan's shore from Evanston to Lake Bluff.

The climax of the day was a late afternoon garden party at Walden, the Lake Forest estate of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick. Here the visitors and the members of the Lake Forest, Kenilworth, and Evanston Garden clubs, the three hostess groups, gathered after their various garden walks and enjoyed a refreshing lemonade or iced tea (as they preferred) as well as the delightful vistas that sweep out across velvety lawns and stretches of woodland. Several parties followed the winding steps from the front lawn down the thickly planted bluff to the bathhouse at the water's edge, from which rises Walden's most significant feature, a gently sloping road that follows the ravine for three-quarters of a mile to the entrance drive.

The presidents' council, with Mrs. Jonathan Bulkley its presiding officer, had one itinerary yesterday, the other 450 delegates another.

After a business session at the Deering Memorial library on the Northwestern university campus with Mrs. Horatio Gates Lloyd taking the place of Mrs. Bulkley, who is suffering temporarily from laryngitis, as chairman, the council members enjoyed luncheon at the Glenview club.

Luncheon over, the council members boarded their buses again and motored on north to Lake Forest for two hours at Havenwood, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson's garden with its lovely shrine set off by a bank of white lilies; the Illinois road estate of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill; Wyldwoode, the home of Mrs. Clyde Carr; the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, which speak a warm welcome through their great wrought iron entrance gates, and the extensive grounds of the John T. Piries, which combine formal simplicity and woodland.

The other delegates spent their morning yesterday in Evanston enjoying the delights of the gardens of Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, whose home is set down in the center of six acres in the north shore city; Mrs. Willard W. Jacques, Mrs. Robert L. Scott, Mrs. Gabriel F. Slaughter, whose house with its pegged shutters and old rafters celebrated its 80th birthday this summer; Mrs. Thomas H. Eddy, Mrs. M. Haddon MacLean, and Mrs. Colvin. This trip was climaxed with a stop at the Shakespeare garden, which the Evanston Garden club built for its city in 1915.

Luncheon at the Onwentsia and Shoreacres clubs was followed for this group by a charming garden walk along Lake Forest's ridge.

At 9:30 this morning the big blue official buses of the garden club members will again line up at the Drake and then head northward.

The council members will enjoy the garden walk they missed yesterday, while the other delegates will visit the large Lake Forest estates along the lake.

School Bands Open National Contest Today

75 Crack Groups Compete for National Title.

Seventy-five state and sectional championship high school bands are appearing in Evanston today, tomorrow, and Friday in the seventh annual national contest which is being held under the rules of the National School Band association and under the auspices of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce.

The bands range from thirty to 100 instruments totaling approximately 4,500 players of whom some 40 per cent are girls. Divided into three classes according to the size of the schools from which they come, they will compete for championship honors at Patten gymnasium and Dyche field, the announcements to be held until Saturday afternoon.

On that day after a parade through the business district of Evanston, they will assemble in massed formation at Dyche field for a drill of marching and playing and a massed band concert. Next week they are booked in the school music festival at A Century of Progress.

Thirty-four of the bands are from Illinois, four of which are Chicagoan. Twelve are from Indiana, eight each from Wisconsin and Iowa, and there are from one to three each from West Virginia, Tennessee, Utah, Colorado, Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, New York, Missouri, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Louisiana.

The Saturday massed program will be under the supervision of Glenn C. Bainum, director of Northwestern university band. The judges of the contest, who will also assist in directing the program, are Capt. Taylor Branson, director of the United States Marine band of Washington; Edwin Franko Goldman, president of the American Bandmasters association; Capt. Charles O'Neill, director of the Royal Twenty-second Regiment band of Quebec; Lieut. Charles J. Benter, leader of the United States Navy band of Washington; J. R. Gillette, director of the Carleton Symphonic band, and Harold Bachman of Chicago.

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah, who considers him just a hick. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for both of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is grabbed by strong arms. She shoots. Jane reappears. She rushes Dinah away from the scene of their host lying in a pool of blood. Next morning the papers carry the story of the murder of Philip Divine, Broadway playboy, and said there were two bullet wounds. Jane and Dinah saw a tall, dark man with a mustache as they left Philip Divine's house. Jane recognizes Jack Fiske's sterling qualities and tries to bring Dinah and him together. Jane admits to Dinah that she knew Philip Divine before and that she also shot him. Dinah has a caller. He introduces himself as Pierre Baron. He is the tall, dark man with the mustache. Baron tells Dinah that Divine was secretly married to Jane. Dinah resents his hatred of Jane and doesn't trust Baron. She tells him it was she who shot Divine. Jane confesses to Fiske that she shot Divine and that she'd brought Dinah to his home. Jane's efforts to shield Dinah win Jack's admiration. Jane leaves not telling Dinah or Jack where she is going. Baron's sister, Jerry, a dancer, calls in search of Jane. She claims to have been married to Divine. She expects to frighten Jane into supporting her claim. Divine's widow will collect an inheritance. She moves in with Dinah. Jerry and her dancing partner, José Chavel, conduct a little blackmailing plot against Dinah and Fiske. Jerry and José cause so much trouble that Jack and Dinah are put out of their boarding house. Dinah meets Baron.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

FRIENDS REUNITED.

"I knew she wasn't Mrs. Divine," said Dinah, "because Jane said she was. And what Jane says is the truth!" she cried.

"I shan't try," said Baron. "That was my mistake, in the beginning. If I had more tact. . . . But that's my trouble. I'm—so confoundedly blunt and clumsy——"

"You?"

"Well, you've seen for yourself," he said, with a sigh. "You've seen . . . I knew you were fond of Jane—and yet I didn't have the wit to conceal the fact that I—wasn't fond of her. And about that other thing, too . . ."

"What other thing?" asked Dinah.

"About—loving you," he said. "If I'd waited—instead of telling you, the first time I ever spoke to you, perhaps you wouldn't—"

"Where's this taxi going?" Dinah interrupted hastily.

"Uptown. That's what you told the fellow."

Jane rose from the chair where she had been sitting and Dinah flew to her.

There was a silence between them.

"Dinah," he said, "Is it all right now? I mean—d'you think you can believe me now?"

"I . . . I've got such awful worries!" she cried. "How can I think of anything else?"

"I know," he said, and was silent again.

"You see," Dinah went on, "there's not only you and Jack Fiske who know——"

"Jack Fiske? . . . That the fellow you were running away from just as I drove up?"

"I was an idiot to run away from him!" cried Dinah. "I don't know what came over me! He's been so wonderfully kind and dear . . ."

"I see!" said Baron.

"If you knew all he'd done. . . . Given all the money he had to Jerry and Chavel so that they'd keep quiet—"

"It—came to blackmail, then?" asked Baron, and his voice smote her. She had forgotten that Jerry was his sister.

"I'm sorry . . ." she said.

"What—how much do they know?"

"They know we were there. And they know——" she hesitated. "They know—about Jane. . . . And Jack Fiske would do anything to protect Jane."

"O! To protect Jane?" said Baron.

"Well, and me, too. But Jane comes first with him. And I don't wonder."

"You needn't wonder, either, that you come first with me . . ." said Baron. "I told you I'd come today to get you out of this mess. . . ."

"You can't. Too many people know we were there."

"Even at that," said Baron, "Jane wants to see you."

"Jane? O, but do you know where she is?"

"She's at my apartment."

"Jane is? But I don't see. . . . Why did she go to you?"

He turned his head a little aside.

"She'd read in a newspaper that Divine's marriage was known—and she took it for granted that I'd given the information. I assurred her I hadn't, but she doesn't believe me. She said she'd made up her mind what to do. . . . I pointed out to her that as you were involved you ought to know what steps she meant to take. And she agreed to let me bring you."

"What—steps . . . ?" asked Dinah.

He reached for her hand, and held it.

"You—won't like it, Dinah," he said. "I'm sorrier than I can tell you. . . . But I can't spare you this . . . you've got to hear it . . ."

"Hear what? Tell me! I can't wait. . . ."

"She's—confessed, Dinah."

"It's not true! It's not true! She doesn't know—which of us did it."

"She does know, Dinah. She's known all the time. Hold on, poor little kid! I'm so sorry. . . . She did know, all the time. She went there to get that letter Divine had written to his aunt. She hoped she would persuade him to give it up. . . . But if she couldn't persuade him, she was—prepared . . ."

"No! No! . . ."

"She's got the letter, Dinah. And she's—given up the game. . . . Don't take it so hard, Dinah. . . . I think she's glad it's finished. . . . She's not a fool. She could see she couldn't hide forever. She's ready now to take her chance. . . . And it's a good chance. She's a beautiful girl. . . . She'll have a tale about how badly Divine treated her. She'll find witnesses. She'll say she shot in self-defense—and the jury'll acquit her."

Dinah snatched her hand away.

"That's the one thing I—hate in you!" she cried. "You're sneering, cynical, horrible attitude toward Jane!"

"Dinah," he said, "if I can make you see—if I can convince you that you're wrong about Jane—will you marry me?"

"Yes!" she said.

"Promise?"

"Yes! I'd promise anything. Because I know you couldn't ever——" "Don't talk," she said. "Please—don't talk. . . . Just let me see Jane."

The taxi stopped before an apartment house in the East Fifties. Baron had helped her out and she stood by, waiting, while he paid the driver.

"It's Jack Fiske . . ." she said.

"Well, what does he want?" asked Baron.

But Fiske came up then, to answer for himself.

"Dinah!" he said. "What the—what are you doing here?"

"And what business is it of yours?" asked Baron.

"O, don't——" Dinah began. "Can't he come, too?" she asked.

"I don't believe you know what you're doing," said Fiske, bluntly. "You're worn out—not thinking clearly any more. You can't run off like this. I won't——"

"You're making a nuisance of yourself," said Baron. "Come on, Dinah!"

"O, don't——" Dinah began, and then glanced at Baron. "Can't he come, too?" she asked.

"I'll have to ask Jane," he said. "Come in, please, and wait."

He left them together in a softly lit little reception room and went off. And, looking at her companion, Dinah felt a greater pity for him than ever before. At the sound of Jane's name his face had grown white, but he would ask no questions. He looked so young, so stubborn, so miserable.

"It was—dear of you to come after me . . ." she said.

"Naturally, I couldn't see you go off with that fellow and not—do anything about it," he said stiffly. "You told me——"

"It's all right," said Baron, returning. "Jane's quite willing for Fiske to join us."

Dinah had a brief impression of a little hall, a room flooded with the late afternoon sun, furnished with quiet elegance, then Jane rose from the chair where she had been sitting and Dinah flew to her.

Hot? See This Exhibition of Sea Paintings

Two Other Displays Well Worth Viewing.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the coolest exhibitions in town is that of marine paintings by Frank Vining Smith in the Anderson galleries. The magnificent canvasses by this artist depicting sailing vessels on the high seas are too well known to need particular comment. Mr. Smith is probably one of the leading American painters in this field today, if not, indeed, the leader. "Square riggers" are his chief theme and the present exhibit contains a score or so of gorgeous whitewinged ships breasting the waves.

Near at hand in the Auditorium building the Findlay galleries have just opened A Century of Progress exhibition of works by Chicago artists. The exhibition holds many delightful paintings and much exquisite sculpture by Emory P. Seidell. Among the important paintings is "Portrait of Mr. X." by Ralph Clarkson, a recent portrait. In the Art institute A Century of Progress show an earlier portrait by Mr. Clarkson may be found. A comparison of the two is interesting.

"The Star Equestrian" by Walter Krawiec, "Golden Parrots" by Karl Plath, "April in Cagnes" by Anna Lee Stacey and "Spring Morning" by John F. Stacey are all brilliant examples of these more important Chicago artists. With them must be included Oscar Gross with a stunning portrait of the sculptor, Emory P. Seidell, and the "My Mother-in-law" by Claude Buck, one of Mr. Buck's finest pieces of painting.

The Increase Robinson gallery, Michigan Square building, offers a one man show of paintings by Grant Wood, and, beginning June 10, recent water colors executed in New Orleans and Mexico by Francis Chapin. Mr. Wood's exhibit is characteristic, amusing and beautiful. His rolling pattern of landscapes, now green, now brown, is refreshingly lovely. Among the paintings some which will not easily be forgotten are "Woman with Plants," "Young Corn," "Stone City," "Victorian Survival," "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere," and the "Portrait of Susan Shaffer."

None of these three exhibits should be missed. They will continue through the month.

New York Society

New York, June 7.—[Special.]—William Rhinelander Stewart was host to a party including Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, Mrs. James Forrestal, and Miss Eleanor Barry at luncheon at the Colony restaurant yesterday. Others with parties were Mrs. Frederick Frelinghuysen, Mrs. R. Amcotte Wilson, Mrs. Harvey Dow Gibson, Mrs. Warren Leslie Jr., Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, and Mrs. George Howard. Dinner guests at the Colony included Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt and Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt.

Mrs. Harrison Williams entertained at a small luncheon yesterday in the Starlight roof garden of the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. and Mrs. E. Bruce Smith and Miss Peggy Le Boutillier also had parties there.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Kennedy gave a dinner in the roof garden of the St. Regis for Miss Alice V. Morris, daughter of the ambassador to Belgium, and Mrs. Dave Hennen Morris. Miss Morris sailed today with her parents on the Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann, Miss Helena McCann, Mrs. James P. Donahue, Woolworth and James P. Donahue, and Miss May D. Rogers will sail tomorrow to attend the wedding of Miss Barbara Hutton and Prince Alexis Mdivani on June 20 in Paris.

THE STAGE

"The Family Upstairs," the comedy now at the Cort theater, will give a matinée performance for the patients at the Edward Hines Jr. Veterans' hospital this afternoon. This will be the first time that a legitimate theatrical company has visited the hospital, although vaudeville entertainments have been frequent. The Advertising Men's post of the American Legion is sponsoring the affair.

"The Piccoli," famous Italian marionette company from Rome, which recently ended an engagement at the Erlanger theater, will appear at the Chicago theater during the week beginning Friday, June 16. This will be the first time that Signor Podrecca has offered his unique entertainment at popular prices. C. C.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., June 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt had a small company at dinner last night. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Piez of Chicago, the former a former vice president of the United States shipping board.

The secretary of commerce and Mrs. Daniel C. Roper have been joined in Washington by their son, James Hunter, who came from Oakland, Cal. His engagement to Miss Elizabeth May Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy E. Armstrong of Oakland, was announced yesterday in Oakland. Young Mr. Roper is an engineer graduate of the University of California.

Plan Woman's Exchange Sales Outside of City

Mrs. Philip Loring Reed Is New President.

England, France, the Dolomites, and down to Venice where he will stay aboard his yacht. Mr. McCormick will be at home around Oct. 1.

Dwight Ingram, '16, secretary of the Harvard club of Chicago, is unable to find any record of the very first annual spring strawberry night, so old in tradition is this event. It is the most informal of the Harvard parties, and an added attraction to the dinner this year, besides the beer and strawberries, is that it is being held at the Century club at A Century of Progress. It takes place at 6:30 this evening. There will be no speakers other than John Paulding Brown, a classmate of James B. Conant, president-elect of the university, who will say a few words about Mr. Conant, and Clay Judson, another classmate, who will probably add a few words to Mr. Brown's. Barrett Wendell is in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Again yesterday Mrs. Robert R. McCormick came in from Wheaton, bringing with her a basket full of lovely pink peonies to decorate the tables in the tearoom of the Art institute, where she has been hostess the last two days and will be again today in a series of luncheons planned for artists and those interested in A Century of Progress loan exhibition. Having luncheon yesterday with Mrs. McCormick were her sister, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Howard Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Donnell Bennett, Chauncey McCormick, and Dell Quest.

We were in error yesterday when we stated that Mrs. McCormick gave the money for repainting the chairs and tables in the tearoom; she gave only a small part, for every one on the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Palmer is chairman and Mrs. R. R. McCormick and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, vice chairmen, gave her share.

Paul Butlers May Postpone Dinner.

As the Paul Butlers and most of the guests they had invited to dine tonight at the Oak Brook club have been invited to Mrs. Kenneth Curtis' cocktail party at A Century of Progress air show exhibits this afternoon, the Butlers are postponing their dinner and the showing of John J. Mitchell's movies of Mr. Butler, the Louis C. Seavernses, and the Champ Carrys, taken on the Mitchells' ranch in California a few weeks ago, until a later date. If, however, there is a polo game at Oak Brook in the afternoon the Butlers will not come to town at all, but will carry on with their original plans.

The New Orient Society of America is giving a tea Monday afternoon at the Art institute for Prof. Yukio Yashiro of Tokio, who will lecture on Japanese scroll painting at 2 o'clock the same day in Fullerton hall. Mr. Yashiro is returning to Tokio from Harvard, where he has been lecturing for six months. He is director of the Art Research institute in Tokio and is one of the greatest authorities on the art of Botticelli. Hostesses at the tea will be Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Edward Warren Everett, Mrs. Yoshio Muto, wife of the Japanese consul; Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, Mrs. Charles H. Chandler, president of the America-Japan society, and Mrs. George F. Pond.

This Saturday Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze are moving from the Webster hotel to their country home, Alta Vista, at Lake Geneva, Wis. Their daughter, Medora, who was graduated yesterday from the University School for Girls, is to enter an eastern college in the fall, but as yet her mother and father haven't decided whether it will be Vassar, Smith, Wellesley, or Bryn Mawr.

"Please tell every one through your column that the headline 'Oust Woman's Athletic Club from Building' doesn't mean THE Woman's Athletic club," implored Mrs. Pelouze Tuesday. It doesn't, of course, for the Woman's Athletic club is one of the oldest and strongest organizations in the city, with its own building at North Michigan avenue and Ontario street, which it is in no danger of losing. Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughey is president of this well-known club.

Miss Geraldine Swift Heads Salesgirls.

Mrs. Ralph N. Isham had planned to take charge of the junior auxiliary's sale at the White Elephant Rummage shop tomorrow, but since she and Mr. Isham are arriving in town today instead of earlier in the week, as she had planned, she has delegated Miss Geraldine Swift to be at the head of the corps of young saleswomen. Mr. and Mrs. Isham have been spending a belated honeymoon in Bermuda, their trip immediately after their wedding in February having been a very short one because of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, who later died. Assisting Miss Swift tomorrow at the shop, which is at 27 East Ohio street and is run for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital, will be Mrs. Alfred Elser, Mrs. Horace Westmore and her sister, Mrs. David Taber, and Mrs. Billings MacArthur. Bathing suits, white shoes, and summer accessories will be featured.

The North Side Animal Shelter at 5450 North Damen avenue will benefit from the proceeds of a card party next Tuesday evening, June 13, in the Rogers Park Woman's clubhouse. Mrs. Dorothy Eagles, president of the shelter, is in charge of ticket sales.

About 140 dogs and 50 cats are now housed in the shelter awaiting adoption by animal loving families. A fee of $3 for a dog and $1 for a cat is charged those who adopt animals, in order to help support the shelter.

Society Fills Auditorium for First Concert

Cormick's mother], Arthur Curtiss James of New York, Mr. Alvord of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stuart Stone Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Welling, Mr. and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., Burnett H. Shryock, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins.

Mrs. Francis Johnson in Black and White

Mrs. Francis Johnson, also a prominent Friend of Music and the one who had the clever idea of installing the bars, was in a black and white printed silk; Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, another indefatigable worker for the Friends, wore a lovely green and white print, and Mrs. Frank Hibbard was another who had chosen a print, red, black and gray. Mrs. Howard W. Fenton was even smarter than usual in a white gown of lace and crepe in V shaped inserts.

No box party was more interested in the music than that composed of the soloist's husband, Charles H. Swift, and her sister, Mrs. Ernest Kaulbach; Prof. Kaulbach, who is from the University of Vienna, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse. In the adjoining box sat Charles H. Morse Jr. and three of his friends from Yale who are here spending ten days visiting him and seeing the Fair, Henry Dietrich, Harold Nicholas, and Hermon Liebert.

"Who is the stunning woman with Harold McCormick?" every one was asking as Mr. McCormick came in. Mrs. Benjamin Moore of New York is the answer and they both were in Mrs. Johnson's party.

Mrs. Hayden B. Harris was another of those who had chosen white.

There weren't very many young people in the boxes—"They've all gone swimming," some one explained, but Mary Senior was there looking as pretty as ever in white and escorted by Ben Fairbank. Kellogg Jr. was beauing Miss Paula Uihlein, smart in a gown of king's blue with a cunning cloak of white piqué which had bows on the shoulders looking a little like wings. The Rostislavs, Betty Scriven and Martha Fitts, all in street clothes, were among those we glimpsed climbing to the floor above the boxes.

Numerous Other Society Folk Present

Some of the others there at this memorable occasion, which the Friends of Music hope will be repeated many times during the summer, were the Eames MacVeaghs, the Ira Nelson Morrises, the Orville Taylors, Miss Edna Kellogg, the Arthur Bissells, the Oscar Johnsons, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland and her daughters, Harriet and Beatrice; the George T. Langhornes, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, the Charles W. Dempsters, the Edward L. Ryersons, the Albert J. Pardridges, the Italian consul general and Mme. Castruccio, the British consul general and Mrs. Lewis Bernays, Miss Janet Fairbank, Miss Mary Reed, who was with Philip Dalton Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham, the Dewes sisters, Dorothy and Grace; Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Aull of Middletown, O.; Maxwell Green—these five were Mrs. Upham's guests.

Commencement Season On Full Blast in Chicago

The commencement season was on full blast in the Chicago area yesterday. Loyola university and National College of Education, Evanston, held their final exercises. Today Armour Institute of Technology and two schools of nursing will hold their graduation exercises. Tomorrow the Chicago departments of the University of Illinois, including the schools of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, will confer degrees.

Loyola university awarded 737 degrees and certificates at its 63d annual commencement exercises held in the Loyola stadium. The class was the third largest in the history of the university. More than 6,000 persons attended the exercises.

Honorary degrees of doctor of laws were conferred on five distinguished persons whose names had been announced in advance.

President Robert M. Kelly conferred the degrees. The school of medicine presented the largest number of candidates, 111 for doctors' degrees and 97 for the four year certificate in medicine. The college of arts and letters had 182 graduates. Other graduates were 120 nurses, 107 dentists, 55 law students, 33 commerce students, 22 graduate students and 5 students of social work.

Miss Janette Gardner of Riverside, Miss Myra Hedges of Chicago, Miss Mary G. Jones of Evanston and Miss Henrietta McElroy of River Forest were among the thirteen students to whom honorary scholarships were awarded at the annual commencement of the National College of Education.

A graduating class of 186 will be awarded degrees at the 37th annual commencement of Armour Institute of Technology this afternoon at the Armour Mission building, 3300 Federal street. Dr. Willard E. Hotchkiss, president of the institute, will deliver the commencement address.

James W. Juvinall, who is graduating from the department of electrical engineering, will receive an award for having the highest scholastic standing in the class. Roy W. Carlstrom, captain of the swimming team and president of the senior class, will be honored for all around excellence in scholarship and student activities. Wilfred Davies will be awarded the American Institute of Architecture medal, presented each year to the highest ranking senior in the department of architecture.

Approximately 35 per cent of the 2,200 students to receive degrees within the next few days from the Chicago and Urbana departments of the University of Illinois are from Chicago and Cook county, it was announced in Urbana yesterday. The graduating class numbers 586 members from Chicago and 197 who live in Cook county outside the city.

The schools of nursing holding graduation exercises today are the Cook County School of Nursing and that of St. Luke's hospital. The exercises of the Cook county school will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Murphy Memorial hall, 50 East Erie street.

Charles H. Wordell, manager of St. Luke's hospital, will present diplomas to 71 nurses at exercises beginning at 8 o'clock this evening in St. James' Episcopal church, North Wabash avenue and Huron street.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a regular weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

If you're a vegetarian by choice or necessity, be an intelligent one.

That's the pith of the advice we're receiving these days from doctors and dietitians who are nobly going ahead getting rid of their trade by telling us how to keep well without their pills, punchings, and remedial diets.

And this is what they mean by their advice: Every individual every day needs a certain amount of foods to give him energy, a certain amount to build and repair his many parts, and the right proportion to protect him against illness and all sorts of minor ailments.

This means that no matter whether we're enjoying a mixed diet of foods, or are confining ourselves to a more vegetarian type of eating, we must have that correct balance between the energy foods [starches, sugars, and fats], the building and regulating foods [proteins, minerals, and roughage], and protective foods [vitamins]. or there'll be mischief brewing.

But vegetarian diets have a special problem that mixed diets do not have. For one of these food divisions—the proteins—is mostly made up of meat foods. So, to get that necessary amount of muscle builders plus a small amount for a safe margin, we must be alert to see that we are using plenty of the nonmeat protein foods—plenty of milk, eggs, cheese, nuts, dried mature peas, and dried beans and lentils. And to make it still more complicated, those first three on the list must have generous innings every day, for the others alone are not sufficient to give the needed protein.

But all this is a far cry from saying that vegetarian diets need to be ways appearing "as is," and the eggs ways appearing "as is," and the eggs always soft boiled or baked or coddled. With a good cook book, a good idea in your minds of the requirements for a day's eating, and a dash of added imagination, deliciously varied diet may be conjured up.

To start with, this menu given today for tomorrow is a well balanced diet for a vegetarian family. But it does seem that the hardest trick of all is that of finding new, satisfying, and tasty things for the main course at dinner or lunch when no meat is used. My lunch loaf, which becomes a dinner loaf without batting an eye, so to speak, has in it nuts, eggs, and milk—all of them protein sources. Add to that more eggs in the omelet and the custard and cheese and dried beans in the dinner patties and you have adequate protein supply for the day. So here are the particulars:

VEGETARIAN LOAF.

1 cup fresh cooked or canned peas.
1-3 cup finely chopped peanuts or peanut butter.
1 egg, well beaten.
1 cup dried bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons melted butter [omitted if peanut butter is used].
Dash of pepper.
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning.

Press the drained peas through a sieve and blend with the remaining ingredients. Press into a small greased loaf pan, cover with a thickness of oiled paper and bake in a slow oven [310 degrees F.] for 40 minutes.

And again—and we can't repeat it too often—let's remember in planning vegetarian meals that neither vegetables nor coarse cereals are meat substitute. They are necessary, however, perhaps even more so than in a mixed diet, for they supply the bulky substances which help along digestion and which we would otherwise get somewhat from meats. But except for dried peas, beans, and lentils they do not give us that much needed body builder — protein. So, again—milk, cheese, eggs, fish, nuts and seed vegetables [legumes] are the needed balances to a vegetable and fruit diet.

Briefly, there are possibilities in nut steaks, loaves, cutlets, croquettes, and nut breadstuffs. Most of these have cereals, bread crumbs, vegetables, or cheese to "extend them." Nuts may air themselves in salads and desserts to boot. Baked beans may turn up in individual baking powder crust pies, in combinations with cheese, other vegetables, nuts, and cereals. Or as something a bit more specific, try:

SWEET POTATO NUT PATTIES.

1¼ cups ground nuts.
1 tablespoon fat.
1¼ tablespoon peanut butter.
½ cup soft bread crumbs.
1 egg, well beaten.
Dash of poultry seasoning or onion juice.

Combine the ingredients thoroughly and form into little cakes about 1 inch thick. Dust with flour and saute in a little fat until brown on both sides. Use these little cakes as a main course, supported by a cast of fresh vegetables, fruit salad and perhaps baked custard or other milk dessert.

MARY MEADE PRESENTS:

VEGETABLES

PEAR POTATOES

Look Well or They'll Deceive You

3 cups hot mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons melted butter
Salt and pepper to taste
1 egg, well beaten
Whole cloves

Add the milk, butter and seasoning to the potatoes during the mashing. The mixture must be quite firm, but smooth and workable. When cool enough to handle, form into pear shapes and roll carefully in the beaten egg which has been diluted with a little milk. Place the pears, small ends up, in a buttered pan and into the top of each stick a clove for the pear stem. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until golden brown. Serve very hot. Makes 12 pear potatoes.

"Texas Tulip" Dates from Early History of State

BY NANCY CABOT.

Texas has been the home of many quilt patterns of charm. "Texas Tulip" is one of them, dating from the early history of the state. It is one of a few quilt designs that have clung to their original titles. It is suggested that the Texas Tulip be pieced of two shades of a color with a harmonizing or matching print.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Girls Urged to Cultivate Good Carriage

Erect Posture, Slenderness Make for Beauty.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This is Young Girl week in this department. Up to today I've been urging your mothers to impress on you the advantages of good grooming habits.

Now I want to talk to you girls directly. No use mother urging if you aren't willing to cooperate with her. Of course, you want to be just as lovely as Loretta Young or Bette Davis or Janet Gaynor or any of the other young screen beauties. Well, I've seen them—and do you know what every one of these girls has that you may have? Beautiful skin, beautifully groomed hair, lovely white teeth. And fine, erect, slender body.

You have the fat-free bodies, as a rule, since you are so young—but very, very often you don't carry yourselves so that any one sitting on the sidelines would pick you out for a possible movie bet. Not that I am urging you to be looking for such, as often these tales are pure hokum.

I never saw a movie girl who didn't carry herself beautifully, and that is something that you can do, every last one of you young women. You can straighten up that spine of yours, and in a comparatively short time, if you honestly want to. If you don't know what exercises to do, just slip me a stamped, addressed envelope and I'll send you the very thing you need.

If you're short you probably want to appear taller. And you will, too, if you'll only learn to walk tall, if you'll straighten up tall. And you'll have a far prettier figure, too, for there can't be any curved line of beauty if you go around shoulder-humped and with chest caved in.

Don't bother about astringents or face lotions except possibly one good cleansing cream. Use cream that will clean thoroughly—and you can use any one of the reliable products. Also, I'd suggest that along about 15 you might get the habit of leaving on a tiny film of cream after you have cleansed the face with cream and followed this performance with a soap and water wash, a rinse in warm water, and a couple of good splashes in cold. Not, however, if your skin is oily.

Don't use any cream at all if the skin is oily. Just soap and water and oodles of the latter. Tomorrow I'll talk some more to you younger women.

"West Point Exercises," an illustrated booklet outlining the series of exercises recently presented in these columns through the courtesy of the United States Military academy, may be obtained by sending five cents in coin or stamps to Antoinette Donnelly, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn Street.

MINUTE MYSTERY

BY H. A. RIPLEY

(Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

FORDNEY DISBELIEVES.

"He died instantly, professor—never knew what hit him," said Lloyd Miller, an acquaintance of Fordney's.

"I'm his only living relative and I thought you might be able to tell me whether it will be considered a case of suicide or not," he continued. I'm not going to tell you that I am particularly grieved at my cousin's death. We were never very close, but we did have certain mutual business interests. I recently loaned him $10,000 on his insurance policy and I'd like to know where I stand."

Fordney finished reading the clipping from the CHICAGO TRIBUNE of May 23, and put down the paper.

ESCAPES DREAM ROBBERY; HE'S KILLED BY STREET CAR

Martinez, Cal., May 22.—[A P]—A dream of Charles H. Turner, 52, led to his death today. Turner, dreaming he was being held up, jumped through a window, ran a block, and was hit by a street car.

"A most peculiar and interesting case," commented Fordney. Tell me this. Do you know whether or not he took a sleeping potion of any kind on going to bed?"

"Yes, he did," Lloyd replied. He had been very nervous of late and the doctor had prescribed Dial "Ciba" for him. I can get the bottle if——"

"That won't be necessary," interrupted the professor. Come, come, my friend! Why not tell me the truth about this affair?"

HOW DID FORDNEY KNOW LLOYD WAS LYING?

[See solution on page 29.]

Chic of Blouse Seen in Novel Use of Stripes

Sensationally different...
Equalizer KOTEX
radical advance in sanitary protection
20 to 30% more effective

Illustrations and text copr. 1933, Kotex Co.

NEW! Radically different! Embodying an advanced scientific principle which brings 20 to 30 per cent greater protection. That is Kotex with the new Patented Equalizer. Protection is more adequate but less bulky. It brings greater ease of mind.

Yes, it has phantom ends, concealing completely all presence of protection. The same softness, the same absorbency as the Kotex you already trust and like so well. The same disposability. It can be worn on either side with equal protection. Try it. Buy it at any drug, dry goods, or department store today.

3 DEAD, 2 HURT, CAR CRASH, AND MURDER, SUICIDE

Driver Kills Friend and Ends Own Life.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7.—[Special.]—Frantic after an automobile accident in which his chum had been killed and a girl companion possibly fatally injured, Leonard Nelson, an employé of Milwaukee Downer college, exclusive girls' school here, returned to the college grounds before daylight today, shot and killed one of his fellow workmen and then shot himself to death as squads of police closed in around him. The 400 girl students slept undisturbed through the double shooting.

The dead are:

Gustave Peterson, 27, college janitor, shot to death after a desperate struggle for his life in his room on the college campus.

Injured Girl May Die.

The injured:

Jeanette Roszak, 19, 3308 South Fifteenth street, skull fractured. At the Municipal hospital at Waukesha it was said tonight her condition was critical.

Erna Nellsen, 19, Nellsen's sister, employed at the home of Mrs. Thomas Rae, 2341 North Stowell avenue, bruised but not seriously hurt.

Nellsen and Jeanette Roszak were passengers in the rumble seat of Nelson's car which went into a ditch west of Waukesha. Both suffered skull fractures. Nellsen died within a few hours. Nelson himself was unhurt.

Waukesha county deputies ordered Nelson to remain at the scene of the accident while they took the injured to the Municipal hospital. Instead he jumped into the car he was driving as soon as they were out of sight and returned to Milwaukee.

Find Body in Hall.

The police here were asked at 2 o'clock this morning to look for Nelson. They went to the college and made their way to Kimberly hall where he lived. On the floor of a room they thought was his, amid indications of a struggle, they found the body they took to be Nelson's.

After providing for its removal, they encountered Claus Nyberg, also a janitor, who roomed in another section of the campus.

"Leonard just came in," he told the detectives.

"He asked me to give his money and his watch to his brother. He said he had an accident and a fight with Gust and maybe killed him."

As they talked with Nyberg, the police heard a shot from the campus and as they started in the direction of the sound, they heard another in a corner of the grounds. The officers found Nelson's body by a high fence. An automatic pistol by his side was identified as belonging to Peterson.

Resistance Brings Death.

Captain of Detectives Frank Prohaska concluded that Nelson had visited Peterson's room without intent to injure him, but to borrow the pistol to end his own life. Peterson's remonstrances and a physical encounter which followed, caused his death.

Nelson and Peterson were friends. They came from Sweden and were drawn together by their nationality. Alvin Nelson, the brother of the suicide, lives at 1425 West Kilbourn avenue, and is janitor of a building there. His brother called him early last night and said he was going to Waukesga Beach with friends. Alvin Nelson said.

OFFICERS SEIZE PAPER'S EDITION IN MINNEAPOLIS

Issue Contains Attack on Mayor's Regime.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 7.—[Special.]—The mayoralty campaign in Minneapolis today was enlivened by the seizure by police of 25,000 copies of the Pink Sheet, a weekly tabloid newspaper. The publication, which was to have appeared today with a strenuous attack on the administration of Mayor William A. Anderson, was confiscated in a raid on the printing office by Chief W. J. Meehan. Later today, however, Chief Meehan announced that he would permit circulation of the paper "because it is largely political."

In the edition which was seized Howard Guilford, publisher and editor of the paper, said he intended to tell Minneapolis to "clean out the city hall." "Ed Morgan," said the main story, "is still running the show." This and companion stories in the Pink Sheet tell tales of the underworld and attack Chief Meehan. One of the stories purported to tell of slot machine operation in Minneapolis. Morgan is the reported head of the slot machine racket in the city.

In Saturday Press Case.

Guilford was associated with H. M. Near in the case involving the Saturday Press, newspaper throttled under the former Minnesota newspaper "gag law." It was this case which, after a long fight sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, led to the gag law being ruled unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court.

Seizure of newspapers in Minneapolis has marked nearly all recent mayoralty campaigns. In the last election, at which Anderson was chosen mayor, his predecessor, William F. J. Kunze, caused the confiscation of another paper, the Public Press. This sheet, which contained a sharp attack on the Kunze administration, was seized by police on the ground that it contained obscene matter. Appeals to the courts on the part of its publisher, Arthur E. Kasherman, failed to allow distribution of the paper.

Chief Meehan, in announcing that he would permit circulation of the edition of the Pink Sheet that was seized earlier in the day, echoed statements that were made at the time the Public Press was confiscated two years ago.

Future Bar Is Ordered.

He has had many complaints about the Pink Sheet, he said, and served notice that "sheets of this nature will not be tolerated on the streets of Minneapolis in the future."

"I am sure that the general character of the Pink Sheet and its general reputation in the city are so obnoxious to the decent residents of Minneapolis that they would approve its being taken from the street," he said. "However, I do not want to be charged with being unfair in the campaign, and I will not stop the issue of June 9 being circulated in order to give the mayor's opponents a chance to say they have been discriminated against by the authorities."

"The playing up of sensational criminal cases and sexual matters in heavy black faced type before the children of Minneapolis must stop," he added.

U. S. Theatrical Critic Killed in Mishap in Italy

BERLIN, June 7.—(AP)—Hooper Trask, theater and film critic in Berlin for the New York Times, was killed in an automobile accident at Bolzano, Italy, it was learned today. His wife was seriously injured.

POET MARKHAM AND WIDOW AGREE TO SETTLE SUIT

Mrs. Anderson Pays and Recovers Annuity.

Poet Edwin Markham, 81 years old, and Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson, 43 years old, comely widowed novelist, yesterday settled their war of words before Federal Master-in-Chancery Thomas J. Peden after brief arbitration. The poet will receive $1,127 and from this sum is to pay all his various attorneys.

In accepting the money Poet Markham, who is the author of "The Man with the Hoe," will relinquish all claims to $5,500 which eventually will accrue to Mrs. Anderson under an insurance annuity. The annuity was purchased for her from the Canada Life Assurance company of Toronto by Ernest R. Graham, noted Chicago architect.

Poet and Widow Defendants.

Both the poet and Mrs. Anderson were defendants in the federal suit which was filed by the life assurance company. Technically, this was a bill of interpleader in which the company asked a court interpretation of the claims of five individuals to Mrs. Anderson's annuity checks. The other defendants were two New York City attorneys who once appeared as counsel for the poet, and Attorney Robert E. Burke of Chicago who once was engaged by Mrs. Anderson.

The terms of the settlement which now needs only the dismissal of the suit to bring about its completion, allow Attorney Burke $250 for his fee. He had asked for $700. Poet Markham must make his own settlement with the New York lawyers and with Attorney Thomas J. O'Connell who represented him during the hearing before Master Peden.

Settlement Is Confirmed.

The settlement was confirmed late yesterday afternoon by Attorney Edmund Kelly, counsel for Mrs. Anderson, who resides at the Croydon hotel, Rush and Ontario streets. She refused to comment on the settlement, saying: "I am not now ready to give out any statement to the newspapers. It would be damaging to several of the parties to this suit if announcement of the settlement was made."

Attorney Kelly, however, said: "The whole thing is settled now. Mrs. Anderson gave Mr. Markham a very generous settlement. She had insisted from the beginning of the case that he should get every cent to which he was entitled."

Former Case Also Settled.

The suit is the second involving Mrs. Anderson which has been settled after court hearings. Last Januuary her $500,000 damage suit charging conspiracy against Graham was settled after one day of testimony. In this case Mrs. Anderson related details of a ten year love affair with the architect.

The hearings before Master Peden disclosed that Mrs. Anderson, in need of funds, assigned certain of the $500 monthly checks from her annuity to Poet Markham in return for ready cash. The poet later collected the checks. Evidence introduced before the master showed that the poet had given Mrs. Anderson $12,900 and had received $14,620 in payment. Further testimony was abruptly halted early yesterday when the poet said he would be willing to arbitrate.

SEVEN CATHOLIC BISHOPS URGE CAPITAL CONTROL

'Fair Return, No More,' Their Program.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June. 7.—[Special.]—Money not man, has been the "supreme consideration and the justifying end" of policies responsible for the "present tragic condition of this country," according to seven bishops of the Roman Catholic church. They outlined today, with hope if not with confidence what they believe to be the "only means to reach any permanent recovery and peace."

The bishops are members of the administrative committee of the national Catholic welfare conference. They gave their views in a statement issued by the committee. They are the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, archbishop of San Francisco, chairman of the administrative committee; Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of Cincinnati; Most Rev. John G. Murray, archbishop of St. Paul; Most Rev. Thomas F. Lillis, bishop of Kansas City; Most Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland; Most Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh, and Most Rev. John F. Noll, bishop of Fort Wayne.

For Corporation Control.

Acceptance of that principle by "capitalists and industrialists, perhaps not even a hundred men who control the financial destinies of our country," the bishops said, "if they were to agree to coöperate with the government and with the masses whom they have so wronged, to have written into our legislation that capital, in the future, shall receive a fair return on its investments—nothing more—would go far toward setting in motion the wheels of industry and solving the problem of unemployment."

Oppose Heavy Tax Burden.

The bishops further charged that "in the eyes of industry, regardless of justice, the one important thing is that students should be kept in school for additional years so as to lessen the number of the unemployed."

"That our educational institutions," the bishops added, "are nurseries of idleness for millions of our young either because they have not the natural gifts to acquire knowledge or because they will not form studious habits, and that the whole system of education is imposing an ever increasing burden, seems to receive little if any consideration."

Denounce Birth Control.

Divorce of religion from education and economics, according to the bishops, is resulting in "the destruction or serious impairment of home life" a "menacing" decline in the birth rate; "promotion of the godless, selfish and inhuman propaganda of birth prevention."

"One of the most significant signs of the moral decadence which has taken place in our country," according to the bishops, "is that men speaking from Christian pulpits and writing under the sanction of religion should approve and even actively promote this repellent doctrine."

C. O. BAIRD DIES; OPERA PROPERTY MAN FOR 40 YEARS

Clinton O. Baird, 65 years old, of 147 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, for more than forty years a property man at the Auditorium and Chicago Civic Opera company theaters, died suddenly yesterday in the Auditorium while listening to Claire Dux, who was singing in a rehearsal of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Baird was sitting near the orchestra pit when he collapsed, presumably of heart disease.

Baird knew scores of famous operatic stars. To many of them he was familiarly known as "Bert." Most of his forty years as property man was spent at the Auditorium. When the opera company moved to its new home in Wacker drive he followed. He returned to the Auditorium last November on its reopening.

Surviving are his widow, Anna, and a daughter, Jeanette. Funeral services will be announced later.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The United States open championship, which is to golf what the world series is to baseball and the Kentucky Derby to horse racing, will begin today at the North Shore Golf club, with 147 of the country's leading amateurs and professionals all of one mind —to wrest from Gene Sarazen the title he won at Fresh Meadow last year.

These 148 players will set out on the first 18 hole round of the tournament at 8:30 o'clock this morning when Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr and Mortie Dutra of Detroit tee off. Another 18 holes will be played tomorrow, with the low 60 scorers and all ties for last place turning into Saturday's stretch run of 36 holes. In the event of a tie at the end of 72 holes an extra 18 hole round among those deadlocked at the finish will be transacted on Sunday.

The field was reduced to 148 by the withdrawal of Sam Parks Jr., former University of Pittsburgh star; Willie Hunter of Los Angeles, and Fred Morrison, also of Los Angeles.

It's an Open Event.

The 1933 open, thirty-seventh of the annual series, is likely to be the greatest ever played, because the complexion of the field guarantees that it will be one of the most open events in the history of the game. Attempting to name the winner before the 72 hole struggle over the narrow fairways and deceptive greens at North Shore is equivalent to picking the winner out of a Derby field of 148. In spite of this the makers of odds have established Sarazen a favorite to retain his crown at 4 to 1.

Par has been smashed a dozen times during the practice rounds of the tournament, but the weather has been such that the seekers after the title have not been forced to contend with the whimsies of Chicago's winds, a fact which will alter the scores considerably if the frolicsome zephyrs native to these parts should decide to put up at North Shore for the ensuing three days. If the sweltering conditions prevailing yesterday at North Shore continue, the veterans of the open who competed in the two infernos of Interlachen and Inverness will be right at home.

Armour in Top Form.

On the basis of practice rounds as related to weather conditions, Tommy Armour of Medinah appears to be the workout choice of the tournament. Armour, who won the championship in 1927, has gone over North Shore in wind, rain and heat, and has yet to go over 74. Among other practice sessions, he has chiseled the North Shore par of 72 with rounds of 69 and 70. Only MacDonald Smith has been able to equal that 69 thus far. A majority of the field have been on the scene only since Sunday, and so have not had any opportunity to test the winds which punish the course on cooler days, as Armour has.

Fischer Shoots 70.

The heat yesterday was such that most of the players were content to go nine holes or none, many preferring to play bridge in the club

In the WAKE of the NEWS

OPEN GOLF TOURNEY.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I received your note saying I better go out to the National Open golf tourney at North Shore and see whether I can note anything additional to what Charlie Bartlett and Howard Barry note. Now that's fine even if my dogs aren't quite what they used to be and sometimes do fret me a little when I walk too far.

Of course, Arch, this covering an open tourney on the first day before the leaders are well established is something like trying to find a needle in a hay mow because you may be following one pair and some other pair is doing all the spectacular stuff.

Another thing, if a person is conservative and deliberate, as I am, the gallery moves too fast and takes all the choice vantage points along the edge of the fairway and by the time I get there all I can see is the ball in the air and how can I tell if it's a good shot just by seeing the ball in the air? I don't understand why golf galleries are in such a hurry that way.

So, perhaps I better not try to follow any particular pair around, anyway the first day. There's a nice spot near the clubhouse where one can cover both the ninth and eighteenth greens, and I understand they're going to erect seats there, so perhaps you'd rather I occupied one of the seats if I can get one from the tournament publicity manager.

There's one other spot I'd like to be, if it's not too warm, only it's far from the clubhouse, in fact, about the farthest point, way to the north and east. Perhaps you'll remember it as near the place where you used to slip through the fence onto the road outside the grounds to the hot dog and soft drink stand, where they didn't confine you to soft drinks even before 3.2 was legal.

Anyway, this is the best hole on the course. I'm sure it's the best because I once made one of my rare 2's there playing in a two bit syndicate which paid two bits extra for pars and four bits for birdies. It's a par 3 of about 185 yards and I collected $2.25 from the other members of our foursome, which left me only $1.75 loser on the round.

With such memory of triumph, I'd like to see how the professionals play that hole. It's a drive onto a sort of undulating plateau with a bad trap on left and fall-away on right. Just as I was about to drive, I got to thinking of the red hot and soft drink stand so I unconsciously relaxed and the ball went near enough to the cup so that even I could drop it for a two.

Also, Arch, I see they're estimating possible scores of 68 to 70. That's too high even if it rains. I admit I once did a 64 going out, but I had a lot of hard luck and no professional should take 68 to 70. Anyway, I had 52 that time coming back so my total was only 116 for the entire eighteen holes.

Well, I'll do as you say, and if the gallery pushes me around too much I'll either take one of those seats at the ninth green or I'll go out to that beautiful hole where I once made a two. Regards.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 7.—It may not surprise you to be told that Max Schmeling, the German prize fighter, and Max Baer of California, whose Jewishness is one of his selling points in the present instance, have promised to assault each other with furious lefts and rights to the face and body at the Yankee stadium tomorrow evening.

Schmeling is a better boxer than Baer and, at his weight, about 190 pounds, is enough man to knock over a fighter of Baer's size, which is six feet two and one-half and 208 pounds, if he can find room in which to deposit his punching hand, which happens to be his right. He uses his left very sparingly in the ring, but has a habit of pumping the right hand into the ribs below the heart, somewhat as Tunney did in the Tom Heeney massacre, and fetching it up and over in a drive to the head.

Baer Fights by Ear.

Baer never learned any boxing. He fights strictly by ear and, like most pugilists who got their schooling behind the schoolhouse, is inclined to throw wide looping curves, favoring the right hand. When he does this he usually cocks himself for the blow, pulling his right away back and setting his feet for leverage. Then, as the right goes over, he throws his weight behind it with a shift of his body, which pulls his left side back and his left arm down.

A fighter as sharp and cool as Schmeling should be able to draw beads on Baer's chin and do him serious damage while he is going through the windup for his right hand punch.

Baer is a young man of rough-and-tumble temperament who claims that no man can hurt him with a fist. He likes to fight and probably would go around giving away the goods off his shelves in street fights with taxi drivers at 3 a. m., just for pleasure if there was no market for his art. He is involved in three serious lawsuits for robust sums of money and he has pledged away so many shares of his earnings now and henceforth that, with taxes and all, he cannot expect to collect more than 30 per cent of his earnings.

Schmeling Likes Money.

Mr. Schmeling, now, is different. Schmeling enjoys boxing as a tennis man enjoys a few sets of a pleasant afternoon, but he is not at all pugnacious and fighting is just a business with him. He trains for stamina, reckons to achieve his results by many punches rather than by any single stupefying blow. It took him five rounds to draw a sight on Willie Stribling's chin in Cleveland and rig up a defensive block of his left arm and hand against Stribling's rather wild but bothersome right to the head.

[RESULTS OF POLL ON PAGE 21.]

The nation-wide voting to pick American and National league teams for the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6 has developed only one real contest. But what a battle it has turned out to be! Warneke of the Cubs versus Hubbell of the Giants.

Approximately 225,000 votes for National league pitchers have been received in this office from all parts of the United States. Hubbell and Warneke are separated by only 206. Hubbell has the lead, but if New York doesn't hurry to his support the Cubs' star will be in front when the next tabulations are published Saturday.

Warneke Moving Up.

Warneke acquired a substantial lead in the early voting. Then came the returns from New York, where the Daily News is soliciting lineups from the fans. Hubbell's 4 to 1 advantage in New York gave him a lead which Warneke never has been able to overcome. But he seems to be on the way at last.

St. Louis is for Warneke, 2 to 1. Kansas City gives him a 5 to 3 edge over the New York southpaw, and he is ahead in Pittsburgh by 11 to 9. In Phoenix, Ariz., Warneke is in front by more than 2 to 1 and his lead in Cleveland is almost as large.

Cleveland, by the way, practices civic loyalty. The American league vote gives members of the Cleveland club substantial pluralities. Oral Hildebrand, the brilliant young Indian pitcher, ranks with Lefty Grove in the estimation of his home town admirers. After two weeks of balloting conducted by the Plain Dealer Hildebrand trails Grove by only three votes. He leads his teammate, Wesley Ferrell, by almost 3 to 2.

Each team will be allowed to use three pitchers in the interleague game. Based on the national standings, the National league moundsmen will be Hubbell, Warneke and Lucas. The American league will have Grove, Gomez and Ferrell.

There will be no changes in the starting lineups after the final vote has been published unless a player is physically unfit to give his best. The presidents of the leagues will make this decision.

Officials at Comiskey park report a heavy demand for tickets. Orders have been received from every section of the country. Hundreds of fans plan to make the game of the century the occasion of their visit to A Century of Progress Exposition.

Tickets will not be distributed until July 1. Out of town applicants will receive theirs by mail. Fans living in Chicago and suburbs will be notified when and where to pick them up.

There still are nearly 20,000 unsold grandstand tickets. All these seats are reserved. The game is certain to be a sellout, so if you don't want to be disappointed, order your tickets at once. Mail your application to All Star Baseball Department, Comiskey park, Chicago. No request will be recognized unless it is accompanied by cashier's check or money order. Be sure to inclose a self addressed, stamped envelope.

JEWEL ENS, REDS' ACTING MANAGER, IS SUSPENDED

New York, June 7.—(AP)—Jewel Ens, acting manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has been suspended indefinitely because of his runin with Umpire George Barr during the stormy game between the Reds and St. Louis Cardinals at Cincinnati yesterday.

President John Heydler of the National league said tonight he was uncertain as to the duration it would be continued or whether to lift the suspension and substitute a fine.

SIX IN ROW FOR SOX! WIN, 4 TO 1, IN BROWN FINAL

Hayes Leads Attack on Bump Hadley.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 7.—Jack Hayes' bat, with a little outside assistance, led the White Sox into their sixth straight triumph and also into second place in the American league flag race today. Twice in the closing innings Hayes came through to account for the three runs that crushed Irving [Bump] Hadley and swept the five game series with the Browns. The score was 4 to 1. It was the ninth time in ten starts that the locals have been handled in such fashion by the revived Chicagoans.

The tenacious Hadley, pitching his third game in six days, was a tartar until the unseasonable heat helped to wear him down. For seven innings he gave up only four hits, one of them being Al Simmons' fifth homer of the season. Then he wilted. He was actually staggering and almost ready to topple over during the last two innings, but he would not surrender. It was while he was staggering that the Sox punched out their winning margin.

Gaston Gets Support.

The pleasure of pitching the finale of a trip that netted six victories against two trimmings went to the elderly Milton Gaston, who didn't let the heat or anything else annoy him. He had his bad moments, but most of them came early in the game and except for one instance when Bruce Campbell, the former Sox, hit a double, the Browns didn't get within reach of the plate. Ragged fielding behind Gaston might have made a far different story, but his co-workers were perfect in their chores.

Simmons' homer, a drive into the seats, was his only contribution of the day, but his position as ranking batter in the American league wasn't threatened. He was up four times, fanning once with two on base, but walked once. His average dropped only a point, from .377 to .376. And for the next eight games the Sox will be home, facing the pitching of the Tigers and Browns. Thus there should be no marked pause in the dizzy pace Simmons has been setting for himself.

Hadley started off at such a handsome pace that only one hit was charged against him in two innings. That was the one Simmons drove into the left field seats with a 2 to 1 count on him at the start of the second inning. This was such a shock to Hadley that he walked Appling, the next batter. Kress, however, looked at a third strike and Dykes and Berry flied out.

The Sox made threatening gestures in the third, but didn't go through with them. Hayes singled to center with one out and pulled up at second when Haas scratched a hit to deep short. With Swanson and Simmons coming up this appeared to be a hand picked situation, but Swanson bounced to Scharein for a double play.

Gaston Meets Trouble.

The home third was featured by two hits and a walk on which Gaston was lucky to escape with no more than one run across. Hadley flied to Swanson, after which Scharein singled out of Appling's reach. West was out on a roller in front of the plate and Garms walked. Then Campbell lined a double to right center, scoring Scharein, but fast fielding by Haas held Garms at third. Burns flied to Haas to end the inning. West and Garms also troubled Gaston with singles after two were out in the fifth, but Campbell flied to Simmons.

The Sox tried to take advantage of a break in the sixth, but it turned out badly. Swanson singled after two were out and Simmons walked. While Appling was at bat, Shea committed a short passed ball. Swanson made third easily, but Simmons got a late start and Shea recovered in time to throw him out at second. Then the Browns had a chance in their half when Gullic scratched an infield single and went to second as Gaston threw wild trying to catch him off first. This situation was cleaned up

Jurges Hits Homer to Help Bush.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday wound up their long home stay in a delightfully adequate fashion by slugging out a 7 to 2 victory in the final with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory was pleasant enough in itself, but there were many items in the accomplishment thereof which hold cheer for the future. For instance, Guy Bush returned to a semblance of his natural form, after several weeks of discomfort. There wasn't any inning that Guy was able to keep the Pirates from getting a hit, but the Mississippian had his stuff and would have registered a shutout but for two wild pitches cast while the young man was bearing down to an extreme degree.

The Babe Wallops Ball.

Even more important than Bush's return to form was the manner in which Babe Herman extended the batting rampage on which he entered last Saturday. In five trips to the plate Babe made two triples, a double, a sacrifice, and drew a walk, a perfect day at bat, which lifted his season mark to .313 and gave him a record of 12 hits in 18 times at bat, starting with Saturday's game with the Cardinals. The streak has included four triples and a double.

Then there was the matter of Charley Grimm's hitting. Charley has been the same old fielding star since he has been playing with a misery in his back, but his hitting most times hasn't been so rosy. Yesterday he slashed out a double which led to the first Cub run and the next time he smacked a single.

More Pleasing Items.

And while we are gurgling optimism, why not mention that Gabby Hartnett batted .500, with a double and single, and that Bill Jurges' homer with Hartnett on base gave the Cubs enough runs to win after Grimm had scored on Hartnett's single in the second.

The Cubs now have won one more game in the National league than have the favorite Pirates. They have lost two more than the Pirates, so remain in fourth place, a half game behind the Pirates and only three back of the Giants and the Cardinals. In their last 15 games the Cubs have triumphed 11 times, a fine record that has lifted them from seventh place to a contending position in two weeks.

Cubs Slow Down Swift.

The Cubs flashed a warning to Swift in the first inning by getting runners on third and second with one out. This effort did not cash at the time, but the lads made the Pirate star work so hard that he was nicely softened for subsequent events. English walked and stopped at second on Bill Herman's single to left. The pair moved up on Babe Herman's sacrifice, but stopped because Stephenson popped to Piet and Traynor threw out Demaree.

Both teams got out of the goose egg chain in the second inning. Suhr, who does most of his hitting to right field, crossed up the works by plunking a double into an unguarded region near the left foul line, and Piet walked. The runners moved up on a wild pitch, after which Grace tapped to Bill Herman, Suhr scoring.

Jurges Smacks Homer.

POLYDORUS WINS AFTER FAILING BACKERS TWICE

Comes Close to Record at Washington Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Polydorus, the fashionable bred son of Friar Rock, which races for Mr. Abraham Bartelstein of our great west side, quit knocking on the door and walked right into the charmed circle at Washington park yesterday afternoon at the finish of the Mohawk purse.

The big bay was making his third start of the year in Chicago. Twice he had been second and had been denied a victory by very slender margins. Somebody was always outfooting him right at the finish.

Nobody outfooted him in the Mohawk, which was a dash at seven furlongs. They couldn't because Polydorus ran too fast for them. He reeled off the distance in 1:23 4-5, just a fifth of a second off the track record, and won, easing up, by four lengths. It was scorching time on a scorching hot afternoon.

Mr. Joe Runs Second.

Mr. Joe, who had stepped a right gallant seven furlongs, was second, and was going strong near the finish. He beat Madwind by a length. Both Polydorus and Mr. Joe had trailed the weak hearted Trinchera, from the Three D's farm stable from Texas, in the early stages.

Just as the field wheeled into the stretch, Polydorus began to show his running ability. In a couple of dozen strides he raced on past Trinchera. Mr. Joe was moving up rapidly and he, too, pulled by the faltering Trinchera without any trouble.

The two leaders raced down the stretch in that order, but Mr. Joe wasn't up to the task of picking up four lengths on the flying Polydorus in a quarter of a mile. Madwind had to show considerable speed to get third money, for Marmion, another Chicago horse, was making a desperate last minute rally and finished fourth.

Polydorus Is Favorite.

Polydorus' two good races earlier in the season had won him a huge following and he went to the post the favorite. In the mutuels he paid $4.56 to win, $3.18 to place, and $2.40 to show. Mr. Joe paid $4.28 to place and $3.10 to show. Madwind was a long shot and was at $9.36 to show.

Some very sleek and stylish 2 year old fillies came together in the Geranium purse and from out of a spectacular scramble down the stretch Dustina, owned by Warren Wright's Calumet stable, emerged the winner by a neck. The Lamar stable's My Kind was second, and Mariana, from down in old Kentucky and owned by Sewell Combs, was third.

Jockey McCrossen turned in a magnificent performance on Dustina and probably should have won by a much larger margin. On the turn McCrossen and Dustina were in very tight quarters.

Mariana, Sun Stream, and My Kind were running great guns out in front of her. Yet McCrossen took Dustina back out of the crowded quarters and lost about a half dozen lengths doing it. After losing all the ground he brought Dustina up on the outside. She closed a tremendous gap.

Her Stock Goes Up.

She raced past Sun Stream and Mariana. She had all she could do to outfoot My Kind in the last few strides, but she did it and was going away at the finish. She stepped a very fast 5 furlongs, the time being 1:01. There was a plunge on Mariana and a later plunge on Luna Bright and Sun Stream. In the mutuels Dustina paid the right good price of $15.26 to win.

The victory boomed Dustina's stock in the western 2 year old title chase. Dustina is a daughter of Pompey-Elvina and was purchased by Mr. Wright at the Saratoga auctions last spring.

A couple of fairly well backed horses won the second and third races yesterday to complete the daily double. They were Burgoo and Momo. The double paid off at $58.76.

Here's Real Hoss Race: Mati Hari vs. Miss Patience

The race track that can bring together the two unbeaten 2 year old fillies, Miss Patience and Mati Hari, will stage an event that will excite everybody on the western turf. Miss Patience has five straight triumphs to her credit. Mati Hari, owned by Charles Fisher's Dixiana stable, ran away from her opponents in her only two starts.

Both are eligible for the Debutante stakes at Lincoln Fields July 17, and from the way they are going along in their training they will accept the issue.

Trainer Woody Fitzgerald told some friends yesterday that the old giant killer, Plucky Play, would be ready to fill an engagement at Lincoln Fields. Fitzgerald's friends took the statement to mean that Gallant Sir will not see action until he hooks up with Equipoise at Arlington Park.

Condition books for the Lincoln Fields meeting were issued yesterday and it was noted that there was no change in the purse values from those which prevailed at Washington Park. The minimum purse will be $700, with an occasional raise to $800 for overnight handicaps and allowances.

Officials for the Lincoln Fields meeting are the same as those which acted at Washington Park—Charles F. Price, steward in charge of racing; W. H. Shelley, racing secretary and handicapper; Harry Morrissey, starter; S. H. McMeekin, clerk of the scales; L. C. Bogenschutz, entry clerk; Frank Otis, patrol judge; Thomas Young, track superintendent, and E. J. Weidekamp, manager of pari-mutuels.

Eddie Arcaro, who was the victim of a spill in Tuesday's racing while astride Gunfire, was reported to be resting easily yesterday. He suffered the fracture of four ribs and a slight puncture of one of his lungs. Physicians attending him say that there is little danger unless pneumonia sets in.

†Field. Time, :23 2-5, :46 3-5, 1:12 1-5, 1:37 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Momo, $11.66 straight, $6.80 place, $3.24 show; Martie Flynn, $9.68 place, $4.22 show; Dominant Miss, $8.56 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 5:02. At post 1¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

MOMO, slightly shuffled back in first quarter, began moving up at lower turn, where she ranged wide, went to inside after reaching final three-sixteenths and, continuing strongly, wore down leaders to win driving out. MARTIE FLYNN, under strong restraint first half mile, worked his way to front on outside and held on well, but was not good enough. DOMINANT MISS, hustled along in the pacemaking, weakened after seven-eighths.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

DUSTINA, probably much the best and sharply taken back when in close quarters before going a quarter, offered the response when called upon and, after coming to extreme outside for the final five-sixteenths and wearing down the leaders, was ready to draw out. MY KIND, under mild restraint first three-eighths, rallied when eased hard and slowly wore down MARIANA, but failed to withstand winner. MARIANA, a quick breaker, was in clear command before going a sixteenth, displayed good speed for a half mile, then weakened.

POLYDORUS, going in his best form, forced a fast pace under strong restraint, took command gradually and, maintaining keen speed to end, came away fast the final eighth, but had little left. MR. JOE, on outside throughout and a strong factor from start, held on gamely under strong handling. MADWIND lost some ground early, but saved enough when entering stretch and closed resolutely in a good effort.

Winner trained by Jay McNamara. Went to post at 5:02. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

TACK, having speed from start, drew into decisive command easily after a half-mile, maintained the advantage without need of strong urging, and was taken in hand near end. LONGUS, slow to get going, began improving his position after five-eighths and closed strong under weak riding. DIFFERENT appeared to bear in when moving up at lower turn and weakened in final eighth.

Winner trained by D. T. Hisle. Went to post at 5:28½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won ridden out; second and third driving.

BY GRACIOUS, allowed to drop out of it and under easy restraint after a quarter, responded strongly after reaching final five-sixteenths and, wearing down leaders was kept under energetic riding. BEAU JOLIE, close to the early pace, worked his way to front with a bid for loss of ground, slowly but outstayed BEAVER. Latter, under strong restraint first half mile, fell back slowly but tired, where he was under pressure, but outfinished BARNEY SEXTON.

Went to post at 5:34½. At post 5½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won handily; second and third driving.

BLACK NOSE, away well and having speed, made the early pace under stout restraint, came away gradually entering stretch and won handily. PRESTIGE, placed on outside at start and away very slowly, lost much ground at first turn, could not get to winner, but held on well. DUG IN, well in hand first three-quarters, held on creditably.

dull companions. He knows some of the birds and gnats and flowers and weeds by name and reads an occasional book. Not heavyweight reading. About welterweight.

He does almost none of the conventional labor on the road and in the gym with which most fighters punish and in some cases exhaust themselves, according to old tradition, without knowing why. Photographs of Max Schmeling jogging along the country lane with his manager, Joe Jacobs, may be regarded as nothing but art work because Schmeling doesn't like running and Jacobs, if he had to run one lap around the rim of a dime to save his life, would lose his life.

Jack Won't Get Rich.

A few parties of out of town trade have come into New York from Chicago and points this side of Chicago to hurl glances at the fighters, but most of the trade will be local New York and New Jersey talent and the gate receipts, given fair weather, probably will pass $300,000 but not $350,000. Of this amount a charity known as the Calvary Cancer hospital fund will receive a share, and Jack Dempsey, who is ostensibly the promoter, probably will make less profit than he might have made by discoursing witty remarks and punching some animated dummy around a stage, three times a day in vaudeville.

Dempsey has laid the foundation or keel or cast the die or set the stage, however, for a further career as a prizefight promoter in New York. Up to this time he has handled himself well, not only in the delicate dealings with the politicians which are the first test of a first rate prizefight promoter, but in all of the thousand details of publicity, ticket distribution and negotiation. After this fight he may tie loose from his silent partner, one Jerome Utley, of Detroit, an old 'varsity pitcher of the University of Michigan, who put up the money, and go on alone as the No. 1 New York prizefight promoter.

The resentment of the Jewish population of New York against the Hitler government of Germany has had no apparent effect on the promotion. Baer claims to be half Jewish and the boys naturally have not failed to tweak the sensitiveness of the Jewish people with sly reminders that in this fight a real Germany may suffer some bouncing around at the hands of a somewhat Jewish gladiator.

No Doubt About Jacobs.

On the other hand, Mr. Schmeling's manager, Mr. Jacobs, is 400 per cent Jewish, according to his own figures, and was once run out of Georgia by the Ku Klux Klan when he made the business error of crossing the pale with Michael McTigue, an Irish Catholic with a brogue as thick as cold oatmeal. Mr. Jacobs and Michael McTigue were waited upon by a committee of klads, kleagles, klucks, and so forth, whose spokesman flourished two stout, half inch ropes and said, "Boys, we want you to look out that window there and each one select a tree."

That was the time that Mr. Jacobs established an immortal reputation for extreme generosity. Peering out the window he saw two trees, one a mighty oak, the other a limber sapling.

"Mike," Mr. Jacobs said, turning to his friend McTigue, "this may be our last hour on earth and I am not going to be selfish. You take the big tree. The little one is all I want."

Some unknowns have smeared lampblack over some of the large muslin signs with which Dempsey advertised the fight on the side walls of the Yankee stadium. This mild outrage may be traceable to the anti-Hitler sentiment, but it could have been the result of some business trouble between rackets in the sign painting and posting business.

Something Is Wrong.

The bout is for fifteen rounds or less, and the only suspicious circumstance which has arisen to date is the fact that no suspicious circumstance has arisen. This is ground for suspicion. A fight for the heavyweight runner-uptcy unattended by rumors of bribery, fakery, or foul play almost ought to be forbidden, or anyway thrown out of the records as not complying with the fine old traditions of the ennobling sport of pugilism.

AWARD WILLARD BIG 10 MEDAL AT NORTHWESTERN

Kenneth Willard, a member of Northwestern university's swimming team, yesterday was awarded the Western conference medal for proficiency in athletics and scholarship. Willard, a diver, completed four years of college work with a B average. He is the son of Prof. C. E. Willard of the engineering school of the university. He will continue his studies at the California Institute of Technology, where he has received a fellowship in aero dynamics.

During his three years of swimming he was a place winner in both the Big Ten and the national collegiate meet. His second place in the national meet last spring enabled Northwestern to win the championship.

TIGERS' 3 RUNS IN SIXTH BEAT INDIANS, 3-1

Victory Is 4th Straight Over Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 7.—(AP)—In a sixth inning attack led by Marvin Owen's homer into the right field stands, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians for the fourth straight time today, 3 to 1, ending the current series against the Indians with four victories out of five games.

SENATORS, 13; ATHLETICS, 13.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—(AP)—The Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics slugged the ball to all corners of Shibe park today, but failed to reach a decision when a heavy windstorm and darkness broke up the overtime contest in the A's half of the tenth inning with the Senators leading, 14 to 13. The score reverted to a 13 to 13 deadlock. The Senators scored one run in their half of the tenth and the Athletics had one man on base when the storm sent the players running for shelter. Score:

House Kills Bolton's Amateur Boxing Bill

Springfield, Ill., June 7.—[Special.] The amateur boxing bill, sponsored by Representatives John M. Bolton (Dem., Chicago) and Howard L. Doyle (Dem., Decatur) was killed by the house late today. Requiring 77 votes, the bill received only 70, while 31 members were against it. Doyle moved to postpone consideration when the measure seemed certain of defeat, but the house would not allow his motion.

Plane Cards 83 to Win Oil Men's Golf Tournament

Fred Plane of Calumet carded a 39—44—83 yesterday to win the championship trophy in the Chicago Oil Men's club annual midsummer golf tournament over the No. 1 course at Medinah. The entry list included 125 members and guests.

Other low gross scores were: M. H. Duffield, 42—43—85; Fred Howick, 45—42—87; Holger Jensen, 41—46—87; H. A. Wilke, 44—44—88; and Roy Geyer, 43—46—89. John Jacobs, a guest, had the lowest card of the tournament, 38—41—79.

Ed Wiech of the research department captured the championship in the American Can company's annual golf tournament at Midlothian yesterday with a 40—40—80. H. E. Anderson was runner-up with 81 and R. R. Behnke was third with 82. Wiech carded a birdie on the 507 yard 16th hole.

Ed Young won low net honors with 83—14—69. Other low net scores were turned in by Max Bertsch, who shot 107—38—69; N. Geersten, who had 98—28—70, and E. D. Murphy, 96—26—70.

MOON MULLINS—NO MATCH FOR KAYO

How They're Voting on National League Stars

The baseball fans of the nation will decide who will play in the Game of the Century at Comiskey park July 6.

The Tribune is offering $500 in cash prizes to the fans who come closest to naming the teams. The first award of $250 will go to the person who comes closest to naming the starting lineups [batting order] and the three pitchers for each team in the order they work. The fan who selects the American league's starting lineup with starting pitcher will receive $100. A similar prize will be presented for the National league team. Fifty $1 prizes will be distributed among the fans who can name the six pitchers.

In case more than the allotted number qualify for the awards, the prizes will go to those whose selections reach The Tribune first. Address communications to Sports Editor, Box 1718, Chicago Tribune.

promptly calmed this minor threat by fanning Piet. In the fifth the Pirates got the bases full after two were out. L. Waner singled to center and stopped at third on the first of Vaughan's extra base hits, a double to right. Traynor walked, filling the bases. Then P. Waner tapped to Bush for the third out.

Pound Kremer in Sixth.

A single by Grimm in the third and a double by Hartnett in the fifth was the extent of the damage the Cubs were able to do against Kremer prior to the sixth. In the sixth the boys hopped on the old fellow for a walk and four hits in a row, all of which produced three runs.

English walked with one down and went to third on Bill Herman's single to left center. Babe Herman doubled to right. English scoring and Bill Herman stopping at third. Stephenson, who had permitted runners to die on third on three previous trips to the plate, registered grim determination as he went to the plate and observed the Hermans ready to score. Stevie shot a grounder at Piet and the ball hopped over Tony's head for a single, the Hermans scoring. Demaree singled to center, Stephenson stopping at second. Grimm popped to Traynor and Hartnett popped to Traynor.

Pirates Pick Up One.

The Pirates got the bases full with none out in the eighth, but could glean but one run from the situation. P. Waner walked and stopped at third on Lindstrom's double. The bases were full after Suhr walked on four pitches. P. Waner scored and the other runners advanced on Bush's second wild pitch. Piet fanned, Grace lined to Babe Herman and Jensen, batting for Hoyt, grounded to Bill Herman.

The Pittsburghers also filled the bases in the ninth, but the game ended without damage on Suhr's fly to Stephenson.

The Cubs left last night for St. Louis where this afternoon they will play the Cardinals in the first of three games. Lon Warneke, who beat the Cardinals, 8 to 6, his last time out, will go after No. 9.

Farrell Beats Jones in Foursome on Lasker Course

Johnny Farrell, who beat Bobby Jones in a playoff for the national open golf title at Olympia fields, four years ago, outscored the Georgian yesterday in a match over Albert D. Lasker's private course. They kept only approximate scores, but Farrell had a 73 and Jones a 76. Farrell paired with Grantland Rice, sports writer, to beat Jones and Melvin Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago.

Jones to Pitch Tiger Opener for Sox Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 7.—Sam Jones likes to pitch to the Tigers, and he'll have the chance tomorrow when the White Sox open a long stay at Comiskey park. He already has beaten them twice this season. The Tiger pitcher will be Fred Marberry or Art Herring. The visit of the Tigers will conclude Sunday with a double header.

Rumors about Bill Killefer's job as manager of the Browns being endangered are beginning to drift about. Neither Killefer nor any other manager could do much with the material at hand.

Rogers Hornsby and some of the other Cardinals used up an afternoon off by watching the Sox and Browns. Hornsby admits the Cardinals are almost certain to win the present race.

Sox hospital notes: Jack Hayes refuses to take himself out of the game even though bothered considerably by a lame back. Whitlow Wyatt, the pitcher obtained from Detroit, is a hay fever sufferer. Manager Lew Fonseca's ailing leg has improved, but he isn't going to bother about returning to first base as long as Red Kress continues to hit.

Simmons' homer added one more to the total of runs he has driven in this season. That let him jump ahead of Lou Gehrig in this particular branch of endeavor. Simmons has 41 and Gehrig 40. Appling is next with 39.

Golf Pupils Learn How to Use Midiron

Not even the opening guns of the national open tournament, scheduled to boom this morning, have diminished the consistent enthusiasm attendant upon THE TRIBUNE Golf school, which is now in its third week on the 27 member courses of the Chicago District Golf association. The midiron, with special attention to the deadly slice, is the subject of this week's lessons and pupils throughout the district can't seem to get enough tips on it, many of them lingering after the regular lesson for additional information.

Barney Kinsman and Paul Drews of Kinsman report a marked progress among all of their students. Abe Espinosa of Cog Hill, who will be among the sharpshooters in the open today, conducted two of the largest classes of the week before going on the North Shore stage, having 200 men out Tuesday and 175 women last night. Bert Kilroy and Don Swanton taught a class of 75 women at Midwest last night, while Jock Anderson of Techny Fields and Joe Roseman and Lou Humphries of Pickwick reported good attendances Tuesday and last night, as did Les McArthur of Chicago Meadows.

Those golfers who have missed the first three lessons are invited to come out to any of the 27 courses for whatever benefit they may derive from the remaining three lessons. Special classes are held at all courses on Sunday afternoons, at 4 for men and boys and at 4:45 for women and girls.

WEST—Antlers, two miles south of Wheaton on Butterfield road; Glenbard, Roosevelt road at Glen Ellyn; Harlem, 7400 Roosevelt road; Hillcrest, 2½ miles east of Barrington; Indian Head, Joliet and Wolf roads, 2 miles south of Western Springs; Midwest, Ogden and Cass avenues, Hinsdale; White Pines, York and Church roads, Bensenville; Woodridge, at Lisle on Route 53.

SOUTH—Chicago Meadows, 5850 South Cicero avenue; Cog Hill, 119th street and Archer avenue; Evergreen, 91st street and Western avenue; Golfmoor, 79th street near Cicero avenue; Hickory Hills, 8001 West 95th street; Kinsman, 143d street and Parker road; Oak Hills, 131st street, 76th to 80th avenues; Pipe o' Peace, 131st and Halsted streets; Walnut Hills, 103d street, between Harlem and Kean avenues; Westgate Valley, 131st street and Ridgeland road, west of Blue Island.

NORTH—Big Oaks, 6000 Lawrence avenue; Elmgate, Shermer and Glenview roads; Lake Avenue Day-Nite Golf, Harms road at Lake avenue, Wilmette; Mid-City, Grace street and Western avenue; Northbrook, Dundee and Sanders roads, 1 mile east of Wheeling; Pickwick, Shermer and Lake avenues; Rob Roy, McDonald road, between River and Elmhurst roads; Techny Fields, Waukegan and Willow roads; Vernon, Deerfield road, 1½ miles west of Waukegan road.

Six Straight for Sox; Beat Browns, 4 to 1

Webb's single, which started the Sox on the trail of their run in the eighth inning, was a liner into center. Lyons was summoned to run for him. Gaston tried to bunt, but couldn't so took a swing and popped to Shea in front of the plate. Hayes singled past the first baseman and Lyons speeded to third. Haas bounced to Storti, forcing Hayes, and barely missed being doubled at first base. Lyons scored on the play. And then Simmons, after spurning two successive strikes, one of which he thought was miscalled, swung and missed. Campbell tried to offset this run by leading off with a single in the Browns' half, but Gaston nailed the next three batters.

Appling drilled a triple past third base to open the ninth inning. Kress fanned for the third time. Hadley was plainly weary and walked both Dykes and Grube, filling the bases. On Gaston's bounder to Gullic, Appling was forced at the plate. Then Hayes pounded a hard one back at Hadley, who tried to grab it with his bare hand. He recovered and, with no chance for a play at first, tried to get it to third in time to force Grube, but the throw was wild and Grube followed Dykes home. The Browns dropped in order in their half.

grill. It wasn't too much, however, for Johnny Fischer, the University of Michigan junior, who holds both the Western conference and national intercollegiate crowns. Playing with Herbert Jacques and Prescott Bush, president and vice president, respectively, of the United States Golf association, the slender Wolverine star knocked down a 70, two under par, his best drill to date. He was hitting the ball well all around, drawing birdies on the ninth and sixteenth, and might have had a 67 or 68 had he been able to hole several lengthy putts. His card follows:

New York, June 7.—Heavy buying of railroad bonds and of many industrial and utility issues, sent prices of domestic corporation bonds substantially higher on the stock exchange today, lifting averages for all of these groups to new highs for the year. Foreign bonds traveled irregularly higher.

United States government bonds, however, closed unchanged to off 5-32 points with the single exception of the treasury 4½s, which moved up 1-32.

Speculative Rails Strong.

The most active and strong sections of the domestic railroad group included the obligations of Alleghany corporation, Chesapeake corporation, Denver & Rio Grande Western, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, and the Wabash. The bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific were weaker on the news that the road had filed a petition under the new bankruptcy law.

The communications issues were among the most active of the utility group, the International Telephone and Telegraph group closing up 1½ to off 3⅞, and the Postal Telegraph & Cable 5s, due 1953, up 1½ in heavy trading. Western Union issues pointetd higher, as did the obligations of American Telephone & Telegraph.

In the foreigns most of the trading in the German group centered in the government 5½s, due 1965, which lost 1¼ points for the day. The government 7s gained ⅝ of a point.

NEW ISSUE.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. and Banc-america-Blair corporation offered an issue of $335,000 City of Watertown, N. Y., 4.30 per cent bonds maturing $15,000 July 1, 1934 and $40,000 annually July 1, 1935-1942 inclusive.

Indianapolis Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me what information you can concerning Indianapolis Life Insurance company?—S. J.

Answer: Indianapolis Life Insurance company, a mutual, writes both participating and nonparticipating life insurance. It began business in 1905.

Mortality rate has been favorable. In 1932 deaths of policyholders were 42.5 per cent of expectancy; against 34.3 per cent in 1931 and 43 per cent in 1930.

In 1932 income was $1,015,000 more than disbursements. Income exceeded disbursements by $1,743,000 in 1931.

As security for the $100,483,000 of insurance in force at the close of 1932, the company set up a reserve of $12,187,000. Other liabilities, including a $65,000 contingent reserve, totaled $1,823,000.

Against these, admitted assets totaled $14,752,000. They included $1,407,000 real estate, $7,266,000 mortgages, $1,263,000 bonds, $380,000 cash, $3,508,000 policy loans, and $124,000 collateral loans. Real estate and mortgage loans constituted 64.1 per cent of invested assets, and collateral and policy loans, bonds, and stock comprised 35.9 per cent of invested assets.

On the basis of amortized values for bonds in good standing and Dec. 31, 1932, market prices for stocks and defaulted bonds, surplus above all liabilities at the close of last year totaled $702,000.

Lakey Foundry and Machine.

Investors' Guide: 'Kindly give me some information on Lakey Foundry and Machine.—C. D. M.

Answer: Lakey Foundry and Machine company, incorporated in 1914, manufactures castings for water pumps and cylinder blocks and heads used in automobile, tractor, airplane, marine, and power plant motors. Continental Motors corporation is an important customer.

Sales during recent years have not been reported. Net loss for 1932, however, was $206,000. This compared with loss of $50,000 for 1931, loss of $122,000 for 1930, and net income of $249,000 for 1929.

Current assets at the close of 1932 totaled $197,000 and current liabilities were $154,000. Cash was only $13,000, while bank loans were $50,000. Profit and loss deficit was $92,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization is represented by 315,025 shares of no par stock.

ROCK ISLAND R.R. FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Plea Under New Law for Reorganization.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company—one of the nation's major rail systems—filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District court here yesterday. The action was taken with the consent of the board of directors, meeting in New York, when the road was unable to obtain a loan to meet interest payments of $2,259,710 which fall due between June 27 and July 1.

MARCUS L. BELL.

New Start as of June 8.

Federal Judge Wilkerson entered an order permitting the present management to continue the operation of the road. He ordered the company to start a new set of books as of June 8 and to submit a statement of assets and liabilities as of June 7 on August 31.

The petition was filed by Marcus L. Bell of New York, vice president and general counsel of the road, and by W. F. Dickinson, Chicago attorney. It bore the signature of W. H. Burns, a vice president. James E. Gorman, president of the road, is in New York.

The bankruptcy action was precipitated when the road was unable to obtain a loan either from the Railroad Credit corporation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It comes at a time when car loadings and earnings have been showing substantial gains along with the experience of other roads.

144 Millions Due Soon.

In addition to the interest charges which will be due shortly, the Rock Island must meet maturities totaling $144,303,700 between March 1, 1934, and April 1 of the same year, according to the petition.

A statement issued by the board of directors in New York yesterday said the Railroad Credit corporation had declined to make the road a $2,000,000 loan and both the interstate commerce commission and the Reconstruction Finance corporation had indicated that no further advances could be made on collateral now held for a current loan of a little over $13,700,000.

"With these facts in mind," the statement said, "it is the feeling of the board of directors that the greatest care should be taken to make no payments that might in any way be prejudicial to the rights of any particular class of security holders. The board has therefore authorized an application to the federal court at Chicago for the protection of the court under the provisions of the new law relating to railroad reorganization as being preferable to an equity receivership."

In Receivership in 1915.

This is the second time the road has had to reorganize. Receivers were appointed for the Rock Island on April 20, 1915, owing to its inability to finance about $6,000,000 bills and loans. The reorganization plan was announced under date of Nov. 14, 1916, and was carried out without foreclosure as of June 24, 1917. The receiver was discharged on July 27, 1917.

The road's funded debt totals $313,305,865, or 71 per cent of the outstanding capital, which also includes $29,422,189 of 7 per cent preferred stock; $25,127,300 of 6 per cent preferred stock and $74,359,723 of common stock.

Stewart-Warner Election Is Won by Smith Faction

Bankers Warn Tax Collection Reform Is Need

BY HOWARD WOOD.

A warning that tax collection machinery must be repaired in order to prevent complete breakdown of municipal governments is contained in the interim report of the municipal securities committee of the Investment Bankers' Association of America. The report was approved at the committee's meeting at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, but was not released until yesterday.

The committee also reports with satisfaction that the increase in municipal tax levies was halted last year and that tax spending this year shows a drop for the first time in many years.

"Drastic economies have been effected," the committee reports. "In this crisis our local governments are showing their determination to realign their resources to meet changing needs as well as in reducing the total spent. This commendable work must continue.

* *

"Taxpayers have become awakened generally in government of all kinds. Their coöperation with public officials has helped to bring about what has been accomplished.

"It is now the plain duty of those responsible for the administration of local governments to take advantage of the receptive mood of citizens for information by explaining their problems. Certain misapprehensions would be removed. A sympathetic understanding would not only preclude tax strikes but would result in a combined effort at tax collections.

"It is self-evident that these taxes must be paid if our health, lives, and property are to be safe.

"It is necessary to work over our tax collection machinery and tighten up its loose parts, rather than let it break down."

* *

The interest of the investment bankers in this matter is a direct one. They are the people who have sold billions of dollars' worth of the bonds of states, cities, villages, school districts, drainage districts, etc.

Large numbers of these taxing bodies have borrowed more than they can now collect in taxes to repay the investors who bought their bonds. The investment bankers seek to prevent further defaults and to help and clean up in the best possible way issues that have defaulted.

This same committee indorses the Wilcox bill now before the house of representatives. This bill, if enacted, would permit cities, states, and other taxing bodies to wash out part of their bonded debt under the terms of the new federal bankruptcy act, just as railroads are permitted to do.

Apparently these municipal bond experts have come to the conclusion that in some cases it will be impossible to get a hundred cents on the dollar and that the thing to do is to help the investor get what he can.

One member of the committee has made the observation that the passage of the Wilcox bill would make easier the separating of the sheep from the goats. Any municipality that resorted to such a measure of repudiation, he says, would be given a permanent black eye as far as investors are concerned, and bond houses would not even bid for its future bond issues.

* *

Formation of a bondholders' committee for the state of Arkansas highway and toll bridge bonds was announced last night. The committee is headed by William L. De Bost, president of the Union Dime Savings bank, New York, and includes the representatives of four of the nation's biggest life insurance companies.

Arkansas, the committee contends, is about to welch on its obligations. The state proposes to convert nearly 150 million dollars of its bonds into new bonds paying a lower rate of interest, whether the people who lent this money like it or not. The bonds are already in default.

The committee protests the "arbitrary exercise of sovereign power by the state whereby the prior rights of the holders of highway and toll bridge bonds are sacrificed for the benefit of others."

And in New York there is being organized a bondholders' protective committee for holders of the defaulted bonds of the city of Detroit.

Germany to Pay Foreign Debt in Blocked Marks After Today

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 7.—"Tomorrow night the government at my recommendation will order a partial postponement of transfer service payments on Germany's foreign obligations," Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, told THE TRIBUNE today. "This partial moratorium will not affect the sums protected by the standstill agreement totaling 1 billion 160 million dollars on which Germany will continue the payments agreed upon."

Dr. Schacht declared that "the delay does not mean that German debtors will cease paying their debts. On the contrary, whoever tries to dodge his fair obligations will be forced to fulfill them, but until the reserves of the Reichsbank are increased and the Reichsbank again is able to buy foreign currency payments will be made in marks. Creditors will be allowed to invest them and operate with them according to their own wishes but within the bounds set by the necessity of safeguarding the stability of German currency."

Perfect Plans at London Parley.

The details of a new standstill agreement will be worked out by Dr. Schacht and the German delegation with international creditors at the London economic conference.

American banks which granted loans to German firms and other debtors on the strength of reliable securities insist that service on their credits be continued on the most favorable terms possible. They do not want their loans to be lumped together with those banks which recklessly advanced funds to municipalities and others without taking the necessary precautions.

Dr. Schacht is aware of the importance of these remonstrances as he evidenced in a semi-official communique, which stated that "Germany will take no steps to alter the standstill agreements without consulting her creditors, since she does not want to endanger the reimbursement of credits which are the foundation of the greatest part of normal international trade, affecting, for instance, Germany's purchases of cotton, wheat, and copper in America.

Bankers Quarrel Among Selves.

"At present a financial struggle is being waged between American bankers themselves: those who have been careful of their investments in foreign countries and refuse to hold the bag for those providers of unsound municipal and other loans."

Dr. Schacht informed THE TRIBUNE that one of the most interesting constructive projects he will submit to the conference in London deals with "absolutely nonpolitical colonial trading companies," which are to earn the money to enable Europe to pay off part of her debts.

Dr. Schacht stresses that Germany is not demanding her colonies back or any other colonies, but holds that a well organized trading company could put hundreds of thousands to work in colonies who could, despite the depression, earn their living as well as enough surplus to pay off debts.

When the Heat Touches Par, Where's Boss?

The thermometer elbowed the stock averages out of first place in the attention of La Salle street yesterday, as everybody, from the mightiest bank president to the most lowly secretary of a bondholders' protective committee sought refuge from the heat. Only the secretaries were left to inform callers that Mr. Whoozis was "gone for the day."

* *

Because of the uncertainty regarding the new securities law brokers have been cautious about how they talk to their customers. One house instructed its customers' men that when asked for advice on a certain issue they should show the clients the book in which data on it is contained. The customers' man is not permitted by the house even to look up the information for his client.

An estimate has been made that if motorists throughout the country are sufficiently aroused to the attractions of A Century of Progress, the gasoline output of the nation may be increased 500,000,000 gallons. The Oil and Gas Journal is carrying on a campaign in the petroleum industry to stir interest in travel to the Fair as a means of offsetting an estimated 3.4 per cent reduction in consumption forecast by the economics committee of the American Petroleum Institute to take place in the next six months.

Trading Continues at Fast Pace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 7.—The rising pyramid of stock values was built higher in heavy trading today.

All departments reflected renewed constructive operations, and it was apparent that the market was in an improved technical condition as a result of the intermittent small setbacks of the last few days.

The opening revealed some unsettlement as yesterday's late profit taking movement was carried over, but new buying appeared quickly, reaching its peak in the late afternoon dealings. The entire list responded with gains ranging up to more than 3 points.

While a continuation of better business reports played an important part in maintaining the buying spirit, dollar depreciation appeared to be an equal, if not a greater, influence.

Turnover 6½ Millions.

The hard-worked ticker recorded a turnover of 6,640,000 shares. Blocks

Rush to Buy New U.S. Bonds; Premiums Certain on Issues

An enthusiastic response to the treasury's June 15 financing offering, totaling $900,000, enabled Secretary of the Treasury Woodin to close the books on the offering last night, approximately 24 hours after it was announced. However, subscriptions of $10,000 or less will be received until further notice. The announcement of the allotment will be made about Monday, the secretary said.

Reports from Wall street and federal reserve banks indicated that the issue had been heavily oversubscribed.

The coupons rates of 2¾ on $500,000,000 of 5 year notes and ¾ per cent on $400,000,000 of 9 months certificates were in line with the market and assured a substantial premium when trading begins.

Premium on Exchange Issue.

The June 15 maturing issue sold today at a premium of 14-32 bid, owing to the preferred allotment privilege given to holders. Bankers anticipated today that the 5 year notes will shortly advance to a premium of about ¾ point, and the ¾ per cent certificates to a premium of at least 10-32.

While the closing of the books was expected shortly, subscriptions of less than $10,000, according to Secretary Woodin's announcement, will continue to be received, thus enhancing the total size of the offering.

Government obligations amounting to slightly less than $374,000,000 mature on June 15, and interest payments due at that time amount to $104,000,000. The offerings now made will bring to the treasury funds exceeding the total of these two sums by about $422,000,000, which will be used for miscellaneous purposes.

Brings Debt to Peace Record.

These notes and certificates will bring the public debt up to about $22,400,000,000, the highest figure recorded since the war.

The necessity for the new money thus to be provided arises out of the demands upon the treasury of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the farm relief and mortgage acts, and other legislation now pending and forming part of the recovery program of the administration.

Chicago Building Permits Mount to $96,150 for Day

Issuance of ten building permits totaling $96,150 yesterday, set a new high mark for the city in many months. The largest was for $75,000 for the erection of a grandstand and bleachers at the Municipal airport for the Chicago Air Race corporation.

American Telephone April Income Under Last Year

Gross income of American Telephone and Telegraph company for April amounted to $6,740,001, compared with $7,803,149 in April, 1932, it was announced yesterday. Operating income was given as $549,094, against $717,254 in the like month of 1932.

POWER OUTPUT MAKES BIGGEST GAIN IN 3 YEARS

Nation's Record 5.8% Over Last Year.

Electric power output for the nation and for the Chicago district last week made further advances over output for the parallel week of 1932.

National production for the week ended June 3 showed a gain of 5.8 per cent in comparison with the total for the like week last year, according to the Edison Electric institute. This is the fifth successive week that output has surpassed that in the preceding year and the greatest increase of any of the five. The week's gain is the largest in more than three years.

Total Output Compared.

Total output for the week ended June 3 was 1,461,488,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,381,452,000 in the same week of 1932 and 1,493,923,000 in the week ended May 27.

The electricity output for the Chicago district for the week ended June 3 was 85,050,000 kilowatt hours, against 81,127,000 in the comparable

WHEAT FIRMER AS HEAT BRINGS CRISIS IN CROP

Damage Spreads Over Wide Western Area.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

There was no letup in the reports indicating crop deterioration in the winter wheat area of the west and southwest yesterday. There also was a marked increase in complaints regarding the probable outcome of the spring grain crop in South Dakota. While temperatures at many points in the southwest were lower than on Tuesday, there was no relief in the way of moisture.

The period of bloom and filling is the critical period of wheat plant growth when rainfall and heat are vital in determining crop yields, according to E. W. Snow of the Bartlett-Frazier Co. The wheat crop of Kansas and Nebraska, he says, is now in the critical state and present heat and drought will result in irreparable loss.

Wheat Grains Shrunken.

What is happening is that the wheat plant is forced into premature ripening, the grain permanently shrunken, and where just in bloom, the pollen is scorched so that heads fail to fill. Such damage cannot be remedied by any later weather change.

Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma have suffered severely in the last few months from unfavorable weather conditions. The three states seeded 15,500,000 acres of winter wheat last fall of which 7,500,000 acres were abandoned, due to prolonged drought. According to the June 1 private crop estimate the three states had a prospective wheat crop of 120,000,000 bushels, or 55,000,000 bushels under 1932 and compared with a 1927-31 average of 287,000,000 bushels.

The current heat wave, it is feared, will result in lowering the prospective wheat crop still further in the three states, although the loss in bushels may not be determined until harvest.

Prices Fractionally Higher.

The wheat market showed a firm undertone yesterday with the close ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, July showing the most strength. Cash interests were buyers of the nearby delivery, which at one time sold within 1½ cents of the September, compared with 1⅞ cents discount on Tuesday. July finished at 74 to 74⅛ cents, with September at 75⅜ to 75⅞ cents, and December at 78 to 78⅛ cents.

Selling of corn headed by a local professional disclosed a lack of support early and caused a break of 1½ cents from Tuesday's finish to 43⅛ cents. However, a rally to 44⅝ cents came later and the finish was at the top, with net gains of ¼ cent.

RISING BUSINESS, CHEAPER DOLLAR BOOST STOCKS

Trading Keeps Fast Pace; Turnover 6,640,000.

of 5,000 to 10,000 shares made their appearance on the tape in a steady stream.

Announcement of the Rock Island bankruptcy, following yesterday advance news of the Santa Fe preferred dividend slash, had a questionable effect on the railroad sector, and little or none elsewhere.

Issues of the Rock Island, of course, were among the carriers to lose ground. At their lows they were about 3 points off, but they snapped back in subsequent dealings to average one point down on the day.

Net gains, however, were far in the majority in railroads, leaders including Chesapeake & Ohio, Milwaukee, Lackawanna, New York Central and Pennsylvania.

Radio Puts On Spurt.

Capturing speculative imagination, communications issues were buoyant. White Western Union and International Telephone were strong at new highs. Radio reflected the most aggressive sponsorship in months and crossed the $10 level. Traders apparently presumed, or possibly heard, that Radio would be included in the proposed merger of communications companies.

For consistent group strength, nothing more could have been asked from the utilities. Appreciations ranging from fractions to more than 3 points were posted by such leaders as American & Foreign Power, American Power & Light, American Telephone, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Commonwealth & Southern, Standard Gas, North American and United Gas Improvement.

Mining Shares Rise.

The copper and mining sections hardened uniformly. Large activity and buoyancy was noted in American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge. Much attention was accorded silver mining issues, Cerro de Pasco climbed 3 at its best point.

Motors had another good day behind the leadership of General Motors, Chrysler, Reo and Packard, while a good market developed for aviations like Aviation corporation and United Aircraft.

Tobaccos and chemicals moved narrowly for the most part and oils were firm to slightly higher.

COTTON TRADERS BULLISH; PRICES A LITTLE HIGHER

Cotton traders are looking for inflation to advance prices and are buying on soft spots. At the same time bulges meet with moderate selling and the market is kept alive by uncertainty as to what the government will do in regard to acreage reduction.

Prices held around 6 to 8 points over the previous day's close for the first three hours yesterday and strength in stocks had a good influence. At the close futures in Chicago were 2 to 9 points net higher and other markets up 4 to 8 points.

Spots advanced 10 points in New York to 9.20 cents, and 5 points in New Orleans to 9.10 cents, 8.95 cents in Galveston, and 9.00 cents in Houston. Liverpool was 7 to 6 points net lower.

HOG PRICES SAG ON HEAT WAVE, HEAVY RECEIPTS

Under the weakening influence of sultry weather and burdensome receipts, the hog market sank slowly to the lowest price levels in almost a month, closing at the low point of the session.

The top and average prices stood lowest since May 12, at $4.80 and $4.65, respectively, both showing 25 cents loss since last Saturday. Current quotations are 55 to 60 cents under the high point of 1933 established three weeks ago, but are 75 to 80 cents higher than a month ago and $1.80 to $1.85 over the low day of the winter.

Several days of near-record high temperatures had the expected effect on the wholesale pork trade, which has turned sluggish and is proving a serious handicap to the hog market. The summer movement of packing sows is rapidly gaining momentum.

Cattle Receipts Fall.

Cattle receipts dropped off some and sellers managed to halt the break in prices. In spots there was evidence of strength, considering the heavy water fills. General action was improved and a better clearance was effected before the session ended.

The wholesale trade for beef continued slow, but byproducts were strong to higher. Hides advanced again, heavy steer hides at 12½ cents showing more than 200 per cent advance since February.

The tonnage of beef yesterday was lower than was apparent in receipts figures, due to the predominance of lighter weight cattle. No prime medium weight steers, the kinds that have been topping the market, arrived yesterday. Yearlings averaging 996 pounds sold at $7, the highest sale reported. Bulk of steers brought $5.25 to $6.25. Butcher stock sold steady. Calves were weak to 25 cents lower.

Lambs Average Lower.

While top grades of lambs and yearlings retained the recent sharp price gains, in-between and poorer classes ruled weak to 25 cents lower, resulting in a wider spread. New crop native lambs reached $8.75 and yearling stock sold at $7.25, both equaling the season's tops. Old ewes sold up to $3.25, the highest of the week.

Owing to the urgent call for wool some of the new crop lambs from California are coming on the market shorn, a very unusual sight. Formerly they were never clipped until they carried a full growth of fleece. One shipment of new crop shorn lambs sold at $7.50 to packers.

MEN.

WE WILL SIGN UP A FEW ADDITIONAL MEN IMMEDIATELY AT OUR CHICAGO BRANCH, WHO WILL UNDERTAKE A FIVE YEAR PROGRAM OF EARNINGS AT $51 PER WEEK WITH ADDITIONAL CASH PROFITS IN SAVINGS FOR THE FIVE YEAR PERIOD OF $11,5000.

This program of earnings and savings is something entirely new. It is a definite and practical plan for the man who wishes to cover the overhead expenses of himself and his family each week and save a substantial additional profit. It is to such men we offer this opportunity. We prefer married men with established homes. They must maintain this is a permanent arrangement and we are not looking for the man who is not serious minded about his future and about getting ahead in an honest, industrious manner.

You cannot make money here unless you earn it. But if you are capable of understanding and following instructions and if you are one who likes to practice to gain skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worker willing to pay a working price for success, then we recommend that you come in Thursday morning for an interview. It costs nothing to try. The training is free. We will furnish full equipment, with no deposit required. There is no expense.

We require men to be of good reputation, active, and alert. This is a straight forward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. We have stated the facts and requirements clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed Thursday morning, June 8 from 9 to 1 at each of the following three Electrolux, Inc., branch offices: Mr. Bell at 4259 Ryde Park Bank Bldg., 53d-st. and Lake Park Av.; Mr. Wright will be at 515 McGrohan Bldg., 1046 E. 63d-st.; and Mr. Woodlin will be at 329 Madison-Kedzie-av., at 8 S. Kedzie-av., as positions are available at each of these offices at present.

CHICAGO SWELTERS ON HOTTEST JUNE DAY IN HISTORY OF WEATHER BUREAU AS MERCURY CLIMBS TO 100 DEGREES; THOUSANDS CROWD BEACHES AND PARKS, SEEKING RELIEF; SHOWERS MAY ARRIVE TODAY. Frank Novak giving Bernard Applebaum a shower of water from his play bucket at the Oak street beach. Center: New arrivals at the Diversey beach dashing into the water to get cooled off after hot trip to the lake front. At right: Ann Duresa combing hair of her friend, Jean Przybylek, after cooling dip at Diversey beach. Before yesterday the highest June 7 thermometer reading recorded was 92 in 1914. The previous record for the entire month was 99 degrees, set on the 30th in 1913. The all time heat record for Chicago is only 103 degrees. (Story on page 1.)

IMAGINE IT! THIS WEATHER PICTURE WAS TAKEN IN CHICAGO ELEVEN WEEKS AGO YESTERDAY. Scene in the suburb of Flossmoor on March 22 of this year, when the entire metropolitan area was covered with sleet and ice and whipped by a raw, cold wind. The girl is Miss Rose Cowing. Yesterday was a different story, with the mercury at 100 degrees and the beaches crowded with perspiring crowds seeking relief from heat. (Story on page 1.)
